

CONTENTS

TOWARDS A TRANSITION TO RULE OF LAW

Radical Change and Unbalance of Law in a Central Europe under the Rule of Myths, not of Law [1996] .....	9
1. Post-modernity Diagnosed [9]    2. Radical Change with Radical Uniformisation [10]    3. Some Symptoms [16]    (a) Unpreparedness [17]    (b) Utopianism [18]    (c) Bibó-syndrome [19]    (d) Between the West – and the West [21]    4. Brave New Start with Tradition Left Behind [23]
Legal Scholarship at the Threshold of a New Millennium in the Central and Eastern European Region [1997] .....	26
(Naivety from the Beginning) [27]    1. (The Limits of Law-modernisation) [33] 2. (The Need for Scholarly Reconsideration) [34]    3. (Rebuilding the Social Contexture of Law) [36]    4. (Following Alien Patterns) [37]    5. (Want for Clarification) [42]    6. (New Unorganic Components) [46]    (Past Legacy in Legal Experience and Scholarship [46])
Rule of Law: Imperfectly Realised, or Perfected without Realisation? [2000] .....	50
1. Declarations [50]    2. Question-marks [54]
Rule of Law – at the Crossroads of Challenges [2001] .....	59
(Law: Values & Techniques [59]    Human-centeredness and Practical Orientation [66]    Theological and Anthropological Foundations [74]    An Irreplaceably Own Task [80]    Recapitulation [81]    A Final Remark in Comparison [82])
Rule of Law, or the Dilemma of an Ethos: to be Gardened or Mechanicised [2007] .....	85
I (Two Models for Transition, Post-WWII and Post-Communism) [85]    II (With Differing Understandings) [91]    III (What is to Remain if the Peak is Shaken?) [95]    IV (Circus Trainer, or a Gardener?) [98]    V (The German Master v. the Hungarian Disciple) [100]

THE BURDEN OF THE PAST

Why Having Failed in Facing with the Past? [2003] .....	107
Creeping Renovation of Law through Constitutional Judiciary? [2005] .....	117
1. Transitions in the Age of Globalisation [117]    2. Constitutional Assessment: the Hungarian Way [122]    3. An Example: Human Dignity in Isolation and Sterility [133]    4. Public Law Privatised with the State Targeted as a Common Enemy [138]    5. A Future with no Past [146]    6. Legality with Justice Silenced: Crimes and Unpunishment [147]    7. Rule of Constitutional Court Dicta, not of Law [154]    8. A Sliding Self-image [157]
What Has Happened and What Is Happening ever Since (In Remembrance of Deportations to Forced Work Camps at Hortobágy) [2005] .....	161
(Preliminaries to a Betrayal [161]    “Deportation” with Consequences [165] “Deportation” with no Silence Broken Since [168]    Considerations on How to Treat the Past after the Communism has Fallen [171]    Cul-de-sac as Assessed even by Liberal Standards [175])

1956 Judged by Ethics and Law, or the Moral Unity of the Law's Responsiveness as a Post-totalitarian Dilemma [2006] . . . . .	178
(Law and its Socio-ethical Basis [178] The Necessity of an Ethical Minimum in Law [185] The Drama of 1956 [187] The Shame of Posterity for the Law getting Silenced [192])

PERSPECTIVES

Failed Crusade: American Self-confidence, Russian Catastrophe [2002] . . . . .	199
(1. The Pattern-provider and its Transitology [199] 2.a. Organised Pressure on Making Patterns Followed [202] 2.b. Provoked Bankruptcy [206] 2.c. Cui prodest? [210] 2.d. Democracy Conceived in Tutelage [214] 3. Becoming a Pray of Globalism [216])
"Radical Evil" on Trial [2002] . . . . .	220
A. Historical Background [222] B. Normative Dimensions [225] a) Political Aspects [225] b) Moral Aspects [227] c) Legal Aspects [227]
Rule of Law between the Scylla of Imported Patterns and the Charybdis of Actual Realisations (The Experience of Lithuania) [2004] . . . . .	236
Transitology Questioned [236] Lithuania [238] (Ideal: Law & Balance [239] Ideal: Rights Counterbalanced by Duties [241] Anything Except to Democracy in Outcome [242] Legal Personalism as a Response [246]) A Call for Local Experience Assessed [246]

WHAT CAN BE HOPED FOR NOW?

In Bondage of Paradoxes, or Deadlock at the Peak of the Law we have Created for Ourselves [2007] . . . . .	251
(A 'Good' Constitution [251] With Moral Crisis behind It [254] In Want of Legal Defence Available [259])
At the Crossroads of Civil Obedience and Civil Disobedience [2007] . . . . .	262
(Civil Disobedience [262] Civil Obedience [267])
Subject index . . . . .	273
Index of Normative Materials . . . . .	283
Name index . . . . .	284
Bibliography of CSABA VARGA's further books . . . . .	290