

10. Key Projects for	10.
11. Building Connections & Internal Improvements	11.
12. Our Greatest Asset: Our People	12.
TABLE OF CONTENTS
Author Profiles .....	XIII
Foreword .....	XIX
Introduction .....	XXI
FOUNDATIONS AND PHILOSOPHY .....	1
Learning from the Past and Preparing for our Future: An Overview of the Formation and Growth of the Institute for the Study of Conflict Transformation and it's Evolution to Today .....	3
1. A New Idea and a New Connection .....	3
2. The Early Days of the Promise .....	4
3. The Institute is Formed .....	5
3.1 Board and Fellows .....	6
3.2 Practice Enrichment Initiative (PEI) .....	6
3.3 Publications .....	6
3.4 Symposia .....	7
3.5 Research .....	7
4. Years of Growth and Expansion .....	7
4.1 Conferences .....	7
4.2 The Second Edition .....	8
4.3 The Sourcebook .....	8
4.4 New Pictures of Practice .....	9
4.5 Reaching Beyond Mediation to Dialogue .....	9
4.6 Reaching New Parts of the World .....	9
5. Stepping into the Future .....	10
5.1 ISCT Home .....	10
5.2 Growing Connections .....	10
5.3 Training and Process Development .....	10
5.4 2016 U.S. Conference .....	11
5.5 Online Presence .....	12
6. Re-envisioning .....	12
6.1 The Process .....	12
6.2 Our Vision: Strengthening Identity, Governance, and Financial Sustainability .....	12
7. Strengthening Our Identity and Governance .....	13
8. Becoming a Financially Robust Organization .....	13
9. Fulfilling Our Vision: The Power of Collective Effort .....	14

10. Key Projects for 2022–2023 . . . . . 14
 11. Building Connections & Internal Improvements . . . . . 14
 12. Our Greatest Asset: Our People . . . . . 15

Taking Recognition Seriously: Social Ontology of Transformative Practice . . . . . 17

1. Introduction . . . . . 17
 2. Beyond Respect: Exploring the Complex Dimensions of
 Recognition in Transformative Practice . . . . . 18
 3. The Concept of Recognition in Transformative Theory . . . . . 20
 3.1 A Connection Between Empowerment and Recognition . . . . . 22
 4. The Concept of Recognition . . . . . 24
 4.1 Taxonomy of the Concept of Recognition . . . . . 24
 4.2 Layers of Recognition: From “Recognizing” to “Forming a Personal Relation” . . . . . 24
 4.2.1 Descriptive (Identifying) Recognition . . . . . 25
 4.2.2 Recognition of Normative Content (Rules, Values, Reasons) . . . . . 25
 4.2.3 Institutional Recognition . . . . . 25
 4.2.4 Recognition as an Intersubjective Attitude
 Toward the Person . . . . . 25
 4.2.5 Multidimensional Forms of Relational
 (Intersubjective) Recognition . . . . . 26
 4.2.6 Reciprocal (Dialogical) Recognition vs.
 Unilateral Recognition . . . . . 26
 4.3 The Origin of the Concept of Recognition . . . . . 28
 5. Moral Conflict Theory and the Need for Mutual Recognition . . . . . 28
 6. Recognition in Fichte . . . . . 30
 6.1 An Illustrative Examples of Fichte’s Recognition in Conflict . . . . . 31
 6.1.1 Recognition in the Family Context . . . . . 31
 6.1.2 Recognition in a Corporate/Business Context . . . . . 32
 6.1.3 Recognition in a Community Dispute . . . . . 32
 6.2 Fichte’s Summoning to Freedom as a Foundation for
 Recognition in Transformative Practice . . . . . 33
 6.3 Fichte’s Interpretation of Recognition and Why It Matters . . . . . 33
 6.4 Recognition as Co-Authorship . . . . . 34
 7. Recognition in Hegel . . . . . 34
 7.1 Purely Intersubjective Recognition . . . . . 35
 7.2 The Deontological Dimension (Authority and Rules) . . . . . 35
 7.3 The Axiological Dimension (Values) . . . . . 36
 7.4 Implications for Transformative Practice . . . . . 37
 7.4.1 Identify Signs of Weakness in Both Dimensions. . . . . 37
 7.4.2 Identify Instances of Self-Absorption in Both Dimensions . . . . . 38

7.4.3	To Assist Parties in Understanding Their Actual Needs (Empowerment) . . . . .	38
7.4.4	Encourage a Move toward More “Unconditional” Recognition . . . . .	38
7.5	An Illustrative Examples of Hegel’s Interpersonal Recognition in Conflict . . . . .	39
7.5.1	Family Cottage Dispute . . . . .	39
7.5.2	Workplace Dispute . . . . .	39
7.6	Why the Axiological and Deontological Dimensions Matter in Transformative Practice . . . . .	40
7.7	Constitutive and Responsive Conceptions of Recognition . . . . .	40
7.7.1	The Constitutive Conception of Recognition . . . . .	41
7.7.2	An Illustrative Example of Constitutive Conception of Recognition in Practice . . . . .	43
7.7.3	A Responsive Conception of Recognition . . . . .	45
7.7.4	An Illustrative Example of the Responsive Conception of Recognition in Practice: The Conflict Between Local Residents and Ukrainian Refugees . . . . .	46
7.7.5	How Can Understanding Responsive Recognition Benefit a Transformative Practitioner? . . . . .	48
7.7.6	Employing the Responsive Recognition Model in Facilitated Dialogue . . . . .	49
8.	What Fichte and Hegel’s Different Views on Recognition Mean for Transformative Practice . . . . .	51
9.	Recognition as a Fundamental Element of Transformative Theory and Practice – Final Thoughts . . . . .	53
9.1	The Relationship Between Empowerment and Recognition . . . . .	53
9.1.1	Dimension of Authority (Previously “Deontological”) . . . . .	54
9.1.2	Dimension of Value (Previously “Axiological”) . . . . .	54
9.2	The Transformative Role of Empowerment and Recognition . . . . .	55
9.2.1	The Risks of Empowerment Without Recognition . . . . .	55
9.2.2	The Risks of Recognition Without Empowerment . . . . .	55
9.3	The Dialectic Between Empowerment and Recognition . . . . .	56
10.	Conclusion . . . . .	56
	Resources . . . . .	58
Living in a Relational World: Dialogue as Response and Responsibility . . . . .		63
1.	Introduction . . . . .	63
2.	What Is a Relational Worldview? . . . . .	64
3.	Individualism, Rationality and Modernity . . . . .	65
4.	A Relational World . . . . .	70
5.	Dialogue as Response and Responsibility . . . . .	76

6.	Implications for Transformative Practice .....	77
	Resources .....	79
Self-Determination in Transformative Practice: The Art of Mirrors and Lights .....
	1. Introduction .....	81
	2. Confusing Situations .....	82
	3. Self-Determination Theory .....	83
	4. Applying Mirrors and Lights to the Hypotheticals .....	84
	5. Conclusion .....	85
	Resources .....	85
Transformative Premises 2.0 .....
	1. Introduction .....	87
	2. What Premises Are and Why They Matter? .....	88
	3. Premises About People in Conflict .....	89
	4. Premises About Power and Culture In Conflict .....	90
	5. Premises About Identities In Conflict .....	93
	6. Premises About People in Groups .....	96
	7. Conclusion .....	98
	Resources .....	99
	Appendix – Premises 2.0 .....	99
TECHNIQUES AND INTERVENTIONS .....
Capturing Behavior in Enhanced Reflection .....
	1. Introduction .....	105
	2. Power of Reflection: How It Is Thought to Benefit Parties .....	106
	3. Mehrabian's Study & Its Implication for Mediation .....	107
	4. Enhanced Reflections .....	109
	4.1 Definition of Enhanced Reflections .....	109
	4.2 Do Enhanced Reflections Increase Speakers' Comprehension or Are They Unnecessary? .....	109
	4.3 Are Speakers' Behavioral Messages as Consciously Purposeful as Spoken Messages, and Does That Matter? .....	110
	4.4 Some Examples of Enhanced Reflection .....	110
	4.5 Benefits Parties Can Derive from Enhanced Reflections .....	114
	4.6 Potential Hazards of Enhanced Reflections .....	115
	4.7 Possible Impairments from Excluding Behavior from Reflections .....	116
	4.8 Some Guides for Mitigating Risks .....	117
	5. Distillation Of our Findings: Informal Survey of Current State of Use of Enhanced Reflection among Mediators .....	120

6.	Conclusion	122
	Resources	124
Navigating the Summaries in Transformative Mediation		127
1.	Introduction	127
2.	Definition of the Summary	128
2.1	2WH Approach for Correct Summarizing	128
2.2	Functional Linguistic Lens	130
2.3	Methodology of the Research	135
2.4	Identification of the Summaries	137
2.5	Identification of Particular Issues	138
2.6	Grouping of the Issues	141
2.7	Timing of the Summary	145
2.8	Different Types of Summaries	147
2.9	Discussion and Conclusion	149
3.	Why, When, and How: Revisiting the 2WH Framework	150
4.	Relationship to Prior Literature	151
5.	Practical Implications	152
6.	Limitations and Future Research	153
7.	Conclusion	154
	Resources	155
The Check-In Technique in Transformative Practice		157
1.	Introduction	157
2.	Freedom, Choice and Self-Determination: The Transformative Framework	158
3.	Defining the Check-In Technique and Its Purpose	162
4.	How Check-Ins Foster Empowerment and Recognition	164
5.	Typologies of Check-In Interventions	168
5.1	Functional Dimensions of Check-Ins	168
5.2	Structural Dimensions of Check-Ins	173
5.2.1	Open-Scope vs. Focused-Scope Check-Ins	174
5.2.2	Primary vs. Complementary Check-Ins	177
5.2.3	Open-Ended vs. Closed-Ended Check-Ins	179
6.	Practitioner Dilemmas and Real-Time Decision-Making in Check-Ins	184
7.	Phenomenological, Ethical, and Agential Dimensions of Check-In	190
8.	Conclusion	194
	Resources	195

AREAS OF PRACTICE .....	199
Transformative Conflict Coaching: Notes from the Lab .....	201
1. Introduction to Transformative Conflict Coaching .....	201
2. History and Development of TCC .....	203
3. The Promise of Conflict Coaching .....	203
3.1 Foundations of TCC .....	205
4. How TCC Coaches Practice .....	209
5. An Empowered Partnership: Building a Relational Context .....	211
6. From “What’s the matter?” to “What matters?”: Exploring the Situation and Gaining Insight .....	213
6.1 Envisioning Action .....	219
6.2 Reflective Practice .....	219
6.3 Topics for continuing and future research .....	221
Resources .....	223
Introduction to Transformative Dialogue: Transformative Practice with Group, Community, and Organizational Conflicts .....	227
1. What is Transformative Dialogue? .....	227
1.1 Purpose and Goals .....	229
2. Premises, Principles, and Practices .....	230
2.1 Premises .....	230
2.2 Principles .....	232
2.3 Practices .....	232
3. Practicing with Integrity .....	233
3.1 The Facilitator’s Orientation .....	234
3.2 Moral Grounding Matters .....	234
3.3 Facilitator Roles .....	235
4. Overview of the Process Components .....	236
5. Engaging with the Community .....	236
6. Holding One-on-One Meetings .....	237
7. Holding Small and Large Group Meetings .....	237
8. Monitoring and Evaluating the Process .....	238
9. How Transformative Dialogues Are Started .....	238
10. Co-Creating the Process with Groups and Communities .....	239
11. Attending to Four Levels of Group Conflict Dynamics .....	240
11.1 Group and Community Conflict and Societal and Structural Factors .....	241
12. Developing a Transformative Dialogue Practice .....	242
13. Conclusion .....	243
Resources .....	243

The Transformative Approach in Practice: The MEDUC Model for Family Mediation, Coaching and Management .....	247
1. Service Fully Funded by Public Resources .....	248
2. Transformative Family Center .....	249
3. Child-Inclusive Mediation Center .....	253
3.1 Process Overview for CIM at MEDUC (MEDUC, 2023): .....	254
4. A Service Built on Reflective Practice Principles .....	257
5. Coaching Laboratory Workplace .....	260
5.1 Framework for Transformative Coaching .....	260
5.2 Key Principles of Ethical and Good Practice in Coaching at MEDUC .....	261
6. Incubator for Future Transformative Practitioners .....	263
7. Workplace Based on the Transformative Management Concept .....	264
7.1 Foundational Assumptions Across Contexts .....	265
7.2 Fostering MEDUC Culture of Autonomy and Mutual Respect .....	267
7.3 Transformative Strategies for Group Facilitation and Communication in MEDUC .....	269
7.4 Practical key Components of Transformative Management at MEDUC .....	272
7.4.1 Recruitment of New Employees .....	272
7.4.2 Managing in a Power-Driven Environment .....	273
7.4.3 Decision-Making Processes .....	273
7.4.4 Redefining Workplace Norms .....	274
7.4.5 Professional Development .....	274
7.4.6 Shared Responsibility for Organizational Future .....	275
7.4.7 Ending Collaborations .....	275
7.4.8 Conflict Resolution (Internal and External) .....	276
8. Conclusion .....	276
Resources .....	278
Mediator Ethical Challenges: Transformative Responses .....	281
Navigating Directive Impulses in Transformative Mediation: Ethical Tensions and Mediator Reflexivity .....	291
1. Introduction .....	291
2. Methodology .....	294
3. Findings: Thematic Analysis of Directive Impulses in Practice .....	296
3.1 Theme 1: Ethical Tension Between Directive Impulses and Party Self-Determination .....	296
3.1.1 Definition of Theme .....	296
3.1.2 Illustrative Reflections .....	297
3.1.3 Synthesis with Literature .....	298

3.2	Theme 2: Bias and Self-Absorption as Sources of Directive Impulses	299
3.2.1	Definition of Theme	299
3.2.2	Illustrative Reflections	299
3.2.3	Synthesis with Literature	300
3.3	Theme 3: Power Imbalances and Systemic Constraints Prompting Directive Impulses	301
3.3.1	Definition of Theme	301
3.3.2	Illustrative Reflections	302
3.3.3	Synthesis with Literature	304
3.4	Theme 4: Timing and Framing of Interventions – The Art of Staying Non-Directive	305
3.4.1	Definition of Theme	305
3.4.2	Illustrative Reflections	306
3.4.3	Synthesis with Literature	308
3.5	Theme 5: Self-Regulation and Withdrawal as Ethical Action	309
3.5.1	Definition of Theme	309
3.5.2	Illustrative Reflections	309
3.5.3	Synthesis with Literature	311
3.6	Theme 6: Voice and Choice as Mediator Orientation and Ethical Compass	312
3.6.1	Definition of Theme	312
3.6.2	Illustrative Reflections	312
3.6.3	Synthesis with Literature	314
3.7	Theme 7: Navigating Systemic Constraints and Institutional Power	315
3.7.1	Definition of Theme	315
3.7.2	Illustrative Reflections	315
3.7.3	Synthesis with Literature	317
4.	Discussion	318
4.1	Implications for Practice	320
4.2	Conclusion and Implications for Transformative Practice	321
5.	Conclusion	322
	Resources	323