

Contents

Foreword	ix
The Text of The Confidence-Man	1
The Confidence-Man
Textual Appendix
A Note on the Text	219
The River	221
Backgrounds and Sources	225
Anonymous · Arrest of the Confidence Man	227
Evert A. Duyckinck · [The New Species of the Jeremy Diddler]	227
Anonymous · The Original Confidence Man in Town. —A Short Chapter on Misplaced Confidence	228
T. B. Thorpe · The Big Bear of Arkansas	229
Nathaniel Hawthorne · [A Satanic Beggar]	230
Nathaniel Hawthorne · [A Juvenile Salesman]	231
Nathaniel Hawthorne · The Celestial Railroad	232
Charles Dickens · [The City of Eden]	246
Egbert S. Oliver · Melville's Goneril and Fanny Kemble	247
James Hall · Indian hating.—Some of the sources of this animosity.—Brief Account of Col. Moredock	249
Melville and the Transcendentalists: A Chronology
March 12, 1847, Emerson to Duyckinck	255
May 28, 1847, Thoreau to Duyckinck	255
July 3, 1847, Thoreau to Duyckinck	255
July 27, 1847, Thoreau to Duyckinck	255
July 31, 1847, Melville and Duyckinck	255
October 31, 1848, Lowell on Emerson	255
February 24, 1849, Melville on Emerson	256
March 3, 1849, Melville on Emerson	256
September 22, 1849, Duyckinck on Thoreau	258
Spring or Summer, 1850, Melville reads Week ?	258
July, 1850, Melville reads The Scarlet Letter	259

July or August, 1850, Melville reads Mosses from an Old Manse	259
July or August, 1850, Melville reads "The Celestial Railroad"	260
September 3-6, 1850, Melville and the Hawthornes	260
September 5 or 6, 1850, Melville reads "Friendship"?	260
March, 1851, Melville and Hawthorne	261
December 2, 1852, Melville and the Hawthornes	261
October, 1854, Melville reads about Walden	261
March 22, 1862, or after, Melville annotates Emerson	262
Benjamin Franklin • [Confidence]	263
P. T. Barnum • [The Mystified Barber]	264
Reviews	267
Albany Evening Journal	269
Philadelphia North American and United States Gazette	269
New York Dispatch	269
Boston Evening Transcript	270
London Leader	271
London Literary Gazette, and Journal of Archæology, Science, and Art	271
New York Day Book	275
Burlington Free Press	275
London Illustrated Times	275
Berkshire County Eagle	278
Cincinnati Enquirer	279
Criticism	281
Carl Van Vechten • [The Great Transcendental Satire]	283
Jay Leyda • [Melville's Allegorizing]	284
Samuel Willis • Private Allegory and Public Allegory in Melville	285
Leon Howard • The Quest for Confidence	286
John W. Shroeder • Sources and Symbols for Melville's Confidence-Man	298
Watson G. Branch • The Mute as "Metaphysical Scamp"	316
Warner Berthoff • [Ponderous Stuttering in Chapter 5]	319

R. W. B. Lewis • [Goneril and the Man with Gold Sleeve-Buttons: The Prose in Chapters 12 and 7]	320
Elizabeth S. Foster • [Melville's Revisions of Chapter 14]	321
Hershel Parker • The Metaphysics of Indian-hating	323
Merton M. Sealts, Jr. • [The Dialogue in Chapter 30]	331
Allen Hayman • ["Reality" in Chapter 33]	332
Elizabeth S. Foster • [Emerson in The Confidence-Man ]	333
Brian Higgins • Mark Winsome and Egbert: "In the Friendly Spirit"	339
Harrison Hayford • Poe in The Confidence-Man	344
Hershel Parker • "The Story of China Aster": A Tentative Explication	353
Howard C. Horsford • Evidence of Melville's Plans for a Sequel to The Confidence-Man	356
An Annotated Bibliography	361
Watson G. Branch • An Annotated Bibliography	363