

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
Foreword	xi
by Thomas F. X. Noble
Introduction	1
 I. The Archdiocese of Methodius in Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century Historiography
9
1. The Use of the Cyrillic-Methodian Heritage in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries: Romantic Slavophilism, the Reawakening of the Slavs, and Roman Ecumenism	10
2. Great Moravia and the Archdiocese of Methodius in Nineteenth- and Twentieth-Century Czechoslovakia	14
3. Revisionist Analyses of the Methodian Archdiocese	27
4. The Archdiocese of Methodius in František Dvorník: "La lutte autour de l'Illyricum"	34
5. Conclusion	39
 II. The Origins of the Methodian Diocese during the Pontificates of Nicholas I (858-867) and Hadrian II (867-872). A Comparison of the Roman and Slavonic Sources
41
1. The Silence of the Roman Sources: The Possible Censure by Pope Stephen V (885-890)	43
2. Nicholas I (858-867): The First Contact	54
3. Hadrian II (867-872): The Constitution of a New Church	65
4. Introduction to the Slavonic Sources: The "Life of Constantine," the "Life of Methodius," and the "Encomium to Constantine and Methodius"	72
5. Nicholas I and Hadrian II in the Slavonic Sources: the "Life of Constantine," the "Life of Methodius," and the "Encomium to Cyril and Methodius"	83
6. Anastasius the Librarian and Constantine the Philosopher ...	90
7. A Roman Source: The "Vita Constantini-Cyrilli cum translatione S. Clementis"	96
8. Conclusion	104

III. The Pannonian-Moravian Diocese in the Letters of Pope John VIII (872–882): Papal Strategies and Languages	109
1. Papal Missionary Involvement: Sixth to Ninth Century	111
2. John VIII's Diplomatic Network: Letters and Legates	121
3. Geographical Sources for the Methodian Archdiocese	138
4. Pannonian Diocese—Moravian Diocese	154
5. The Ecclesiastical Career of a Roman Missionary: Methodius, Augustine, and Boniface	168
6. Svatopluk's Role in Shaping the "Sancta Ecclesia Marabensis"	183
7. The Sirmian Issue	192
8. Conclusion	203
Conclusion: The Question of the "Sancta Ecclesia Marabensis" Revisited	207
Maps	217
Bibliography	223
Index	247