

INTRODUCTION

Bruce Elliott, Machar Reid and Miguel Crespo

I. BIOMECHANICS AND TEACHING METHODOLOGY

13

- 1. The role of biomechanics in the "game based approach" to coaching tennis
- 2. The use of biomechanical principles in practical coaching through the BIOMECH system
- 3. The relationship between biomechanics and mini-tennis
- 4. Summary

IV. BIOMECHANICS OF ON-COURT MOVEMENT

71

Machar Reid and Miguel Crespo

- 1. Introduction
- 2. Characteristics of on-court movement
- 3. Factors that influence the mechanics of on-court movement
- 4. Summary

V. LOADING AND STROKE PRODUCTION

93

Bruce Elliott, Joachim Mester,
Heinz Kleinöder and Zengyuan Yue

- 1. Introduction
- 2. External forces, racquet vibration and stroke production
- 3. Internal force as an indicator of load
- 4. Summary

VII. ANALYSIS OF ADVANCED STROKE PRODUCTION

137

Duane Knudson and Bruce Elliott

- 1. Introduction
- 2. Qualitative analysis
- 3. Quantitative analysis
- 4. Summary

VIII. BIOMECHANICAL PERFORMANCE MODELS: THE BASIS FOR STROKE ANALYSIS

155

Bruce Elliott and Jacque
Alderson

- 1. Introduction
- 2. The serve
- 3. The forehand
- 4. The two-handed backhand
- 5. The forehand volley (at net)
- 6. Summary

II. THE DEVELOPMENT OF RACQUET SPEED

31

Bruce Elliott

1. The use of elastic energy and muscle pre-tension in the enhancement of racquet speed
2. The distance over which racquet speed can be developed
3. The use of coordinated movements
4. The linking of linear and angular motion
5. The role of muscle strength, power and endurance
6. "Heaviness" of a stroke
7. The role of equipment design
8. Summary

III. LINEAR AND ANGULAR MOMENTUM IN STROKE PRODUCTION

49

Rafael Bahamonde and Duane Knudson

1. Introduction
2. Linear momentum
3. Angular momentum
4. Summary: Linking linear and angular momentum

VI. MUSCLE ACTIVITY: AN INDICATOR FOR TRAINING

109

Machar Reid, John Chow and Miguel Crespo

1. Motor control
2. Muscle activity in stroke production
3. Applications to training
4. Summary

IX. EQUIPMENT AND ADVANCED PERFORMANCE

177

Stuart Miller and Rod Cross

1. Introduction
2. Tennis racquets
3. Strings
4. Balls
5. Court related considerations
6. Footwear
7. Summary
