

CONTENTS

PART ONE (1893–1894)

India and the British Parliament	5
New Lamps for Old	9

PART TWO (1905–1906)

Bhawani Mandir	65
Our Political Ideal (translation)	79

PART THREE (Bande Mataram, 1906–1908)

Partition and the Government	87
The Old Policy and the New	92
By the Way	95
The Man of the Past and the Man of the Future	99
The Results of the Congress	103
The Comilla Incident	107
British Protection or Self-Protection	113
The Doctrine of Passive Resistance	119
I. Introduction	121
II. Its Object	126
III. Its Necessity	132
IV. Its Methods	138
V. Its Obligations	144
VI. Its Limits	150
VII. Conclusions	155
The Leverage of Faith	161
Nationalism not Extremism	164
Shall India Be Free? — The Loyalist Gospel	168

Shall India Be Free? — National Development and Foreign Rule	171
Shall India Be Free?	176
Shall India Be Free? — Unity and British Rule	179
Look on this Picture, then on That	184
Lala Lajpatrai Deported	188
The Crisis	190
Government by Panic	193
Mr. Morley's Pronouncement	195
Wanted, a Policy	199
Personal Rule and Freedom of Speech and Writing	202
Europe and Asia	206
Boycott and After	211
The 7th of August	214
Advice to National College Students (speech)	217
The Three Unities of Sankharitola	220
The Martyrdom of Bepin Chandra	224
The Unhindu Spirit of Caste Rigidity	228
The Nagpur Affair and True Unity	231
The Life of Nationalism	234
More about Unity	240
Caste and Representation	243
The Awakening of Gujerat	247
The Present Situation (speech)	251
The Glory of God in Man	266
Swaraj and the Coming Anarchy	269
The Village and the Nation	273
The Need of the Moment	277
Oligarchy or Democracy?	281
India and the Mongolian	286
The New Ideal	291
The Work Before Us	296
Palli Samiti (speech)	299
The Future and the Nationalists	304
The Wheat and the Chaff	308
Party and the Country	313
The One Thing Needful	317

New Conditions	321
The Parable of Sati	324
Ideals Face to Face	328

PART FOUR (1906–1908)

The Bourgeois and the Samurai	335
The Heart of Nationalism	355
The Morality of Boycott	360

PART FIVE (Karmayogin and Dharma, 1909–1910)

Uttarpara Speech	367
Ourselves	377
The Ideal of the Karmayogin	382
“Swaraj” and the Musulmans	388
The Hammer of God (speech)	391
The Awakening Soul of India	401
Opinion and Comments	407
The Right of Association (speech)	415
The Doctrine of Sacrifice	431
An Open Letter to My Countrymen	436
The Blood of Raktabij (speech)	447
The Power that Uplifts	455
Facts and Opinions	460
National Resurgence (translation)	464
The Past and the Future	469
The Meaning of Freedom (translation)	475
Mahomedan Representation	478
The Hindu Sabha	481
The Bomb Case and Anglo-India	486
The Country and Nationalism (translation)	488
A United Congress (translation)	491
To My Countrymen	496
National Education	501
A Practicable Boycott	506
The New Policy	512

The Necessity of the Situation	518
In Either Case	524

PART SIX (after 1910)

The Reform Proposals	531
Message to Cripps	533
A Note on The Wavell Plan	534
Sri Aurobindo's Position on India's Independence	535
The Fifteenth of August 1947	536
A Message on the Death of Gandhi	540
Message to the Andhra University	541

GLOSSARY	548
-----------------	------------