

Contents

1 Caveman Arcade	1
1.1 What's in a game?	2
1.2 A (Relatively) brief history of game interaction	6
1.3 How to use this book	13
2 The Parlance of Play	17
2.1 Making humans and computers play nicely	18
2.2 What successful game interaction design looks like	22
2.3 The field of game interaction design	26
2.4 How can we define successful game interaction design?	33
2.5 What to expect from the rest of this book	36
Expert Profile: David Galindo—Food for thought	38
3 The Long Con	42
3.1 Baby steps	43
3.2 A masterclass in learning	62
Expert Profile: Romana Ramzan—Player champion	66
4 Say What you Mean	70
4.1 Communication and the senses	71
4.2 Continuous communication and HUD design	89
4.3 Responsive communication	99
4.4 Brief thoughts on creative direction	106
Expert Profile: Cherry Thompson—Accessibility by design	110
5 Control Freaks	115
5.1 I can't find the "any" key	117
5.2 Rules of thumbstick	125
5.3 Virtual input and two-way interfaces	143
Expert Profile: Jason Avent—Changing Tides	152

6 The Play's the Thing	156
6.1 What's in a feeling?	158
6.2 Act I: Narrative and characters	159
6.3 Act II: Player agency	170
Expert Profile: Osama Dorias—Something for everyone	186
7 Rejecting your Reality	190
7.1 Designing for VR	192
7.2 What we don't want VR to give us	195
7.3 Putting the "real" in reality	201
Expert Profile: Mark Laframboise & Steven Smith—Partners in Play	216
8 The Audience is Listening	220
8.1 The ratings war	222
8.2 Come on down	232
Expert Profile: Kris Alexander—Learn to play, play to learn	239
9 Rise of the Machines	244
9.1 The toaster is sentient now	245
9.2 AI that plays with you	248
9.3 AI that works for you	265
Expert Profile: Regan Mandryk—The science of fun	276
10 Making the Thing	280
10.1 Chasing the lightbulb	283
10.2 Follow the rulebook	289
10.3 Re-writing the rulebook	295
Expert Profile: Ario Jafarzadeh—Steps from perfection	302
11 Test your Patience	306
11.1 Spend your questions wisely	308
11.2 A crash course in testing	310
11.3 The melting pot of methods	321
Expert Profile: Graham McAllister—Having a clear vision	327
12 What Comes Next?	331
12.1 Pocket supercomputers strapped to your face	333
12.2 Buy low, sell high	338

Contents

---

12.3 Game changers	341
Expert Profile: Jason Della Rocca—Optimizing for success	348
Glossary	352
List of Acronyms	357
Ludography	359
Subject Index	368
Game Index	370