

CONTENTS

1. APPROACHES TO THE ANALYSIS OF MACROEVOLUTIONARY TRENDS

|                                                                                                                         |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| The Methodology of Phylogenetic InferenceAbove the Species Level . . . . .                                          | 3   |
| M.K. Hecht and J.L. Edwards                                                                                             |     |
| Comments: On Phyletic Analysis of GekkotanLizards . . . . .                                                         | 53  |
| G. Underwood                                                                                                            |     |
| Adaptation and the Comparative Method . . . . .                                                                         | 57  |
| W.J. Bock                                                                                                               |     |
| Functional Morphology and Evolution . . . . .                                                                           | 83  |
| P. Dullemeijer and C.D.N. Barel                                                                                         |     |
| Embryogenesis, Morphogenesis, Genetics,and Evolution . . . . .                                                      | 119 |
| M. Delsol                                                                                                               |     |
| Comments: The Development of the Tetrapod Limb:Embryological Mechanisms and EvolutionaryPossibilities . . . . . | 139 |
| J. Lewis and N. Holder                                                                                                  |     |
| Phylogenetic Aspects of KaryologicalEvidence . . . . .                                                              | 149 |
| A. Morescalchi                                                                                                          |     |
| The Phyletic Interpretation of MacromolecularSequence Information: Simple Methods . . . . .                         | 169 |
| W.M. Fitch                                                                                                              |     |
| Comments: Evolution of PancreaticRibonucleases . . . . .                                                            | 205 |
| J. Beintema                                                                                                             |     |
| The Phyletic Interpretation of MacromolecularSequence Information: Sample Cases . . . . .                           | 211 |
| W.M. Fitch                                                                                                              |     |

|                                                                                                                                  |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Zoogeography and Phylogeny: The TheoreticalBackground and Methodology to the Analysis ofMammal and Bird Faunas . . . . . | 249 |
| J.A. Keast                                                                                                                       |     |

2. MACROEVOLUTIONARY TRENDS AMONG VERTEBRATE TAXA

|                                                                                                                                                                                     |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Phylogenetic Relationships and a Classificationof the Eutherian Mammalia . . . . .                                                                                              | 315 |
| F.S. Szalay                                                                                                                                                                         |     |
| Wing Design and the Origin of Bats . . . . .                                                                                                                                        | 375 |
| P. Pirlot                                                                                                                                                                           |     |
| Comments: Energetics of Hovering Flightand the Origin of Bats . . . . .                                                                                                         | 423 |
| B.D. Clark                                                                                                                                                                          |     |
| Comments: Comments on Flight and theEvolution of Bats . . . . .                                                                                                                 | 427 |
| J.D. Smith                                                                                                                                                                          |     |
| Ontogeny of Amniote Fetal Membranes and theirApplication to Phylogeny . . . . .                                                                                                 | 439 |
| W.P. Luckett                                                                                                                                                                        |     |
| Sarcopterygii and the Origin of Tetrapods . . . . .                                                                                                                                 | 517 |
| H. Szarski                                                                                                                                                                          |     |
| Comments: The Origin of the Tetrapod Limbwithin the Rhipidistian Fishes . . . . .                                                                                               | 541 |
| H.P. Schultze                                                                                                                                                                       |     |
| An Exceptional Reproductive Strategy in Anura:Nectophrynoides Occidentalis Angel (Bufonidae),an Example of Adaptation to Terrestrial Lifeby Viviparity . . . . . | 545 |
| F. Xavier                                                                                                                                                                           |     |
| The Evolution of Terrestrial Locomotion . . . . .                                                                                                                                   | 553 |
| J.L. Edwards                                                                                                                                                                        |     |
| The Contribution of Paleontology toTeleostean Phylogeny . . . . .                                                                                                               | 579 |
| C. Patterson                                                                                                                                                                        |     |
| Phylogenetic Reconstruction: Theory, Methodology,and Application to Chordate Evolution . . . . .                                                                                | 645 |
| W.F. Gutmann                                                                                                                                                                        |     |

|                                                                                   |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Insularity and Its Effect on Mammalian Evolution . . . .                          | 671 |
| P.Y. Sondaar                                                                      |     |
| Evolution of the Carnivorous Adaptive Zonein South America . . . . .          | 709 |
| L. Marshall                                                                       |     |
| Geographical and Ecological Distributionof the Earliest Tetrapods . . . . .   | 723 |
| A.L. Panchen                                                                      |     |
| 3. PHYLOGENY AND CLASSIFICATION OF VERTEBRATE TAXA                                |     |
| Cladistic Classification as Applied toVertebrates . . . . .                   | 741 |
| N. Bonde                                                                          |     |
| Comment: Phylogenetics: Some Comments onCladistic Theory and Method . . . . . | 805 |
| S. Løvtrup                                                                        |     |
| On the Phenetic Approach to VertebrateClassification . . . . .                | 823 |
| J.S Farris                                                                        |     |
| Foundations and Methods of EvolutionaryClassification . . . . .               | 851 |
| W.J. Bock                                                                         |     |
| INDEX . . . . .                                                                   | 897 |