

CONTENTS

Grotesque Anthropocene: Points of Departure	1
Erik Erlanson, Nicolai Skiveren, and Jacob Wamberg
From Hyperabject to Entropy: The Environmental Grotesque in an Expanded Field	17
Jacob Wamberg
Tampering with the Normativity of Life: Pierre Klossowski's Living Currency and the Politics of the Environmental Grotesque	35
Erik Erlanson
Grotesque Bodies in Ruined Worlds: Intermedial Experimentalism in Rita Indiana's Environmental Grotesque	57
Jørgen Bruhn
An Estranged, Borderless, Mad, and Lively World: Karl Ove Knausgaard's Grotesque Vision of the Scandinavian Anthropocene	81
Peter Mortensen
Eat Me: Cannibalism and Regeneration in Lina Rydén Reynolds's Använd dem som du vill	101
Jenny Jarlsdotter Wikström

Sister, What Grows Where Land Is Sick? A Case Study of the Eco-Critical and Environmental Grotesque in Cinema Anne Gjelsvik	123
Carnival in the Anthropocene: Nordic Eco-Comedy and Grotesque Environmental Humor Nicolai Skiveren	141
The Botanical Grotesque: Interspecies Care, Power, and Vegetal Mythologies in Contemporary Scandinavian Art Anette Vandsø	159
How the Environmental Grotesque Works: Testing Its Impact Experimentally W. P. Malecki	181
Index	191