

CONTENTS

List of Contributors	x
Preface	xv
 Introduction	 1
 From the Backend of Nowhere John Agnew	 16
 A Reluctant Convert Trevor Barnes	 28
 Landforms and Me: Shaping a Career in Geomorphology Georgie Bennett	 38
 A Geographer from, off, and Working on the Rustbelt Mark Boyle	 50
 From Pacific Shores Carolyn Cartier	 61
 Forging a Path through Life and the Changing Landscape of Geography Noel Castree	 71

The Moth and the Flame: A Journey towards Self-Annihilation Ipsita Chatterjee	84
A Transatlantic Adventure Kevin R. Cox	95
A Quantitative Geographical Odyssey A. Stewart Fotheringham	105
Very Slowly and Then All at Once Rachel Franklin	116
Becoming a Geographer in the Shadow of Geography's Quantitative Revolution Daniel A. Griffith	125
The Production of Geography (and a Geographer) Kevin Grove	137
My Journey to and through Marxist Geography Matthew T. Huber	148
A Long Way Home: My Journey as a Geographer Thembele Kepe	158
Becoming a Critical "Climate Geographer": What Might That Mean, and What Can It Do? Sarah Knuth	168
Meanders of an Uneasy Geographer Mary Lawhon	179
Doing It the Hard Way Helen Lawton Smith	191
Landscapes, Luck, and an Inquisitive Adventurer Glen MacDonald	199
Becoming a Geographer: A Bo(u)lder Choice Joann Mossa	210

I Became a Geographer-in-the-Making at the Age of Six Beverley Mullings	217
A Pirate and a Scientist Jonathan Phillips	227
The Geographer That Latin America Made Me Sarah A. Radcliffe	238
A Geographer at Heart Marilyn Raphael	247
No Cursing, No Crying, No Cookies: The Interplay of History and Geomorphology Dorothy Sack	254
Becoming a Geographer Rickie Sanders	262
Becoming Undisciplined Andrew Sayer	269
Time and Contingency: A Journey through Geography Michael A. Summerfield	279
From Essex to the 'Edgelands' of Geography Heather Viles	290
Reflections on Geography, the Long 1960s, and the Trahison Des Clercs Michael J. Watts	296
Index	309