Contents

List of illustrations vi
Acknowledgements viii

1 The problem with boredom 1

2 Re-imagining boredom as a schooling phenomenon 12

3 Becoming an assemblage ethnographer: a personal account 35

4 The assembling of boredom through spatio-temporal practices 59

5 Practices, participation and agency: feedback and modelling 90

6 Creating affective atmospheres in classrooms and digital gaming 123

7 Conclusion 140

Index 148