

CONTENTS

Foreword	xi
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xviii
Abbreviations of Institutional Collections of Fossil Tracks	xxi
1. An Introduction to Fossil Footprints	3
How to Observe and Record Tracks and Trackways	9
Box 1.1 Who Dun It?	11
Naming Tracks	15
How Are Tracks Preserved?	18
Where Are Tracks Preserved?	20
Box 1.2 Elite Tracks	22
Interpreting Fossil Footprints	23
Interpreting Track Assemblages	25
Tracks Through Time	26
Institutional Collections of Tracks	28
Conservation and Preservation	29

2. Ancient Tracks: The Paleozoic Era	33
Western Traces in the "Age of Amphibians"	34
Carboniferous Tracks: Amphibian, Reptile, or Other?	35
Box 2.1 Paleozoic Horses?	36
Tracks of the Arid Permian	39
"Stone Tracks" of the Coconino Sandstone	40
The Lyons Sandstone: Twin of the Coconino	44
Interpreting Tracks and Track Habitats	47
The Latest Big Discovery	57
3. Archosaur Ascendancy: The Triassic	65
An Overview of Triassic Trackmakers and Tracks	67
The Moenkopi Formation of the Early and Middle Triassic	69
Tracks Around the World	73
Box 3.1 Which Came First, the Dinosaur or the Track?	75
The Chinle Group of the Late Triassic	76
The Southern Colorado Plateau Region of the Chinle	77
Box 3.2 The Coelophysis Crisis	81
The Eastern Region of the Chinle	85
Box 3.3 What Do Prosauropod Tracks Look Like?	91
The Northern Colorado Plateau Region of the Chinle	93
Interpreting Chinle Tracks and Track Habitats	98
Mass Extinctions at the Triassic-Jurassic Boundary	99
4. Days of Dinosaur Dominance I: The Jurassic	109
Sand Seas of the Early Jurassic	112
Desert Trackmakers of the Wingate Formation	114
More Desert Trackmakers of the Moenave Formation	118
Kayenta Tracks and the Problem of "Provincial Taxonomy"	119
Box 4.1 Different Species? Or Different Ages?	120
An Abundance of Tracks in the Navajo Formation	129
Is It Mammaloid?	137
The Pterosaur Tracks Dispute	140
Box 4.2 What's in a Name?	144
Early Jurassic Climates and Biogeography	147

Were Dinosaurs Mostly Meat-Eaters?	149
The Moab Megatracksite of the Middle Jurassic	150
The Real Pterosaur Tracks Story	158
Morrison Formation Tracks of the Late Jurassic:
The Golden Age of Brontosaurus	164
Box 4.3 The Sauropod Straddle	175
Tracks Versus Bones	176
 5. Days of Dinosaur Dominance II: The Cretaceous	 181
An Overview of Early Cretaceous Tracks	183
"Swimming" Brontosaurus and the Dangers of Misinterpretation	185
Box 5.1 Problematic Potholes	191
Tracks Along the Shores of the Western Interior Seaway	192
Parallel Trackways and Dinosaur Herds	196
Box 5.2 Digging for Dinosaur Tracks	199
Box 5.3 Mama, Papa, and Baby Dinosaurs	207
The Dinosaur Freeway	209
Early Cretaceous Bird and Crocodile Tracks	211
Overview of the Late Cretaceous Environment	213
Coal Deposits of the Mesa Verde Group	216
The Case of the "Mystery Dinosaur"	217
Bird, Frog, Pterosaur(?) and Baby Dinosaur(?) Tracks	223
Underground Hazards	226
Rare Tracks of the Laramie Formation	229
Box 5.4 T rex Trax?	234
Raton Formation Tracks and the Cretaceous Extinctions	237
 6. The Age of Birds and Mammals: The Cenozoic Era	 243
Paleocene Tracks and the Survivors of the Mass Extinction	245
Box 6.1 Is the Decimal System Based on Five Fingers and Five Toes?	249
One-of-a-Kind Tracks from the Eocene	250
The Puzzle of Miocene Tracks in the Oligocene	257
Box 6.2 Big Bird Tracks Have Paleontologists All Aflutter	262
Camels, Bear-Dogs, and Other Denizens of the Miocene	265
Box 6.3 Ancient Ships of the Desert	268
Pliocene Tracks and the Camel That Died While Standing	273

Mammoths of the Pleistocene	274
Box 6.4 Linking Tracks with the Trackmakers	274
The Case of the Carson City "Man Tracks"	277
7. Tracks Galore, and What They Can Tell Us	285
Naming Tracks and Identifying Trackmakers	286
Individual Behavior	287
Groups, Populations, and Social Behavior	288
Dinosaur Biomass	289
Trampling	291
Tracks and Ancient Ecology	292
Sedimentological Controls on the Distribution of Track-Bearing Strata	296
Tracks More Common Than Bones	298
A Finite and Valuable Resource	301
Appendix: Fossil Footprint Sites and Exhibits in the Western United States	303
Annotated Bibliography	311
General Index	325
Systematic Ichnological Index	336