Contents

List of Figures xii
Preface xxi
Acknowledgments xxiii

Section I Foundations of Historical Archaeology 1

1 What Is Historical Archaeology? 3

Dividing Time in Archaeology 4

Defining Historical Archaeology 7

Historical Archaeology as the Study of a Period of History 8

Ethnohistory 10

Oral History 11

Historical Archaeology Today 12

Historical Archaeology Is Multidisciplinary 16

Historical Archaeology Focuses on the World after about 1500 CE to the Present 18

Historical Archaeology Seeks to Understand the Global Nature of Modern Life 18

The Goals of Historical Archaeology 21

Documenting Past Lifeways 21

The Process of Modernization 22

Preservation and Site Interpretation 24

Site Visit 25

Johnny Ward's Ranch, Arizona, United States, 1859–1903 25

2 A Brief History of Historical Archaeology 29

The Important and the Famous (1855 to the 1960s) 29

Theoretical Foundations 35

Historical Archaeology of People and Communities (the 1960s to Today) 38

People "Without History" 42
Contemporary Historical Archaeology 43
Indigenous and Descendant Connections 48
Site Visit 49
Fort Corchaug, Long Island, New York, ca. 1630–1660 49

3 Culture, History, and Archaeological Sites 53
Culture and Society 54
Sociocultural Change 56
Small-Scale Analysis 57
The Major Site Types of Historical Archaeology 58
Domestic Sites 59
Industrial Sites 62
Military Sites 63
Cemeteries and Burials 69
Special-Purpose Sites 70
Multipurpose Sites 72
Maritime and Underwater Sites 72
Site Visit 74
Koromio, Kenya, Africa, Nineteenth Century 74

4 Time and Space 79
Time in Historical Archaeology 79
Relative Dating 80
Dating with Objects of Known Date 85
Formula Dating 87
Dendrochronology 92
Absolute (Radiometric) Dating 92
Space in Historical Archaeology 93
Spatial Scales in Historical Archaeology 95
GIS in Historical Archaeology 100
Site Visit 102
Hedley Lodge, Quebec City, Canada, 1808–1968/1970 102

Section II Doing Historical Archaeology 107

5 Finding and Surveying Sites in Historical Archaeology 109
Known Sites 110
Accidental Discoveries 111

Finding Sites in Historical Archaeology 114
Using Maps and Aerial Images to Post-1500 CE Sites 114
Archaeological Surveying 120
Pedestrian Survey 121
Sampling 122
Subsurface Surveying 123
Metal Detectors 124
Magnetometers 125
Magnetic Susceptibility 125
Direct-Current Electrical Resistivity Tomography (ERT) 127
Ground-Penetrating Radar 127
Soil Phosphate Analysis 129
Lidar 130
Dowsing? 130
Site Visit 132
St. John's Freehold, Maryland, 1638–ca. 1715 132

6 Before Excavation: Documents, Interviews, Buildings 137
Historical Research and the Analysis of Documents 137
The Historian's Craft and Historical Archaeology 139
Oral Interviewing 146
Architectural Fieldwork 150
Detailed Architectural Surveys 151
Other Architectural Research 154
Site Visit 158
Leeds Union Workhouse, West Yorkshire, England, Nineteenth Century 158

7 Fieldwork and Laboratory Analysis in Historical Archaeology 161
The Archaeological Process 161
The Steps in Archaeological Research 164
Classification and Grouping in Historical Archaeology 181
Site Visit 185
Randall and Sally McCoy Homestead, Kentucky, 1850–1888 185

8 Interpreting Artifacts in Historical Archaeology 189
Artifacts and Material Culture 190
Interpreting Artifacts 191
Artifacts as Historical Documents 192

Ceramic Makers' Marks or Bottom Marks 193
Bottle Makers' Marks 195
Technological Attributes as Historical Markers 198
Artifacts as Commodities 201
Using Historical Records in Commodity Research 202
Using Artifacts in Commodity Research 206
Artifacts as Ideas 207
Site Visit 211
Jesus College, Cambridge University, England, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries 211

9 Public Historical Archaeology 215
Heritage and Preservation 215
The Development of Public Archaeology in the United States 220
Cultural Resource Management 221
Some Pros and Cons of CRM Archaeology 224
Public Education 227
Site Visit 233
Fairfield Foundation, Virginia, Public Education Program 233

Section III Interpretation in Historical Archaeology 237

10 Theoretical Perspectives in Historical Archaeology 239
Humanistic Historical Archaeology 240
Scientific Historical Archaeology 242
Humanistic Science in Historical Archaeology 248
Historical Structuralism 248
Critical Materialism 250
Interpretive Historical Archaeology 253
Historical Archaeology as Social Justice 255
Site Visit 261
The Tihosuco Project, Yucatán, Mexico, 1847–1901 261

11 The Historical Archaeology of Groups 263
Social Stratification and Identity 265
The Marginalized 266
Australian Convicts 266
The Enslaved 272

Ethnic Identity 278
Italians in Brazil 279
The Metís in Western Canada 281
Immigrants in Elsinore, Denmark 282
Site Visit 285
São João Batista, Brazil, Early Sixteenth Century to the Present 285

12 Historical Archaeology and the Wider World 289
Isolation and Connection 291
Scale 292
Colonialism 294
Globalization 297
Chinese Export Porcelain in the World 298
Spanish Olive Jars in the World 302
Cut-Sponge-Decorated Whitewares in the World 305
Site Visit 308
Bras d'Eau Plantation, Mauritius, 1786–1868 308

13 Historical Archaeology Today 313
The Contemporary Past 313
Campus Archaeology 315
The Historical Archaeology of Water 318
Collaboration and Partnership Building 324
The Future of Historical Archaeology 328
Being Educated in Historical Archaeology 331
Site Visit 332
The Stewart Indian School, Nevada, 1890–2020 332

Glossary 337
Further Reading of Sources 345
Index 358