

Contents

KNIHOVNA UP Olomouc

Značka:

215: 020 / 167

Series Editor's Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
Maps	xiv
Introduction	1
Preludes: Before the Middle Ages	6
Geography	7
Ancient Legacies	8
A Schema of the Medieval Genesis of Europe	13
1 The Conception of Europe (Fourth to Eighth Centuries)	14
Christianization, Saint Augustine	15
The Cultural Founders of the Middle Ages	16
Gregory the Great	18
Invasions and Acculturation	20
Government by Bishops and Monks	22
New Heroes: Saints	23
A New Way of Measuring Time	24
The Remodeling of Space	25
Two Hostile Poles, Byzantium and Islam: The Choice of Images	25

The Ruralization of Europe	27
Kingship and Barbarian Laws	27
2 An Aborted Europe: The Carolingian World (Eighth to Tenth Centuries)	29
The Rise of the Carolingians	29
Was Charlemagne the First European?	31
The Alliance between the Franks and the Papacy:
Emperor Charlemagne	32
The European Legacy of Charlemagne	33
A Europe of Warriors . . .	34
. . . and Also a World of Peasants	35
Carolingian Civilization, a Cultural Layer in the Formation of Europe	36
France, Germany, Italy: Where did the Heart of Europe Lie?	39
3 A Dream of Europe and the Potential Europe of the Year 1000	40
Imperial Ottonian Europe	40
The "New Europe" in the Year 1000	41
The "Newcomers": Scandinavians, Hungarians, and Slavs	42
A European "Peace" Movement	46
A New European Sanctuary in Spain: Santiago de Compostela	47
The Consolidation of Europe	48
4 Feudal Europe (Eleventh and Twelfth Centuries)	49
Agricultural Progress	49
The Cell Structure of Society ("Encellment")	50
Village and Cemetery	51
The Parish	52
Society's Upper Crust: The Nobility	53
Chivalry and Courtliness	53
The Evolution of Marriage	56
Courtly Love	57
Abélard and Héloïse: Modern Intellectuals and Lovers	58
Kissing on the Lips	59
The Military Orders: Militarism	59
The Gregorian Reform: The Separation of the Clergy from Laymen	60

The Battle between Virtues and Vices: The Devil at Large	61
Popular Culture	62
Money and Charters	63
Pilgrimages	64
Feudal Fragmentation and Monarchical Centralization	67
The Prestige and the Weakness of the Emperor	68
The Medieval King	69
The Feudal Monarchies	71
The Twelfth-Century European Renaissance	75
The Rise of the Cult of the Virgin Mary	76
The "Dolorization" of Religious Devotion to Christ	79
Man in the Image of God: Christian Humanism	79
The Birth of a Europe of Persecution	81
The Heretics	82
The Persecution of the Jews	86
Sodomy	89
The Ambiguity of Leprosy	89
The Unleashing of the Devil	90
The Peripheries of Feudal Europe	91
Crusading Europe	93
Were the Crusades the Earliest Manifestation of European Colonialism?	97
5 The "Fine" Europe of Towns and Universities (Thirteenth Century)	99
The Successes of Thirteenth-Century Europe	99
1 URBAN SUCCESS: THE EUROPE OF TOWN-DWELLERS	100
The Character of a European Town	105
The Hierarchy of Urban Professions and Trades	108
The European Town: Jerusalem or Babylon?	109
Towns and Democracy?	109
Defining the Towns and Townsfolk of Medieval Europe	110
2 COMMERCIAL SUCCESS, A EUROPE OF MERCHANTS	112
Monetary Problems	114
A Europe of Merchants	115
The Justification of Money	116
Italians and Hanseatics	118

3	THE SUCCESS OF SCHOOLS AND UNIVERSITIES	121
	A Civilization of Books	126
	Encyclopedias	128
	Scholasticism	129
	Linguistic Europe: Latin and the Vernacular Languages	133
	Great Literatures and Masterpieces	136
	The Diffusion of Prose	137
4	THE SUCCESS OF THE MENDICANT FRIARS	138
	A Europe of Charity	143
	The Third Orders: In-between the Clergy and Laymen	143
	OTHER ASPECTS OF THE "FINE" THIRTEENTH CENTURY IN EUROPE	144
	Gothic Europe	144
	Courtly Europe	146
	The Ambiguous Promotion of Work	147
	Europe, the Mongols, and the East	148
	Heavenly Values Coming Down to Earth	150
6	The Autumn of the Middle Ages or the Spring of a New Age?	154
	Famine and War	155
	The Black Death	159
	Death, Corpses, and the Macabre Dance of Death	161
	A Europe of Violence	162
	The Shattering of the Unity of the Church: The Great Schism	169
	The New Heretics: Wycliffites and Hussites	171
	The devotio moderna	173
	The Birth of National Feeling	174
	Political Prophecy	176
	Printing Presses	177
	A World-Economy	178
	An Expanding and Flowering Europe	178
	Florence, Perhaps the Finest Flower of Europe	180
	Two Open Minds: Nicholas of Cusa . . .	181
	. . . and Pawel Wlodkowic	182
	The Waning of the Empire?	183
	A Simplification of the Map of Europe	184
	The Turkish Threat	185
	The European Plan of George Podiebrad	186
	Italy, at once the Beacon and the Prey of Europe	187

Philippe de Commynes, the European	188
Europe Encountering the Outside World	189
The Attraction of the Atlantic and Africa	190
The Progress and Archaism of Ships and Navigation	192
Conclusion	194
Chronology	202
A Selective Thematic Bibliography	211
Index	252