

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	7
Introduction: Situating Marxism in State Socialist Europe	9
Adela Hîncu, Stefan Baghiu, Alex Cistelean, Christian Ferencz-Flatz

Part I The Making and Unmaking of Orthodoxy

1. Orthodoxy Unraveled: Diamat and Histomat in Communist Romania	29
Alex Cistelean
2. Marxism, Science, and Society in Soviet Georgia	59
Bakar Berekashvili
3. Towards New Orthodoxy: Epistemology and Philosophy of Science in Jarosław Ładosz and Czesław Nowiński	83
Monika Woźniak
4. Open-Minded Determinism: The Life and Ideas of Rudolf Šíma	115
Ondřej Holub

Part II Global Issues, Socialist Concerns

5. From Ecological Crisis to Ecological Revolution: Marxist Reflections on The Limits to Growth in Romania	139
Christian Ferencz-Flatz and Adela Hîncu
6. Global Studies and Late Socialist Czechoslovakia	161
Jan Mervart
7. Romanian Communist Futurology as Diamat without Dialectics	179
Stefan Baghiu and Alex Cistelean

8. (Un)orthodoxy of the Human Rights in Yugoslavia: Genealogy and Contestations 203
Una Blagojević

PART III Marxist Resignifications

9. The Making of a Western Socialist Scholar: J. D. Bernal in Eastern Europe 227
Jan Surman

10. Althusser Goes East: Theoretical (Anti)Humanism, the Lukács School, and the Specter of Stalinism 249
Ádám Takács

11. Aesthetic Functionalism: A Design Concept for Socialism in the GDR? 273
Martin Küpper

12. Humanism vs. Scientism? An Ilyenkovian Critique of Capital's Dualities and Dichotomies 295
Siyaves Azeri

- Index 319