

Table of Contents

Analysis

Introduction: the Public Order Act 1986 at 40 David Mead	155
The 1986 Public Order Act in Historical Perspective Katrina Navickas	157
Policing Protest Since 1986: All Change? Charmian Werren	165
The Conditions of Protest: Sections 12 and 14 of the Public Order Act 1986 40 Years On Richard Martin	173
Towards “Total Control”: The Introduction of Mandatory Notification Under Section 11 of the Public Order Act 1986 Michael Hamilton	182
Political Activism in the Courts from the Public Order Act 1986 to the Public Order Act 2023: Repression and Resistance Steven Cammiss, Brian Doherty, Joanna Gilmore and Graeme Hayes	190
Policing Protests: Proposed Reform of the Law Governing Public Protests in Aotearoa New Zealand Dean R Knight	198
Articles
Parliament Is Not Sovereign—And It’s a Good Thing Too! Alison L. Young	208
On Bakers, Website Designers and Compelled Speech John Olusegun Adenitire	232
A Remedy of One’s Own: Damages under the Human Rights Act 1998 Wong Yi Xuan	251
The Independent Chief Inspector of Borders and Immigration in the Administrative Justice and Accountability Ecosystem Dr Jonathan Collinson	285

Strangled by Reform: Legal Aid, Professional Autonomy, and Access to Justice in the Asylum Sector from 1949–2024
Ayesha Riaz	315
Current Survey	339
Government and Politics Journals	364
Book Reviews	365