

Contents

1 • introduction: some opening remarks	1
2 • talking back	5
3 • "when i was a young soldier for the revolution": coming to voice	10
4 • feminism: a transformational politic	19
5 • on self-recovery	28
6 • feminist theory: a radical agenda	35
7 • feminist scholarship: ethical issues	42
8 • toward a revolutionary feminist pedagogy	49
9 • black and female: reflections on graduate school	55
10 • on being black at yale: education as the practice of freedom	62
11 • keeping close to home: class and education	73
12 • violence in intimate relationship: a feminist perspective	84
13 • feminism and militarism: a comment	92
14 • pedagogy and political commitment: a comment	98
15 • feminist politicization: a comment	105
16 • overcoming white supremacy: a comment	112
17 • homophobia in black communities	120
18 • feminist focus on men: a comment	127
19 • "whose pussy is this": a feminist comment	134
20 • black women writing: creating more space	142
21 • Ain't I A Woman : looking back	148
22 • writing autobiography	155
23 • to gloria, who is she: on using a pseudonym	160
24 • interview	167
25 • black women and feminism	177
bibliography	183