

Table of contents

Introduction by Dr. Béla Túri-Kovács, Minister of Environmental Protection	6
The dying river	8
Three weeks of terror	10
Speech by Gábor Karátson, writer	18
The living Tisza	20
Gyula Juhász: Thaw (poem, translated by Peter Zollmann)	22
Gyula Juhász: To the Tisza (poem, translated by Peter Zollmann)	27
Essay by Lajos Pintér, writer	32
Gyula Juhász: Tisza scenes (poem, translated by Peter Zollmann)	34
Essay by Dr. György Bakondi, Director General, National Directorate General for Disaster Management	44
Gyula Juhász: Sunset on the Tisza bridge (poem, translated by Peter Zollmann)	46
Essay by János Sebeők, writer	56
Gyula Juhász: By the Tibiscus (poem, translated by Peter Zollmann)	58
Life on the Tisza	68
Essay by László Kunkovács, ethno-photographer	70
Along the river	84
Essay by Benő J. Horváth, ecological expert	86
István Fekete: The Wind and the Forest (story, details)	88
Essay by Antal Bognár, writer	100
The historic river	102
Sándor Petőfi: The Tisza (poem, translated by Eugénie Bayard Pierce and Emil Delmán) ..	102
The river-system. Essay by Géza Molnár, nature protection expert ..	105
Masters of the river	110
Losing the river	114
Conclusion and prospects	121
Epilogue by Dr. Zoltán Illés, Chairman of the Environmental Committee of Parliament	126