

CONTENTS

1	Why and when to use a chatbot	1
1.1	Skepticism towards technology in general	3
1.2	Unwarranted skepticism towards chatbots	4
1.3	Why, when, and how should I use a chatbot?	5
1.4	I am a Humanities student. What are the pros and cons of using chatbots?	9
1.5	Should I use a chatbot to correct my English?	10
1.6	What else do chatbots generally do well?	11
1.7	What do chatbots generally do NOT do well?	11
1.8	What attitudes and skills do I need to maximize the effectiveness of chatbots?	13
1.9	When and why may it be important not to sound like a chatbot?	13
1.10	What differentiates chatbot style from human style?	14
1.11	Take home points	17
2	Good human writing	19
2.1	How important is the reader?	21
2.2	Popular science: pleasurable, entertaining and readable	21
2.3	Introduction to a research paper	24
2.4	Readability indexes—how useful are they?	26
2.5	Abstract for a research paper	29
2.6	Presentation scripts and slides	30
2.7	The main factors of all good writing	32
2.8	Take home points	32
3	Avoiding typical errors in human writing: can chatbots help?	35
3.1	Key features of poor writing	37
3.2	Sentence length: in the past and today, written and spoken	38

3.3	Sentence length: chatbots	41
3.4	Verbosity: humans	42
3.5	Verbosity: chatbots	45
3.6	Lack of specificity: humans	47
3.7	Lack of specificity: chatbots	49
3.8	Stating the obvious at the beginning of an abstract, blog post or presentation	51
3.9	Ambiguity	52
3.10	Take home points	54
4	Beyond common uses: the power and utility of chatbots	55
4.1	Posters: guidance/strategies for dealing with difficult situations	57
4.2	Transcripts, transcribing, and podcasts	60
4.3	Using chatbots for everyday non-technical issues	62
4.4	Using a bot as a tutor	64
4.5	Debates (bot vs bot)	67
4.6	The importance of not just using one chatbot and the pros and cons of pushing bots to the limit	71
4.7	Take-home points	75
5	How to sound natural and unbiased	77
5.1	Sounding real—why and what does it mean?	79
5.2	In the Humanities what is the difference between sounding real and sounding unconvincing?	81
5.3	Testing how genuine your written work sounds	84
5.4	Writing prompts to get feedback on specific parts of your paper	84
5.5	Testing the authenticity of your presentation	85
5.6	Sounding genuine and natural in other forms of academic communication	86
5.7	How real does bot-generated text sound?	87
5.8	What vocabulary is typical of chatbotese?	90
5.9	Vocabulary typically overused by chatbots	91
5.10	How is bias reflected in academia and AI output?	94
5.11	Do chatbots only promote Western values?	96
5.12	Recognize and address bias in your own communication	99
5.13	Take home points	101
6	Exploiting, rather than rejecting, a chatbot's negative feedback on your work	103
6.1	Resistance to feedback	105
6.2	Reasons why chatbots might return an answer that does not satisfy your expectations	106
6.3	How cognitive bias can distort your interpretation of feedback	106

6.4	How to avoid misinterpreting a bot's feedback on a text that you have written	108
6.5	Why it is essential to use follow-up prompts when a bot has 'criticized' your work	108
6.6	I am a Humanities student. What prompts can I use to query a chatbot when I am resistant to the feedback that the bot has given me on my text?	111
6.7	Take home points	113
7	AI detectors and humanizers	115
7.1	What is AI?	117
7.2	What is an AI detector, how do they work?	117
7.3	How do AI detectors show their results? How do professors and editors interpret these results?	118
7.4	In what cases should academic writing be predictable and avoid an idiosyncratic style, thus making it more prone to AI detection?	120
7.5	AI detectors seem to score link words as being typical of AI. But aren't link words useful?	122
7.6	What good strategies for writing skills could I learn from AI detectors?	123
7.7	Humanizers: only use them to learn how to paraphrase	125
7.8	What are the ethical issues with humanizers and AI detectors?	127
7.9	I am a student/author. What can I do to protect myself from accusations of using AI?	128
7.10	How should I disclose that I have used AI in some way to help draft my papers?	130
7.11	I am a professor/editor what should I do if I discover that a text submitted to me has a high percentage of AI?	132
7.12	Take home points	133
8	Hallucination, plausibility, confirmation bias, and over-reliance on chatbots	135
8.1	Fake news?	137
8.2	What is 'hallucinating'? How frequent is it? Is it a good reason for not using chatbots?	138
8.3	Why are we seduced into thinking that a chatbot has given us the right answer when it clearly hasn't? The need for critical thinking	140
8.4	In what areas should I be skeptical about a chatbot's responses?	142
8.5	Should I use chatbots to find sources?	143
8.6	How can I fact-check a chatbot's response?	144

8.7	Why, when and how to stop yourself delegating your writing to a chatbot	145
8.8	Take home messages	146
9	Paraphrasing and plagiarism	149
9.1	What is plagiarism? Why is AI accused of plagiarism? When is paraphrasing OK?	151
9.2	Four FAQs on plagiarism	152
9.3	How easy is it to detect plagiarism? What does a plagiarism/similarity report look like?	154
9.4	How to paraphrase without risking plagiarism and without the use of AI	156
9.5	Can I copy generic phrases?	157
9.6	How should I paraphrase a quote from another paper?	158
9.7	How can I use LLMs to avoid plagiarizing another author's work?	159
9.8	When is it legitimate for me to use a chatbot to paraphrase a text?	161
9.9	To what extent is plagiarism an ethical issue when chatbots are involved?	162
9.10	Can I use paraphrasing tools as learning tools to improve my English?	163
9.11	Take home points	166
10	When are chatbots possibly better than humans?	167
10.1	A review of the limitations of chatbots	169
10.2	Extending the application of certain concepts to different areas	170
10.3	Simulating face-to-face conversations	172
10.4	Using a chatbot to make sense of an apparently nonsensical phrase or paragraph	174
10.5	Metaprompting: Getting a bot to write a better prompt	176
10.6	Debugging your paper: using a bot as an editor	178
10.7	Pre-empting the referees	179
10.8	What can you do with this?	181
10.9	Key points from the entire book	182
10.10	This book's top fifteen prompts	185
10.11	Will chatbots eventually outwrite humans?	186
	End matter	189
	Index	197