CONTENTS

List of tables, figures and boxes xvi
List of contributors xxi
Preface and acknowledgements xxv
Guide to online instructor resources xxvii

Introduction: The origins and changing agendas of international relations 1
Richard Devetak
Introduction 2
What are international relations? 2
International Relations as a discipline: Traditions, origins and evolution 5
Traditions of thought 6
Origins and evolution of the discipline 9
Globalising International Relations 11
Changing agendas: Theory and practice 12
From states, war and law to globalisation and global challenges 14
Conclusion 17
Discussion questions 17
Further reading 17

PART 1 THEORIES OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS 20

1 International Relations theory in an age of critical diversity 22
Jim George
Introduction 22
The need for theory 23
The search for (scientific) certainty in International Relations: Issues of ontology and epistemology 24
Mainstream International Relations theory 25
Liberalism, realism and the war in Ukraine 27
The age of critical diversity 29
Conclusion 32
Discussion questions 32
Further reading 32

2 Liberalism 34
Liane Hartnett
Introduction 34
What is liberalism? 35
Liberalism and empire 37

The interwar years 39
The Cold War and the 'new world order' 41
Conclusion 44
Discussion questions 44
Further reading 45

3 Realism 46
Michele Chiaruzzi
Introduction 46
Who are the realists? Genesis of a tradition of thought 47
What is realism? Synthesising theory and practice 54
Conclusion 56
Discussion questions 57
Further reading 57

4 Marxism and critical theory 58
Jim George and Richard Devetak
Introduction 58
Historical and intellectual context: Marx and the critique of capitalism 59
Marxism as historical materialism 60
Marxism in International Relations 61
Critical Theory and International Relations 62
Gramscian critical theory 66
Explaining the current political order: Hegemony, organic crisis and 'interregnum' 67
Conclusion 68
Discussion questions 69
Further reading 69

5 Feminism 70
Katrina Lee-Koo
Introduction 70
Feminist interventions into international relations 71
The feminist International Relations agenda 72
Challenging the masculine bias in International Relations 74
Where are the women? 75
Reconstructing international relations through analysing gender relations 76
Gendered institutions 77
Feminist theories of International Relations 78
Conclusion: What does feminism add to our study of International Relations? 81
Discussion questions 81
Further reading 82

6 Postmodernism 83
Roland Bleiker
Introduction 83
Postmodernity as a new historical period 84
Postmodernism as a critical way of understanding modernity 85
The emergence of the third debate in International Relations scholarship 89
Polemical critiques and the legacy of postmodernism 91
Conclusion 92
Discussion questions 93
Further reading 94

7 Constructivism 95
Patrick Thaddeus Jackson and Sujin Heo
Introduction 95
What does constructivism do? Identity and international institutions 96
Constructivism's understanding of change in the international system 101
Identity and governance 104
International conflict and security communities 105
Conclusion 106
Discussion questions 107
Further reading 107

8 Postcolonialism 108
Giorgio Shani
Introduction 108
Postcolonialism in an historical context 110
Key concepts, questions and thinkers 111
Postcolonial International Relations? 113
Conclusion 117
Discussion questions 118
Further reading 118

PART 2 INTERNATIONAL HISTORY 120

9 The global expansion of international society 122
Shogo Suzuki
Introduction 122
International society and its expansion: Insights from the English School of International Relations 124
Postcard: Indigeneity and IR by Mary Graham and Morgan Brigg 125
The expansion of international society 127

Civilisation at gunpoint: Questioning the rosy vision of the expansion of international society 130
The expansion of international society: An unfinished project? 132
Conclusion 134
Discussion questions 134
Further reading 135

10 From the 'Great War' to World War II 136
Louise Fawcett
Introduction 136
International history and International Relations 137
After World War II: The Paris Peace Conference 139
The League of Nations 141
The Soviet Union in International Relations 143
The United States and interwar order 144
The Great Depression 145
Asia's rise 146
Hitler's world 146
Appeasement and the roads to World War II 147
Conclusion: Reflections on the 'great' interwar era 148
Discussion questions 148
Further reading 149

11 The Cold War and after 150
Nick Bisley
Introduction 150
The Cold War begins: 1945–53 151
The Cold War spreads: 1953–75 154
Détente and the 'second' Cold War: 1975–85 156
The end of the Cold War: 1985–91 156
The Cold War and International Relations 158
Postcard: Rising powers and transformations in the international order by Tom Chodor 160
Conclusion: Echoes of the Cold War 162
Discussion questions 164
Further reading 165

PART 3 THE TRADITIONAL AGENDA: STATES, WARS AND LAW 166

12 The modern state 168
Richard Devetak
Introduction 168
What is a state? 168

Origins of the modern state 171
The idea of the sovereign state 172
The triumph of the sovereign state: State-building as war-making 175
Whither the sovereign state? 179
Conclusion 180
Discussion questions 180
Further reading 180

13 Nations and nationalism 181
Gavin Mount

Introduction 181
Terminological debates 182
How nationalism shaped modern states and international society 184
Understanding nations and nationalism in International Relations 187
New nationalisms in contemporary world politics 188
Postcard: Nationalism, sovereignty and disintegration in the European Union by Ben Wellings 190
Pandemic nationalism 192
Conclusion 193
Discussion questions 194
Further reading 194

14 Security 195
Anthony Burke

Introduction 195
Security and insecurity in the early twenty-first century 195
Defining security 197
Key theories and concepts 198
Conclusion 205
Discussion questions 205
Further reading 205

15 Arms control and disarmament 207
Marianne Hanson

Introduction 207
What is arms control? What is disarmament? Why do states engage in these practices? 208
Arms control during the Cold War 209
Arms control after the Cold War 210
New initiatives in arms control: Conventional weapons 212
Arms control and disarmament in International Relations theory 214
Nuclear weapons: A special case? 215
Conclusion 219
Discussion questions 220
Further reading 220

16 The ethics and laws of war 221
Alex J. Bellamy
Introduction 221
When is it right to fight (jus ad bellum)? 222
How should war be waged (jus in bello)? 225
Revisionism: Two judgements or one? 228
Jus in bello dilemma: Suicide car bombs 230
Conclusion 231
Discussion questions 232
Further reading 232

17 International law 233
Sarah Percy
Introduction 233
Sources of international law 234
Debates about international law 236
Contemporary examples of international law 240
Conclusion 243
Discussion questions 244
Further reading 244

18 Diplomacy 245
Geoffrey Wiseman and Paul Sharp
Introduction 245
Defining diplomacy: What is diplomacy and who are the diplomats? 246
The evolution of diplomacy 246
Trends 253
Diplomacy and the study of International Relations 255
Conclusion 256
Discussion questions 256
Further reading 257

19 The United Nations 258
Ian Hurd
Introduction 258
The United Nations in the Charter 259
The United Nations' principal organs 260
The United Nations as actor, forum and resource 266
Conclusion 268
Discussion questions 268
Further reading 269

PART 4 THE NEW AGENDA: GLOBALISATION AND GLOBAL CHALLENGES 270

20 Non-state actors: A sociology of International Relations? 272

James Goodman

Introduction 272
Multinational corporations: Transnationalised material power 274
International non-governmental organisations: Transnationalised normative power 278
Conclusion 281
Discussion questions 283
Further reading 283

21 Religion and secularism 284

Elizabeth Shakman Hurd

Introduction 284
Religion and International Relations 285
History of a concept: Secularism 287
Secularism and world politics 288
Rereading revolution: Politics of secularism in Iran 291
Beyond the politics of 'secular versus religious'? 292
Conclusion 293
Discussion questions 294
Further reading 294

22 Global economic institutions 296

Marc Williams

Introduction 296
Perspectives on global economic institutions 297
Global economic institutions and managing the global economy 298
Global economic institutions and contemporary challenges 304
Conclusion 307
Discussion questions 308
Further reading 308

23 Global trade and finance 309

Maryanne Kelton, Leonard Seabrooke and Annika Stenström

Introduction 309
Who is afraid of the global economic system? 310
The rise and fall of the Bretton Woods system 310
Over-lending and trade conflicts: 1970s to 1980s 312
Talking about architecture: 1990s to 2000s 314
Credit booms, liquidity busts and low growth: The GFC to the present 315

Conclusion 318
Discussion questions 319
Further reading 319

24 Global poverty, inequality and development 320
Heloise Weber
Introduction 320
Global poverty and inequality: Politics of development 321
A relational approach to global poverty, inequality and development 323
The 2030 Sustainable Development Goals in context 327
Conclusion 330
Discussion questions 331
Further reading 331

25 Globalisation and its critics 333
Steven Slaughter
Introduction 333
Understanding globalisation 334
Public critiques of globalisation 338
Scholarly critiques of globalisation 342
Conclusion 343
Discussion questions 343
Further reading 344

26 Terrorism 345
Audrey Kurth Cronin
Introduction 345
When and why did this issue become important to the study of International Relations? 346
What are the major issues and debates in the study of terrorism? 348
What are the most useful concepts for understanding and analysing this topic? 352
What is at stake in this issue? Why and to whom does it matter? 356
Conclusion 357
Discussion questions 357
Further reading 357

27 The international politics of cyberspace 358
Tim Aistrope and Constance Duncombe
Introduction 358
From ARPANET to the World Wide Web 359
Cybersecurity and its limits 361
Tweeting International Relations 365

The rise of internet sovereignty 368
Conclusion 369
Discussion questions 369
Further reading 369

28 The changing character of warfare 370
Robert Ayson

Introduction 370
The diversity of warfare 371
Postcard: Infotech at war: Mapping the new intersection between media and conflict by Sebastian Kaempf 373
War as violence 375
War as organised violence 376
War and politics 377
War as a case of between 379
War as large scale 381
Postcard: Women in combat: The role of gender bias and myth in security policy by Megan Mackenzie 382
Conclusion 384
Discussion questions 384
Further reading 385

29 Post-conflict state-building 386
Beth K. Greener

Introduction 386
Understanding post-conflict state-building 387
The rise of post-conflict state-building 387
State-building and nation-building 390
The ideological politics of post-conflict state-building 391
Unpacking the post-conflict state-building agenda 392
The future of post-conflict state-building 395
Conclusion 396
Discussion questions 396
Further reading 397

30 Humanitarianism and armed intervention 398
Thomas G. Weiss

Introduction 398
The origins of humanitarianism 399
A short history of humanitarian intervention 402
The responsibility to protect 405
Postcard: Responsibility to Protect (R2P) and prevention of mass atrocities: Translating an emerging political norm from words to deeds by Noel Morada 408

Conclusion 412
Discussion questions 413
Further reading 413

31 Human rights 415
Anthony J. Langlois

Introduction 415
The historical development of an idea 417
The human rights idea today 419
The politics of liberal universalism 420
The future of human rights 424
Conclusion 425
Discussion questions 426
Further reading 426

32 Global public health 427
Adam Kamradt-Scott

Introduction 427
Why is global health important to the study of international relations? 428
What are the major issues and debates? 429
What are the most useful concepts for understanding and analysing global public health? 432
How will recent developments change our understanding of global public health? 434
Conclusion 437
Discussion questions 438
Further reading 438

33 Migration and refugees 439
Sara E. Davies and Thu Nguyen

Introduction 439
States, refugees and immigrants 440
Controlling migration: A brief history 440
The origins and purposes of refugee law 442
The distribution of refugees around the world 445
The present situation 449
Conclusion 451
Discussion questions 451
Further reading 451

34 Global environmental politics 453
Robyn Eckersley

Introduction 453
The rise of the environment as a global political problem 454
The study of global environmental politics 454

Key environmental discourses 455
International Relations theories of global environmental politics 460
Conclusion 464
Discussion questions 464
Further reading 465

35 Climate change 466
Peter Newell
Introduction 466
A brief history of climate change politics 468
The organisation of the negotiations 471
Explaining the global politics of climate change 473
Postcard: Planet politics by Stefanie Fishel and Anthony Burke 475
Conclusion 476
Discussion questions 478
Further reading 478

36 The futures of International Relations 479
Daniel R. McCarthy
Introduction 479
International Relations and complex global challenges 480
New directions in International Relations theory 482
Utopia, dystopia and the futures of International Relations 485
Conclusion 488
Discussion questions 488
Further reading 489

References 490
Index 549
Figure and text acknowledgements 563