

ANDREW H. KNOLL

is the Fisher Research Professor of Natural History at Harvard University. He was awarded the Crafoord Prize in Geosciences by the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences. Professor Knoll's many other honors include the International Prize for Biology, the Walcott Medal and the Mary Clark Thompson Medal of the National Academy of Sciences, and the Wollaston Medal of the Geological Society of London.

MARINER

Cover design by Yeon Kim
Cover illustration courtesy of the David Rumsey Map Collection, www.davidrumsey.com
Author photograph by Marsha Knoll

"A SUBLIME CHRONICLE OF OUR PLANET."

—Booklist (starred review)

"A 4.6-billion-year detective story revealing the origins and inner workings of our home in the solar system."

—Neil Shubin

"Sweeping. . . . Not only makes the titular four billion years understandable—Knoll's accessible expertise makes it interesting."

—Globe and Mail (Toronto)

Available from HarperAudio, Harper Large Print, and HarperCollins e-books

DISCOVER GREAT AUTHORS, EXCLUSIVE OFFERS, AND MORE AT HC.COM.

ISBN 978-0-06-285392-9

0323

51999

EAN

9 780062 853929

Science | USA $19.99 CAN $24.99

Prologue: An Invitation 1

1 Chemical Earth 9

2 Physical Earth 37

3 Biological Earth 61

4 Oxygen Earth 91

5 Animal Earth 113

6 Green Earth 139

7 Catastrophic Earth 169

8 Human Earth 195

Acknowledgments 231

Further Reading 235

Index 251