

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	v
Abbreviations	xi
About the author	xiii
Introduction	1
Chapter 1.
Cooperation in Criminal Matters in Europe	5
Introduction	5
1.1 Forms of cooperation in criminal matters in Europe	5
1.2 The European extradition model	11
1.3 The evolution of European cooperation in criminal matters until the Maastricht Treaty	23
1.4 Freedom, security and justice: the new agenda	28
1.5 First preliminary conclusions	37
Chapter 2.
The Principle of Mutual Recognition in Criminal Matters: Evolution and Main Features	41
Introduction	41
2.1 The current mutual recognition agenda	41
2.2 Mutual recognition v. harmonisation	48
2.3 The Treaty of Lisbon	52
2.4 Mutual recognition: rationale and context	59
2.5 Conclusion	64
Chapter 3.
Emergence and Nature of the European Arrest Warrant	67
Introduction	67
3.1 The trend towards simplified forms of extradition	67
3.2 The birth of the European Arrest Warrant: background and ratio	70
3.3 General features of the European Arrest Warrant. A new creature or a hybrid?	77
3.3.1 General principles	79

3.3.2	Procedure	84
3.3.2.1	Issuing of the EAW	85
3.3.2.2	Transmission of the EAW	85
3.3.2.3	Decision to execute	87
3.3.2.4	Decision to surrender	87
3.4	Conclusion	90

Chapter 4.

Defining Crimes in the European Union: A Sisyphean task? Double

Criminality and Related Issues	93
--------------------------------------	----

Introduction	93
--------------------	----

4.1	Crimes for which double criminality is lifted: all problems solved?	93
4.1.1	Crimes not subject to harmonisation	97
4.1.1.1	Murder and rape	98
4.1.1.2	Some special cases	107
4.1.2	Crimes subject to harmonisation	109
4.1.2.1	Terrorism, organised crime, drug trafficking, money laundering, trafficking in human beings, facilitation of unauthorised entry and residence	109
4.1.2.2	Corruption, fraud, euro counterfeiting, computer- related crime, sexual exploitation of children and child pornography, environmental crime	116
4.2	General assessment of the partial abolition of double criminality	118
4.3	Ne bis in idem and mutual trust	122
4.4	Conclusion	125

Chapter 5.

The Implementation of the European Arrest Warrant in the EU Member

States: General Overview and Two Case Studies	127
---	-----

Introduction	127
--------------------	-----

5.1	The removal of the nationality exception and the reaction of the national Constitutional Courts	128
5.2	The implementing legislation in the UK and Italy: divergence and convergence	135
5.2.1	Introduction	135
5.2.2	The Italian system	136
5.2.2.1	The transposition of the Framework Decision in the Italian system	136
5.2.2.2	The EAW in Italy: the main features	141
5.2.3	The UK system	148
5.2.3.1	The transposition of the Framework Decision in the UK system	149

5.2.3.2	The EAW in the UK: the main features.....	150
5.3	Practice at national level.....	157
5.3.1	Italy	157
5.3.2	United Kingdom	162
5.4	The general attitude of Member States towards the Framework Decision.....	168
Chapter 6.
	The European Arrest Warrant and Freedom, Security and Justice.....	175
	Introduction	175
6.1	Security vs. freedom: the protection of human rights in the Framework Decision	176
6.2	Security vs. freedom: Europol and Eurojust	189
6.3	The role of the European Court of Justice in the balance of principles .	192
6.4	The notions of freedom, security and justice.	198
6.4.1	The relativity of freedom, security and justice: criminal law without a State?	198
6.4.2	European criminal law and community	201
6.4.3	From reciprocity to mutuality.....	203
6.4.4	Mutual trust	207
6.5	Conclusion	211
Chapter 7.
	Conclusion	215
Appendix. Grounds for non-execution provided for in the implementing statutes of the United Kingdom and Italy
	Bibliography	227