

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Chapter I. Introduction.	13
A. Of the conflict of litigation	13
B. The litispence phenomenon	36
1. Forum shopping in parallel litigation	36
2. Horizontality	40
3. Overlapping jurisdiction-conferring rules	44
4. Kompetenz-Kompetenz : who determines jurisdiction?	46
C. Intellectual origins of the idea of lis pendens	48
1. Civil Law: in the image of Roman Law?	49
2. Common Law: the legacy of Equity's struggle for supremacy in England	53
D. Legal techniques for the control of competing jurisdictions	59
1. Tolerance of parallel proceedings and res judicata	60
2. Rules of priority	60
3. Consolidation of related proceedings	63
4. Party autonomy, election and waiver.	65
5. Discretions to decline jurisdiction or control parallel litigation	68
E. The Rule of Law and the function of adjudication in international cases	73
Chapter II. Private international litigation.	91
A. Deference, indifference or control?	91
1. A world of two hemispheres?	91
2. Two contrasting approaches in Civil Law systems	94
3. Two contrasting approaches in a Common Law system	102
B. Strict lis pendens : pursuing the res judicata parallel	111
1. Translation of an internal into an international rule	111

Knihovna

Právnické fakulty UP

v Olomouci

2. The search for identity of action	117
(a) Same parties	117
(b) Same subject-matter and same cause	123
3. Assessment of effects.	127
(a) The negative declaration	130
(b) The reflexive effect of a convention	138
C. Jurisdiction-declining discretions	145
1. Litispence within the forum non conveniens enquiry	146
(a) Double litigation by the same plaintiff	146
(b) A forum contest between plaintiff and defendant	148
2. Declining jurisdiction in favour of related proceedings	154
D. The rise and fall of the anti-suit injunction	157
1. Commonwealth use of anti-suit injunctions to control foreign parallel litigation	157
2. A division of principle in the United States	165
3. Contraction of the anti-suit injunction in the face of comity concerns	172
(a) Conflict of laws cedes where no true litispence	173
(b) Requirement of jurisdictional nexus	175
(c) European law constraints	177
E. Interim conclusions	179
Chapter III. International arbitration	189
A. The place of parallel proceedings in international arbitration	189
1. The use of party autonomy as an escape from multiple fora	189
2. Instances of overlapping jurisdiction.	193
B. International commercial arbitration.	198
1. Kompetenz-Kompetenz or who decides on arbitral jurisdiction	198
(a) The arbitral tribunal or the courts	198
(b) The courts of the seat and other courts	204
2. Parallel and related arbitral proceedings	214
3. The anti-suit injunction in arbitration	219

(a) Issue of anti-suit injunctions by arbitrators	220
(b) The Front Comor and anti-suit injunctions in aid of arbitration.	223
(c) Anti-arbitration injunctions.	237
C. Investment treaty arbitration	253
1. The particular potential for conflicts of jurisdiction in investment treaty arbitration. . . .	253
2. The distinction between breach of contract and breach of treaty	255
(a) National law and international law remedies distinguished	256
(b) Effect of contractual jurisdiction clause .	258
3. Election and waiver.	262
(a) The fork in the road	262
(b) Waiver	267
4. The impact of an umbrella clause	269
5. Parallel treaty arbitration	282
D. Interim conclusions	292
Chapter IV. Public international litigation.	299
A. The judicialization of Public International Law.	299
1. The rise of public international adjudication	299
2. Rationales for the proliferation of international tribunals.	305
3. Polycentric nature of modern disputes. . . .	312
(a) Concurrent individual and State responsibility for international crimes	314
(b) Concurrent regional and international trade law proceedings	317
B. Relationships between international tribunals . .	326
1. Express provision.	326
(a) Human rights	327
(b) The Law of the Sea	329
2. Is lis pendens a general principle of law applicable to international tribunals?	346
C. Relationship between national and international litigation	362
1. Rules of separation of international from national proceedings	362

2. Effect of pending international proceedings before national courts	368
(a) The Consular Convention cases — ICJ and US Supreme Court	375
(b) The Caribbean cases: the Privy Council and the Inter-American Human Rights system	392
D. Interim conclusions	405
Chapter V. Conclusion	408
A. The exercise of adjudicatory authority in a plural world	408
1. The fact of decisional fragmentation	408
2. A constitutional or administrative law model?	411
3. General principles in the resolution of the conflict of litigation	416
B. The search for new solutions	432
1. From a Westphalian to a cosmopolitan paradigm	432
2. Declining and referring jurisdiction — new model lis pendens	439
3. Judicial co-operation and communication	454
C. Final conclusions	460
Select Bibliography	468
About the author	481
Biographical note	481
Principal publications	482