

Table of Contents

Introduction	13
Acknowledgments	22
Part I Toward Democracy
1 The Poles of '81: Public Opinion on the Eve of Martial Law	31
Opposing Lawlessness	31
Without Euphoria	37
There Will Be No Farmers' War?	39
How to Solve the Crisis	41
Protest – And Then What?	46
A New Class of Exploiters?	51
2 Election Behavior in Light of Studies from the Series “Poles”	57
Political Orientations of Poles: 1984–1989	57
Research Findings and Election Behavior	61
3 The Polish Voter-Ten Years after August 1980	65
Have the Poles Gone Mad?	66
The Landscape before the Battle	66
Conflict, Protest, Reprisals	68
Continuity and Change in Electoral Behavior	72
The Stubborn, the Unstable, and the Apathetic	79
The Power of the Screen	83
Polish Elections, Polish Choices	85
4 Polish Elections of 1990: Beyond the Pospolite Ruszenie	89
Political Differentiations	90

Parliamentary and Municipal Elections	93
Dimensions of the Political Spectrum	95
Liberalism versus Populism	96
Democracy versus Authoritarianism	97
Pan-European Option versus Xenophobia	97
Presidential Elections	98
Possible Political Scenarios	103
New Authoritarianism	104
New Monocentrism	104
Dichotomization	105
Trichotomization	105
The Grand Coalition	105
Fragmentation	106
5 From Solidarity to Fragmentation	107
Solidarity Splits in Two	109
Post-Solidarity Organizations	113
Communist Successor Organizations	115
Other Organizations	115
6 Polish Politics on the Eve of the 1993 Elections: Toward Fragmentation or Pluralism?	123
From Unity to Polarization	124
From Polarization to Fragmentation	127
The Outcome of the October, 1991, Elections	129
Post-Solidarity Organizations	132
Post-communist Organizations	134
Other Organizations	134
Coalition Governments after the Elections	135
Major Political Cleavages	136
Principal Components of the Political Spectrum	139

Toward Political Pluralism?	142
Appendix	149

Part II The Vicissitudes of Democracy: Institution Building

7 Dead Ends and New Beginnings: The Quest for a Procedural Republic in Poland	159
The New Beginning and the Original Sin: The Roundtable Accord and the 1989 Election	161
Electoral Law: The Pain of Trials and Errors	169
Dead Ends: The Vicissitudes of Institutional Designs	175
Conclusio: A Procedural Republic, after All?	178
8 What Has Been Founded by the 1991 and 1993 Elections?	187
The Notion of "Founding Elections"	187
The Non-founding Elections of 1989	188
Institutional Legacies of the 1991 and 1993 Elections	189
Electoral Law	190
The Dual Executive	191
Political Alignments	194
9 The (Not Always Sweet) Uses of Opportunism: Post-communist Political Parties in Poland	201
PZPR: Toward the Abyss	202
SdRP: Neither Phoenix, Nor Ashes	205
Aleksander Kwaśniewski: A Success Story?	212
SLD: The Fall of the House of Miller	216
LiD and Beyond	220
Conclusions	223
Appendix A	224

10 Poland: Party System by Default	229
Introduction	229
The Popular Legitimacy of Polish Political Parties	242
Anti-party Sentiment	242
Electoral Turnout	244
Voter Volatility	245
Partisan Loyalty and Party Membership	247
The Organizational Strength of Polish Parties	248
Membership and Staff	248
Finance	250
Media	253
The Systematic Functionality of Political Parties in Poland	254
Governance	254
Political Recruitment and Participation	257
Aggregation and Articulation of Interests and Political Communication	258
Conclusion	260

Part III The Vicissitudes of Democracy: Popular Attitudes

11 Pocketbook or Rosary? Economic and Identity Voting in 2000–2001 Elections in Poland	269
Voting Behavior in Poland: Economy or Identity?	270
The 2000 and 2001 Election Results	274
Indicators and Indices	278
Analyses	280
Conclusions	288
12 Knocking on Europe's Door: Public Opinion on the EU Accession Referendum in Poland	293
Introduction	293
Political Cleavages in Poland: Economic Interests or Values?	294

The June 2003 EU Accession Referendum	300
Outline of Analyses	301
Summary of Bivariate Analyses	303
Multivariate Analyses	305
Conclusion	310
Note	312
Appendix	312
Dependent Variables	312
Independent Variables	313
13 The New Populism in Poland: The Usual Suspects?	315
The Polish Political Landscape	317
The Political Line-Up	324
Populism: Empirical Indicators	332
Summary of Empirical Findings	337
Conclusions: The Sudden End of the New Populism in Poland?	341
14 "The Past Is Never Dead:" Identity, Class, and Voting Behavior in Contemporary Poland	349
Introduction	349
Voting Patterns since 1989 – Polish Exceptionalism?	350
Enter Europe	354
The Liberal Poland and the Poland of Social Solidarity	356
2007 Parliamentary Election: An Analysis	358
Conclusions	364

Part IV Democratic Backsliding

15 Is East-Central Europe Backsliding? The Political-Party Landscape	371
Introduction	371

A Familiar Yet Unique Kind of Politics	372
Explaining the Paradoxes	374
Should We Be Worried?	375
16 The 2014–2015 Election Super-Season in Poland: The Triumph of the Right, the Defeat of the Left, or the Irrelevance of the Left-Right Axis? .	381
Introduction	381
The Space of Party Competition	382
Party Competition in Poland: New Patterns in the 2000s?	385
Political Context: The 2014–15 Electoral Season	386
Research Design	390
Results and Discussion	392
Conclusions	404
17 The Fate of Generation '68: History's Full Circle?	409
18 A Gender War or War of Generations? On the (New?) Political Cleavages in Poland	425
Appendix	449

Part V Conclusions

19 Two Nations?	455
-----------------------	-----