

Contents

1	Introduction: Understanding the Politics of Integration	1
1.1	The Politics of Integration	2
1.2	The Crisis of Conventional Politics	4
1.3	Terminology	5
1.4	The Structure of the Book	7
	References	10
2	Integration in Theory and Practice: From Classical Sociology to Relational Approaches	13
2.1	Integration—Definition and Early Scholarship	13
2.2	Integration in Political Theory	15
2.2.1	Integration—As All Individuals' Access to Core Rights	15
2.2.2	Integration—As Political Participation and the Sharing of Core Civic Values and Identities	18
2.3	The Study and Measurement of Immigrant Integration: Approaches and Critiques	21
2.3.1	Assimilation and Integration Research	21
2.3.2	Examples of Studies Measuring and Comparing Integration	22
2.3.3	Critique Against Integration Research: The Gap Approach	24
2.3.4	The Critique Against the National Container Logic	25
2.4	Relational Integration—A Boundaries Approach to Studying Integration	27
2.5	Conclusion	28
	References	30

3	The Evolution of the Politics of Integration	35
3.1	Construction of the Nation and the People: Going Beyond the Dichotomy of Ethnic and Civic Variations	36
3.2	Ethnos and Demos: The Reprisal of Nativism	39
3.3	Citizenship and the Politics of Integration	42
3.4	Transnational Turn	44
3.5	Curtailing Transnationalism in the Contemporary Politics of Integration: The Return to National Citizenship	46
3.6	Belonging and the Politics of Integration: The Shift from Transnational Belongings to Nationalist Anchors	49
3.7	Conclusion	51
	References	52
4	Integration Policies Between Inclusion and Exclusion	57
4.1	Comparing Integration Policies	58
4.2	Integration Policies and the Tension Between Ethnos and Demos	59
4.3	Multiculturalism and Its Backlash	61
4.4	Interculturalism	64
4.5	Civic Integrationism	65
4.5.1	Expansion on What Counts as “Good Citizenship”	66
4.5.2	Individualisation of Integration	70
4.5.3	The Merging of Integration with Immigration Control	72
4.6	Conclusion	74
	References	75
5	Individual Responses to the Politics of Integration	81
5.1	Setting the Scene	82
5.2	In Search of Nativist or Faith Communities: Sub-Politics	83
5.3	New Minorities at the Local Level: Natives and Migrants	84
5.4	The Limits of the Politics of Integration in Addressing Structural Inequalities	86
5.4.1	Epistemic Injustice	88
5.4.2	Remote Places	90
5.4.3	The Intricacies of Claiming Spatial Ownership	91
5.4.4	Generational Differences	95
5.5	‘Resilience’: Responsibilising Individuals and Local Actors	98
5.6	Conclusion	100
	References	101
6	Conclusion	107

6.1	Rethinking Integration	108
6.2	Integration as Relational Approaches and Boundary Constructions	110
6.3	Changing Political Economy of Integration	111
6.4	Everyday Life and Integration: Ultra-Politics vs Supra-Politics	112
6.5	Underscoring Similarities: Against Integration?	113
	References	115