Contents

1 Introduction 1
References 4

2 Basic Theoretical Considerations on the Book 7
2.1 Neopragmatism as a Metatheoretical Approach 8
2.2 Theoretical Tools for the Field: Phenomenology, Social Constructivism, Symbolic Interactionism: And Ongoing References Back to (Neo)Pragmatism 12
References 17

3 Irony as a Mode of Communication and Its Operationalization as Satire in the Form of a Caricature Practice 23
3.1 Developments Towards a Neopragmatist Understanding of Irony 23
3.2 Caricatures Between Satire, Cynicism, and Criticism 25
3.3 Access to the Field and Creation of Caricatures: Methodological Clarifications 31
3.4 Summary 34
References 36

4 University Life in Caricatures: An Ironic Look at Small and Big Failures 41
4.1 The Confusion of Teaching: And What Is Involved 42
4.2 Relationships Between Universities and Politics 50
4.3 Between the Front and Backstages of University Life 58
4.4 Failure in the Context of Science: Here—Careers 72
4.5 Theoretical Approaches: And their Practical Consequences 77
4.6 Side Effects of Living with Science 83
4.7 On Everyday Failure in University Practice 87
References 105

5 Conclusion: Failure as a Normal Case: Turning to the Productive Aspects of University and Academic-Biographical Breakpoints 111
References 113