

Contents

List of Figures and Table	ix
Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xix
PART I: THE FALLACY OF RACE AS BIOLOGY	1
1 Why Contemporary Races Are Not Scientifically Valid	5
Conceptual Background	6
What Visible Features Differentiate Humans?	8
Fuzzy Boundaries: Most Visible Traits Are Not Discrete but Vary Continuously	12
Racial Traits Do Not Covary: Most Traits Vary Independently of Other Traits	14
Key Conceptual Points	16
Key Terms	16
Notes	16
2 Human Biological Variation: What We Don't See	19
Conceptual Background	20
Beyond the Basics: What Is DNA?	21
Genes, Chromosomes, and Human Variation	25
Mutation and Other Sources of Genetic Variability	28
Blood: A Major Site of Invisible Genetic Variability	32
Key Conceptual Points	37
Key Terms	37
Notes	37

3	If Not Race, How Do We Explain Biological Differences?	41
	Conceptual Background	41
	Genetics, Evolutionary Theory, and Human Biological Variation	42
	Evolutionary Forces in the Emergence of Visible Human Variation	42
	Natural Selection and Human Variation: Skin Color, Nose Shape, and Body Type	45
	Body Size and Shape as Partial Responses to Climatic Conditions	50
	Other Environmental Adaptations: High Altitudes	52
	Natural Selection, Human Biological Diversity, and Culture: The Sickle-Cell Variation	54
	Natural Selection, Population Variations, and Culture: Other Examples	57
	Human Biological Variations Due to Other Evolutionary Forces	58
	Gene Flow and Population Variation	59
	Geography and Gene Flow	61
	Cultural Factors in Human Evolution, Human Biological Variation, and Race	62
	Key Conceptual Points	64
	Key Terms	64
	Notes	65
4	More Alike Than Different, More Different Than Alike	67
	Conceptual Background	68
	Human Biological Diversity: More Different Than Alike	69
	“Races” Are More Different Than Alike	72
	We Are All Alike Because We Have a Common Ancestor—in Africa	73
	Conclusion: We Are More Different Than Alike, Even With Common Ancestors	79
	Key Conceptual Points	80
	Key Terms	80
	Notes	81
	PART II: CULTURE CREATES RACE	83
5	Culture Shapes How We Experience Reality	87
	Conceptual Background	88
	Culture as a Symbolic System	91
	The Psychological Reality of Culture: Culture Filters Reality	95
	Culture Transforms Nature	96
	Culture Impacts Our Affective and Emotional Responses to Reality	97
	Culture Is Dynamic, Fluid, and Changeable	99
	Key Conceptual Points	100
	Key Terms	101
	Notes	101

6	Culture and Classification: Race Is Culturally Real	103
	Conceptual Background	104
	Cultures Create Classifications of Reality	104
	Classifications of the Social World: Kinds of People	108
	The Emergence of the North American Racial Worldview	111
	Key Conceptual Points	120
	Key Terms	120
	Notes	121
7	Race and Inequality: Race as a Social Invention to Achieve Certain Goals	125
	Conceptual Background	125
	Immigrant Challenges to the White, Christian, Anglo-Saxon Nation	134
	Reconciling Democracy and Meritocracy With Inequality and Stratification	139
	Conclusion	143
	Key Conceptual Points	144
	Key Terms	144
	Notes	145
8	Cross-Cultural Overview of Race	149
	Conceptual Background	149
	How Important Are Visible Features in Social Classification?	150
	Is Difference Universally Devalued?	153
	Stratified Social Groups Can Exist Without an Ideology of Race	156
	Variable Contexts Alter the Meanings of Racial Systems	160
	What Happens When Immigrants Come to the United States?	165
	Key Conceptual Points	168
	Key Terms	169
	Notes	169
9	Race, Sex, and Gender: If Race Doesn't Exist, What Are We Seeing?	175
	Conceptual Background	175
	Cultural Processes That Affect Biology	176
	How Cultures Regulate Mating and Marriage	177
	The Barriers Are Falling	187
	The End of Race-Based Immigration and Naturalization Policies	194
	The Urge to Merge	198
	Key Conceptual Points	202
	Key Terms	203
	Notes	203

PART III: CONTEMPORARY ISSUES: EDUCATION, HEALTH, AND LANGUAGE	209
10 The Academic Achievement Gap: What Does Race Have to Do With It?	211
Conceptual Overview	211
Explanations for the Achievement Gap	216
Educational Policies: Attempting to Narrow Opportunity Gaps	226
Promising Practices	230
Conclusion	231
Key Conceptual Points	231
Key Terms	232
Notes	232
11 Unpacking the Health Consequences of Racial Stratification	235
Conceptual Background	236
Contemporary Health Impacts of Racism	242
Conclusion	256
Key Conceptual Points	257
Key Terms	258
Notes	258
12 Dismantling the Racial Worldview	261
Challenging the Racial Worldview	262
The Language of Race	264
Shifts in Racial Labels	265
The New Language and Dismantling the Racial Worldview	268
Is It Time to Dismantle the Old Racial Classification System?	274
Conclusion	275
Notes	276
Appendix A: Major Website Resources	279
Appendix B: Comprehensive Guide to Activities	293
References	299
Index	319
About the Authors	337