

Contents

List of table	vi
Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction: The paradoxes of historical comparison	1
Part I Key milestones in the development of historical comparison
1 Comparison in history: From antiquity to the Enlightenment	7
2 Historicism and the comparative method (nineteenth century to early twentieth century)	13
3 The lessons of Max Weber and Marc Bloch	23
4 The rise of historical comparison in the later twentieth century	38
5 New challenges: Cultural transfers, histoire croisée , transnational history and criticism of traditional comparison	54
6 Comparative historical sociology	61
Part II Historical comparison in search of a method
7 Does method exist?	71
8 The functions of comparison and its specifics in historical research	80
9 Selection of objects for comparison and types of historical comparison	90
10 Recommendations for newcomers to historical comparison	97
Part III Themes of comparative historical research
11 Comparison in economic history	105
12 Comparison in political history	109
13 Comparison in social history	118
14 Comparative research on nationalism, empire and colonialism	128
Conclusion	135
Bibliography	137
Index	149