

CONTENTS

Foreword: Critical Theory and the Meaning of Hope x

Peter McLaren

Editor's Introduction xxi

Paulo Freire

Introduction to the Revised Edition: Rethinking the Role of Educators as Public Intellectuals xxiii

Henry A. Giroux

Introduction to the First Edition: Critical Educational Theory and the Language of Critique xxxvi

Acknowledgments xliii

SECTION ONE: Rethinking the Language of Schooling

1 Rethinking the Language of Schooling 3

Henry A. Giroux

2 Toward a New Sociology of Curriculum 11

Henry A. Giroux

3 Social Education in the Classroom: The Dynamics of the Hidden Curriculum 21

Henry A. Giroux and Anthony N. Penna

4 Overcoming Behavioral and Humanistic Objectives 41

Henry A. Giroux

SECTION TWO: Literacy, Writing, and the Politics of Voice

- 5 Writing and Critical Thinking in the Social Studies 53

Henry A. Giroux

- 6 Mass Culture and the Rise of the New Illiteracy:
Implications for Reading 71

Henry A. Giroux

- 7 Critical Pedagogy, Cultural Politics, and the Discourse of Experience 81

Henry A. Giroux

- 8 Culture, Power, and Transformation in the Work of Paulo Freire: Toward a Politics of Education 101

Henry A. Giroux

SECTION THREE: Teaching, Intellectual Work, and Education as Cultural Politics

- 9 Teachers as Transformative Intellectuals 115

Henry A. Giroux

- 10 Curriculum Study and Cultural Politics 123

Henry A. Giroux and Roger Simon

- 11 The Need for Cultural Studies 135

Henry A. Giroux, David Shumway, Paul Smith, and James Sosnoski

- 12 Teacher Education and the Politics of Democratic Reform 149

Henry A. Giroux and Peter McLaren

SECTION FOUR: Toward a Language of Critique and Possibility

13 Crisis and Possibilities in Public Education 167

Henry A. Giroux

14 Reproducing Reproduction: The Politics of Tracking 175

Henry A. Giroux and Peter McLaren

15 Antonio Gramsci: Schooling for Radical Politics 185

Henry A. Giroux

16 Solidarity, Ethics, and Possibility in Critical Education 193

Henry A. Giroux

Notes 208

Index 231

Related Books 239