

Content

Introduction	17
Chapter I. QUALITY OF FORENSIC EXAMINATION – ASPIRATION OR COMMONNESS	21
Yelena Rossinskaya General theory of forensic science as part of forensic expertology	29
Nina Klimenko Integration function of expertology	39
Ella Simakova-Yefremian The problems of differentiating tasks for comprehensive forensic investigations	40
Hendryk Malevski, Gabrielė Juodkaitė-Granskienė, Genrikas Nedveckis Education and training of forensic experts in Lithuania: benefits and problems	57
Elena Yelagina High-quality preparation of the forensic examination is a necessary condition for assuring high quality of its performance	71
Michail Shepitko False expert reports and experts mistakes: differentiation and responsibility	80
Viktoria Vardai Reliability and validity of expert opinions	82
Marek Fryšták Expert inquiry as evidence in Czech criminal proceedings	97
Gabrielė Juodkaitė-Granskienė, Vidmantas Vaitekūnas Probabilistic conclusions: trustful or not?	121
Elena V. Ivanova, Anastasiya I. Semikalenova Perspective forms of the specialist participation in the forensic examination	129
Renata Valūnė, Anelė Žalkauskienė Linguistic research in litigation over authorship misappropriation	137
Gintarė Žalkauskaitė Forensic linguistics examinations in the cases of slander and humiliation of honor	147

Mariya L. Podkatilina

Common problems of forensic linguistic examination of extremist materials 159

Tatyana Sokolova

Expertise of titles/names: theoretical and methodological problems 169

Elena Chubina

Methodological aspects of forensic linguistic expertise of the advertising text 179

Iwona Zienkiewicz, Sylwia Skubisz-Ślusarczyk

Reference material in graphological expertise – an “old issue”
still a challenge 181

Milena Pugnaroni, Roberto Federiconi

Forensic handwriting analysis: a research by means of digital biometrical signature 192

Rasa Tamošiūnaitė

Conclusion scale in handwriting examination in forensic science centre of Lithuania 205

Bernardas Šalna, Jelena Devenson, Donatas Lukšys

Database parameters influence on the automatic forensic speaker identification accuracy 216

Vidmantas Vaitekūnas, Stasė Kaduševičienė, Anastasija Lopaitytė

Legal and practical aspects of forensic examination of cannabis 225

Larisa F. Rubtsova

Forensic examination of drug analogues: modern Russian practice problems 235

Ireneusz Sołtyszewski

Perspectives of DNA typing for law enforcement purposes 237

Jarosław Moszczyński

DNA identification – golden standard or golden exception? 247

Irina O. Perepechina

Prospects of the forensic DNA studies of the health information:
potential and legal problems 261

Tatyana Moiseeva

Forensic microbiology: opportunities and perspectives 279

Dariusz Wilk

Physicochemical techniques for forensic examination of the works of art authenticity – a review of the development paths 281

Maciej Trzciński

Forensic science in cultural heritage protection 292

Lionginas Radzevičius, Egidijus Radzevičius

The relation of legal and special norms in technical safety forensic examination 309

Virginijus Pačebutas, Lina Lazarenko, Irmantas Granskas, Henrikas Vaitiekūnas

Photogrammetry – ability to reconstruct position of objects and traces of the accident location by using photos 322

Gleb P. Shamayev

Common expert errors in forensic fire investigation 334

Nikolay Kitayev, Valentina Kitayeva

Forensic psychological examination in the investigations of crimes performed by members of totalitarian sect 342