

Contents

List of Figures	vii
List of Contributors	viii
Acknowledgments	xii
Introduction Kristin Roth-Ey	1
1 The School: Schools as Liminal Spaces—Integrating North Korean Children Within Socialist Eastern Europe, 1951–9 Péter Apor	21
2 The Airwaves: How Do You Listen to Radio Moscow? Moscow’s Broadcasters, “Third World” Listeners, and the Space of the Airwaves in the Cold War Kristin Roth-Ey	39
3 The Great Industrial Project: Concepts of Space—Aswan’s Distinctive Production Culture Elizabeth Bishop	59
4 The Exhibition: Exhibitions as Spaces of Cultural Encounter—Yugoslavia and Africa Radina Vučetić	77
5 The Epistolarium: Socialist Internationalism Writ Small—Friendship, Solidarity, and Support Between Women in the Soviet Union and in Decolonizing Countries, 1950s–1960s Christine Varga-Harris	97
6 The University: The Decolonization of Knowledge? The Making of the African University, the Power of the Imperial Legacy, and the Eastern European Influence Małgorzata Mazurek	119
7 The Expert Community: Expert Knowledge and Socialist Virtues—Czechoslovak Military Specialists in the Global South Mikuláš Pešta	139
8 The Military Training Camp: Co-Constructed Spaces—Experiences of PAIGC Guerrillas in Soviet Training Camps, 1961–1974 Natalia Telepneva	159
9 The Hospital: Uncomfortable Proximities—Romania’s “One Nation Hospital” in Gharyan, 1974–1985 Bogdan C. Iacob	177
10 The Trade Union: Kindred by Choice—Trade Unions as Interface Between East Africa and East Germany Eric Burton	197
11 The Everyday Space: The Hostel, the Pub, and the Prison—Vietnamese and Cuban Workers in 1980s Czechoslovakia Alena Alamgir	217

12	The Travelogue: Imagining Spaces of Encounter—Travel Writing Between the Colonial and the Anti-Colonial in Socialist Eastern Europe, 1949–1989 Eric Burton, Zoltán Ginelli, James Mark, and Nemanja Radonjić	237
	Select Bibliography	261
	Index	267