

Contents

Preface xi

Part I : Publicness in Systematic Theology 1

1. A Social Portrait of the Theologian:

The Three Publics of Theology: Society, Academy, Church 3

i. Introduction 3

ii. The Public of Society: The Three Realms of Society 6

iii. The Public of the Academy:

Theology as an Academic Discipline 14

iv. The Public of the Church:

A Sociological and Theological Reality 21

v. Conclusion: Theology as Public Discourse 28

2. A Theological Portrait of the Theologian:

Fundamental, Systematic and Practical Theologies 47

i. A Theological Portrait of the Theologian 47

ii. Three Disciplines in Theology:

Fundamental, Systematic, Practical 54

iii. Conclusion: Publicness in Fundamental, Systematic and Practical Theologies 79

3. The Classic 99

i. Introduction: Systematic Theology as Hermeneutical 99

ii. The Normative Role of the Classics: Realized Experience 107

iii. The Interpretation of the Classics and the Pluralism of Readings 115

iv. The Production of the Classic: A Thought Experiment 124

v. Conclusion: Systematic Theology as Hermeneutical
Revisited 130

4. Interpreting the Religious Classic 154

i. The Conversation and Conflict of Interpretations of Religion 154

ii. The Religious Classic 167

5. The Religious Classic:

Manifestation and Proclamation 193

i. The Realized Experience of Truth in Religious Classics 193

ii. Classical Forms of Religious Expression:

Manifestation and Proclamation 202

Part II : Interpreting the Christian Classic 231

Introduction: A Methodological Preface 233

6. The Christian Classic I:

The Event and Person of Jesus Christ 248

i. The Event and the Text:

Jesus Christ Witnessed to in the Scriptures 248

ii. The Classic Expressions of the New Testament: A Proposal 259

iii. The Correctives: Apocalyptic and the Doctrines of Early Catholicism 265

iv. Proclamation as Event and Content 269

v. Narrative in the Gospels 275

vi. Symbol and Reflective Thought:

The Theologies of Paul and John 281

7. The Christian Classic II:

The Search for a Contemporary Christology 305

i. Retrospect: The Forms of the Whole and the Search for Adequacy 305

ii. Some Questions for a Contemporary Christology 317

iii. Conclusion: The Belief in Jesus Christ 329

8. The Situation: The Emergence of the Uncanny 339

i. The Theologian and the Situation 339

ii. The Dialectic of the Classics of the Contemporary Situation 345

iii. The Self-Exposure of the Classics to and in the Situation:
The Ideal of Dialogue 352

iv. Orientations, Options, Faiths: The Uncanny 355

9. Christian Responses in the Contemporary Situation:

Family Resemblances and Family Quarrels 371

i. Introduction 371

ii. The Trajectories of the Route of Manifestation 376

iii. The Trajectories of the Route of Proclamation 386

iv. From Manifestation and Proclamation to History and Praxis:
Political and Liberation Theologies 390

10. A Christian Systematic Analogical Imagination	405
i. Classical Theological Languages: Analogy and Dialectic	405
ii. A Christian Systematic Analogical Imagination: A Proposal	421
iii. Christian Analogical Imagination: Ordered Relationships, God-Self-World	429

11. Epilogue: The Analogical Imagination	446
---	-----

Index of Principal Names	457
--------------------------	-----

Index of Principal Subjects	465
-----------------------------	-----