Part I 'Introducing' Qualitative Research in Human Geography 1

1 Qualitative Research and Its Place in Human Geography 3
Hilary P.M. Winchester and Matthew W. Rofe

Chapter overview 3
Introduction 3
What is qualitative research? 5
What questions does qualitative research answer? 5
Types of qualitative research 8
The contribution of qualitative techniques to explanation in geography 13
The relationship between qualitative and quantitative geography 15
The history of qualitative research in geography 17
Contemporary qualitative geography—Theory/method links 21
Summary 23
Key terms 23
Review questions 24
Useful resources 24

2 Power, Subjectivity, and Ethics in Qualitative Research 26
Robyn Dowling

Chapter overview 26
Introduction: On the social relations of research 26
Research ethics and institutional review of research ethics 27

Privacy and confidentiality 28
Informed consent 29
Harm 29
Criticisms of, and moving beyond, ethical guidelines 30
Critical reflexivity 30
Power relations in qualitative research 31
Objectivity, subjectivity, and intersubjectivity in qualitative data collection 35
Summary and prompts for critical reflexivity 37
Key terms 38
Review questions 39
Useful resources 39
Note 39

3 Cross-Cultural Research: Ethics, Methods, and Relationships 40
Richie Howitt and Stan Stevens

Chapter overview: An explanation of our writing method 40
Modes of cross-cultural engagement: Colonial, post-colonial, decolonizing, and inclusionary research 41
Getting started: Research legitimacy and local authorization 50
Doing the work 52
The scale politics of cross-cultural research projects 52
Social/cultural transmission and creation of knowledge 54
Collaborative and participatory research 55
Constructing legitimacy 59
Making sense, reaching conclusions 61
Postscript, January 2009 63
Key terms 65
Review questions 65
Useful resources 66
Notes 66

4 Qualitative Research Design and Rigour 69
Matt Bradshaw and Elaine Stratford

Chapter overview 69
Introduction 69
Asking research questions 70
From asking research questions to conducting research 71
Selecting cases and participants 73
Selecting cases 73
Selecting participants 75

The nitty-gritty of participant selection 75
How many participants? 76
Ensuring rigour 77
Final comments 79
Key terms 80
Review questions 80
Useful resources 80

5 Case Studies in Qualitative Research 81
Jamie Baxter

Chapter overview 81
What is a case study? 81
The historical development of the case study 83
N=1 and the importance of depth and context 85
Types of case studies 85
Theory testing and theory generating cases 88
Case studies across time and space 89
Are case studies generalizable? 93
Conclusion 95
Key terms 96
Review questions 96
Useful resources 98
Notes 98

Part II 'Doing' Qualitative Research in Human Geography 99

6 Interviewing 101
Kevin Dunn

Chapter overview 101
Interviewing in geography 101
Types of interviewing 101
Strengths of interviewing 102
Interview design 104
The interview schedule or guide 104
Types of questions 105
Ordering questions and topics 107
Structured interviewing 109
Semi-structured interviewing 110
Unstructured interviewing 111
Interviewing practice 112

Contact 112
The interview relation 113
Closing the interview 117
Recording and transcribing interviews 118
Recording 119
Transcribing the data 120
Assembling field note files 124
Analyzing interview data 125
Presenting interview data 126
Interviews using computer-mediated communication 128
Advantages of CMC interviewing 128
Challenges of CMC interviewing 130
Strategies for good CMC interviews 132
Conclusion 135
Key terms 135
Review questions 136
Useful resources 137

7 Oral History and Human Geography 139
Karen George and Elaine Stratford

Chapter overview 139
Introduction 139
What is oral history and why use it in geographical research? 140
How is oral history different from interviewing? 142
Starting ethically 142
Getting to know your participant—The preliminary meeting 143
Sensitive issues 144
Multiple interviews 144
The question of questions 145
Interview structure 145
Questioning the source 146
Sound quality, interview sites, and other technical issues 146
Why and how to make oral history accessible 147
Uses of oral history—Spreading the word 148
Last words 149
Key terms 149
Review questions 150
Useful resources 150

8 Focusing on the Focus Group 152
Jenny Cameron

Chapter overview 152

What are focus groups? 152
Using focus groups in geography 155
Planning and conducting focus groups 157
Selecting participants 157
Composition of focus groups 158
Size and number of groups 159
Recruiting participants 159
Questions and topics 160
Conducting focus groups 161
On-line focus groups 166
Analyzing and presenting results 166
Conclusion 170
Key terms 171
Review questions 171
Useful resources 172

9 Historical Research and Archival Sources 173
Michael Roche

Chapter overview 173
Introduction 173
What is archival research? 174
Advice on conducting good historical and archival research 175
Challenges of archival research 183
Ethics and archives 185
Presenting the results of archival research 187
Conclusion 188
Key terms 189
Review questions 189

Silences: Silence as discourse and discourses that silence 235
Reflecting on doing discourse analysis 237
Key terms 239
Review questions 239
Useful resources 240

12 Seeing with Clarity: Undertaking Observational Research 241
Robin A. Kearns

Chapter overview 241
Purposes of observation 242
Types of observation 243
Participant observation 244
Power, knowledge, and observation 247
Stages of participant observation 249
Choice of setting 249
Access 250
Field relations 251
Talking and listening 253
Recording data 254
Analysis and presentation 254
Ethical obligations 255
Reflecting on the method 257

Key terms 258
Review questions 258
Useful resources 258

13 Participatory Action Research 259
Sara Kindon

Chapter overview 259
What is participatory action research? 259
Conducting 'good' participatory action research 261
The value and rewards of participatory action research 268
Challenges and strategies 271
Presenting results 273
Reflecting on participatory action research 275
Key terms 276
Review questions 276
Useful resources 277
Notes 277

Part III 'Interpreting and Communicating' Qualitative Research 279

14 Coding Qualitative Data 281
Meghan Cope

Chapter overview 281
Introduction 281
Types of codes and coding 282
The purposes of coding 283
How to get started with coding 285
Developing the coding structure 290
Coding with others 291
Coding and mapping 292
Being in the world, coding the world 292
Key terms 293
Review questions 293
Useful resources 294
Notes 294

15 Computers, Qualitative Data, and Geographic Research 295
Robin Peace and Bettina van Hoven

Chapter overview 295
Introduction 295

Who is using CAQDAS? 296
Toolkit technology 297
What is CAQDAS? 298
Different types of software 299
Basic word search and transcription tools 301
Text retrievers/Textbase managers 302
Code and retrieve 302
Code-based theory building 302
Graphic display 302
Considerations for choosing CAQDAS: Advantages and concerns 304
More than 'cut and paste' 304
The vocational argument 306
Issues of concern 306
Conclusion—Future directions 309
Key terms 309
Review questions 310
Useful resources 310
Note 313

16 Writing a Compelling Research Proposal 314
Janice Monk and Richard Bedford

Chapter overview 314
The research challenge 314
Where do research ideas come from? 315
Getting started 318
Specifying your research question 319
Framing your research 321
Developing your methodology 324
Writing the proposal 324
Seeking funding for research 329
A concluding comment 330
Key terms 331
Review questions 331
Useful resources 331
Notes 332

17 Writing Qualitative Geographies, Constructing Geographical Knowledges 333
Juliana Mansvelt and Lawrence D. Berg

Chapter overview 333
Styles of presentation 333

Positivist and neo-positivist approaches: Universal objectivity 334
Post-positivist approaches: Situated knowledges 336
Balancing description and interpretation—Observation and theory 340
The role of 'theory' and the constitution of 'truth' 340
Writing and researching as mutually constitutive practices 341
Issues of validity and authenticity 345
Conclusion 353
Key terms 353
Review questions 354
Useful resources 354
Notes 355

18 From Personal to Public: Communicating Qualitative Research for Public Consumption 356
Dydia DeLyser and Eric Pawson

Chapter overview 356
Introduction 356
Understanding audiences 357
Communicating with a wider audience 359
Structure and creativity 362
Convincing the audience 363
Conclusion 365
Key terms 366
Review questions 366
