CHAPTER 1 Sociological Theory: Diversity and Disagreement 1

Sociology and Science 1

The Elements of Theory 4 Concepts: The Basic Building Blocks of Theory 4 Variables as an Important Type of Concept 6 Theoretical Statements and Formats 7 Meta-theoretical schemes 8 Analytical schemes 9 Propositional schemes 11 Modeling schemes 15

An Assessment of Theoretical Approaches 21 Abstractness and Scope of Various Theoretical Schemes 21 Relative Merits of Diverse Theoretical Approaches 22

The State of Sociological Theory 27 Prevailing Theoretical Schemes in Sociology 27 Enduring Controversies in Sociological Theorizing 28 Can sociology be a science? 28 Should sociological theory be micro or macro? 28 Is sociology a paradigmatic science? 29

Theoretical Perspectives in Sociology 29

PART ONE

FUNCTIONAL THEORIZING 31

CHAPTER 2 The Emergence of Functionalism 33

Functionalism and the Organismic Analogy 33 The Organicism of Auguste Comte 34 The Analytical Functionalism of Herbert Spencer 37

Functionalism and Émile Durkheim 40

Functionalism and the Anthropological Tradition 42 The Functionalism of A. R. Radcliffe-Brown 43 The Functionalism of Bronislaw Malinowski 45

Functionalism and the Ghost of Max Weber 47

The Emergence of Functionalism: An Overview 48

CHAPTER 3 Analytical Functionalism: Talcott Parsons 51

The Structure of Social Action 52

The Social System 56

The Transition to Functional Imperativism 62

The Informational Hierarchy of Control 63

Generalized Media of Exchange 65

Parsons on Social Change 67

Parsons on "The Human Condition" 69

Criticisms of Parsonian Functionalism 71 Criticisms of Parsons' Substantive Image of Society 71 The Logical Criticisms of Requisite Functionalism 72

Talcott Parsons: An Overview 77

CHAPTER 4 Empirical Functionalism:
Robert K. Merton 79

Theories of the Middle Range 79

Merton's Paradigm for Functional Analysis 82 The Functional Unity Postulate 82 The Issue of Functional Universality 83 The Issue of Indispensability 83

A Protocol for Executing Functional Analysis 85

Illustrating Merton's Functional Strategy 87

CHAPTER 5 Neofunctionalism: Niklas Luhmann 93

Luhmann's "General Systems" Approach 94 System and Environment 94 Dimensions of the Environment 95 Types of Social Systems 96 Interaction systems 96 Organization systems 96
Societal systems 97 System Differentiation, Integration, and Conflict 97 Communications Media, Reflexivity, and Self-Thematization 100 Communication and codes 100 Communications media 100 Reflexivity and self-thematization 101 Luhmann's
Basic Approach 102

Luhmann's Conception of Social Evolution 102 The Underlying Mechanisms of Evolution 103 Evolution and Social Differentiation 104

The Functional Differentiation of Society	107	Politics as a Social System	107
The Autonomy of the Legal System	110	The Economy as a Social System	111
An Assessment of Luhmann's Neofunctionalism	113

CHAPTER 6 General Systems Functionalism 116

Early Systems Approaches 116

General Systems Theory 117

Basic Concepts of Systems Theory	119	Energy, Matter, and Information	119
Entropy and Negative Entropy	119	Organization and System	120
Open and Closed Systems	120	Cybernetic Systems	120
System Levels	121

Living Systems: James G. Miller's Analysis 122

Conclusion 129

CHAPTER 7 Ecological Functionalism:

Amos H. Hawley 131

Origins of the Ecological Perspective 131

Amos H. Hawley's Human Ecology Perspective	136	Production, Transportation, and Communication	136
The Environment	138	The Functionalism in Human Ecology	140
Equilibrium and Change	142	Growth and Evolution	144

Conclusion 150

CHAPTER 8 Biological Functionalism:

Pierre van den Berghe 152

The Sociobiological Challenge 152

The Origins of Sociobiology	153	Herbert Spencer and Biological Sociology	153
Charles Darwin and Natural Selection	154	The Genetic Theory of Natural Selection	156
The genetics of the individual	156	The genetics of the population	157

The Emergence and Codification of Sociobiology	159	The First True Sociobiologists	160
Early instinct theories	160	Functional sociobiology	161

Why Is Sociobiology Functional? 165

A Sociobiological Approach to Biological Functionalism: Pierre van den Berghe	167	The Early Biosocial Instinct Approach	168
--	------------	---------------------------------------	-----

The Switch to Biological Functionalism	169	Criticisms of sociology	169	Conceptualizing sociobiological processes	171	Conceptualizing cultural processes	174	Explanations of social phenomena with sociobiology	175
Sociobiology: A Concluding Comment	177

PART TWO

CONFLICT THEORIZING 179

CHAPTER 9 The Origins of Conflict and Critical Theorizing 181

The Conflict Alternative 181

Karl Marx and the Origins of Conflict and Critical Theory 184

Critical Strains in Marx's Thought 184 Positivistic Strains in Marx's Thought 185

Georg Simmel and Conflict Theorizing 189 Functional Strains in Simmel's Thought 189 Simmel's Implicit Attack on Marx's Emancipatory Project 195

Max Weber's Theory of Conflict 196 Positivistic Strains in Weber's Thought 196 Weber's Pessimism and the Dilemma for the Emancipation Project of Critical Theories 200

The Proliferation of Conflict Sociology 202

CHAPTER 10 Dialectical Conflict Theory: Ralf Dahrendorf 203

Ritualized Criticism of Functionalism 203

Dahrendorf's Image of the Social Order 204

Criticisms of the Dialectical Conflict Model 208 Problems in the Causal Analysis 208 Methodological Problems 212

From Utopia to Where? A Concluding Comment 213

CHAPTER 11 Conflict Functionalism: Lewis A. Coser 216

The Standardized Critique 216

Images of Social Organization 217

Propositions on Conflict Processes	219	The Causes of Conflict	219	The Violence of Conflict	221	The Duration of Conflict	222	The Functions of Social Conflict	223
Coser's Functional Approach: An Assessment	226

CHAPTER 12 Exchange Conflict Theory: Randall Collins 228

The Critique of Macrostructural Analysis 229

Interaction Ritual Chains	232	The Nature of Rituals	232	The Underlying Exchange Dynamic	234
----------------------------------	------------	-----------------------	-----	---------------------------------	-----

Micro and Macro Linkages 239

Conflict Sociology	240	Talk and Ritual	241	Deference and Demeanor	243	Class Cultures	244	Sexual Stratification	246	Age Stratification	247	Organizational Processes	248	The State and Economy	248	Geopolitics	250
---------------------------	------------	-----------------	-----	------------------------	-----	----------------	-----	-----------------------	-----	--------------------	-----	--------------------------	-----	-----------------------	-----	-------------	-----

Conclusion 251

CHAPTER 13 Critical Theorizing: Jurgen Habermas 254

Early Critical Theory: Lukács, Horkheimer, Adorno 256

The Critical Approach of Jurgen Habermas	258	The Central Problem of Critical Theory	259	Habermas' Analysis of "The Public Sphere"	260	The Critique of Science	261	Legitimation Crises in Society	263	Early Analyses of Speech and Interaction	265	Habermas' Reconceptualization of Social Evolution	268	The Theory of Communicative Action	270
---	------------	--	-----	---	-----	-------------------------	-----	--------------------------------	-----	--	-----	---	-----	------------------------------------	-----

An Assessment of Habermas' Critical Theory and Project 277

Evaluating Habermas' Conception of Action	277	Habermas' Conception of Interaction	278	Habermas' Macrosociology: System and Lifeworld	278	Habermas' View of Evolution	280
---	-----	-------------------------------------	-----	--	-----	-----------------------------	-----

PART THREE

EXCHANGE THEORIZING 283

CHAPTER 14 Early Forms of Exchange Theorizing 285

Utilitarianism: The Legacy of Classical Economics 285

Exchange Theory in Anthropology	287	Sir James Frazer	287	Bronislaw Malinowski and Nonmaterial Exchange	289	Marcel Mauss
--	------------	------------------	-----	---	-----	--------------	--

and the Emergence of Exchange Structuralism 290 Claude Lévi-Strauss and Structuralism 292

Psychological Behaviorism and Exchange Theory 294

The Sociological Tradition and Exchange Theory 297 Marx's Theory of Exchange and Conflict 298 Georg Simmel's Exchange Theory 299

Modern Exchange Theory: A Preview 301

CHAPTER 15 Exchange Behaviorism: George C. Homans 303

The Early Inductive Strategy 304

The Addition of a Deductive Strategy 308

The Exchange Model 309 Sources of Homans' Psychological Exchange Perspective 309 The Basic Concepts 311 Elementary Principles of Social Behavior 312 Homans' Construction of Deductive Systems 314

Criticisms of Homans' Strategy and Exchange Theory 317

The Issue of Rationality 317 The Issue of Tautology 318 The Issue of Reductionism 319

Homans' Image of Society 322

CHAPTER 16 Structural Exchange Theory: Peter M. Blau 328

Blau's Theoretical Strategy 328

Basic Exchange Principles 330

Basic Exchange Processes in Social Life 333 Elementary Systems of Exchange 333 Exchange Systems and Macrostructure 340

The Organizational Basis of Society 346

The Unresolved Issue: Micro- versus Macroanalysis 350

CHAPTER 17 Rational Choice Theory: Michael Hechter 352

The Sociological Revival of Utilitarianism 352

Hechter's Rational Choice Theory of Group Solidarity 354

The Critique of "Emergent Property" Theories 355 Basic Concepts in Rational Choice Theories 355 The Basis of Social Control: Dependence, Monitoring, and Sanctioning 357 Types of Groups 358 Pat-

terms of Control in Compensatory and Obligatory Groups	361	The
Theory Summarized	363	Macrostructural Implications
Conclusion	365

PART FOUR

INTERACTIONIST THEORIZING 367

CHAPTER 18 Early Interactionism and Phenomenology 369

Early American Insights 369 William James and the Concept of "Self" 370 Self and Social Process: Charles Horton Cooley 370 Pragmatism and Thinking: The Contribution of John Dewey 371 Main Currents of Thought in America: Pragmatism, Darwinism, and Behaviorism 372 George Herbert Mead's Synthesis 373 Conceptualizing Structure and Role 377 Robert Park and Role Theory 377 Jacob Moreno and Role Theory 378 Ralph Linton and Role Theory 379

Early European Insights 379 Georg Simmel and "Sociation" 380 Émile Durkheim's Metamorphosis 381 Max Weber and "Social Action" 382 European Phenomenology 382 Edmund Husserl's project 383 The phenomenological interactionism of Alfred Schutz 385

Modern Interactionism: A Review 389

CHAPTER 19 Symbolic Interactionism: Herbert Blumer and Manford Kuhn 391

Symbolic Interactionism: Points of Convergence 392 Humans as Symbol Users 392 Symbolic Communication 393 Interaction and Role Taking 393 Interaction, Humans, and Society 393

Areas of Disagreement and Controversy 394 The Nature of the Individual 395 The Nature of Interaction 396 The Nature of Social Organization 397 The Nature of Methods 398 The Nature and Possibilities of Sociological Theory 403 The Chicago and Iowa Schools: An Overview 405

Symbolic Interactionism: A Concluding Comment 408

CHAPTER 20 Structural Role Theory 410

The Conceptual Thrust of Structural Role Theory 411

Images of Society and the Individual 411 The Nature of Social Organization 412 Expectations from the script 412 Expectations from other players 413 Expectations from the audience 413 The Nature of the Individual 414 The Articulation between the Individual and Society 415 Prescribed roles 415 Subjective roles 415 Enacted roles 416

Problems and Issues in Building Role Theory 419 Constructing Propositions 419 Methodological Implications 420

CHAPTER 21 Process Role Theory: Ralph H. Turner 425

The Critique of Structural Theory 425

Interaction and Roles 427 The Role-Making Process 427 The "Folk Norm of Consistency" 427 The Tentative Nature of Interaction 428 The Process of Role Verification 428 Self-Conceptions and Role 428

The Strategy for Building Role Theory 430 The Concepts of Role Theory 430 Sorting Out Tendencies 430 Generating and Organizing Empirical Propositions 434 Developing Explanatory Propositions 438 Functionality 439 Representation 441 Tenability 443

Process Role Theory: A Brief Assessment of Turner's Approach 445

CHAPTER 22 Dramaturgical Theory: Erving Goffman 447

The Interaction Order 447

The Dramaturgical Metaphor 449

The Presentation of Self 450

Focused Interaction 453 Encounters 454 Ritual 456 Roles 457 Self 458 Talk 460 Disruption and Repair in Focused Interaction 463

Unfocused Interaction 464

Frames and the Organization of Experience 466 What Is a Frame? 467 Primary Frames 468 Keys and Keying 469 Fabrications 469 The Complexity of Experience 470

Conclusion 471

CHAPTER 23 The Ethnomethodological Challenge 472

The Origins of Ethnomethodology 473 Blumer's Interactionism and Ethnomethodology 473 Goffman's Dramaturgical Analysis and Ethnomethodology 474 Alfred Schutz, Phenomenology, and Ethnomethodology 474

The Nature of Ethnomethodology 475 Metaphysics or Methodology? 475 Concepts and Principles of Ethnomethodology 477 Varieties of Ethnomethodological Inquiry 480

New Paradigm or Important Supplement? 485

PART FIVE

STRUCTURAL THEORIZING 487

CHAPTER 24 The Origins of Structural Theorizing 489

The Idea of Social Structure 489

Karl Marx and Structural Analysis 490

The Structuralism of Émile Durkheim 491

The Structuralism of Claude Lévi-Strauss 493

Georg Simmel's Formal Approach 495

Interactionism and Microstructuralism 497 G. H. Mead's Behavioristic Structuralism 497 Alfred Schutz 498

Modern Structural Analysis 498

CHAPTER 25 Cultural Structuralism: Robert Wuthnow and Pierre Bourdieu 500

Modern Structuralism 500

Cultural Analysis: Robert Wuthnow 501 Cultural Structure, Ritual, and Institutional Context 502 The Moral Order 503 The structure of moral codes 503 The nature of ritual 504 Institutional context 504 Ideology 505 The Dynamics of the Moral Order 505

Constructivist Structuralism: Pierre Bourdieu 508 Criticisms of Existing Theories 508 The critique of structuralism 508 The critique of interactionism and phenomenology 509 The critique of utilitarianism 510 Bourdieu's Cultural Conflict Theory 512 Classes and capital 512 Class cultures and habitus 516

Conclusion 518

CHAPTER 26 Structuration Theory: Anthony Giddens 519

The Critique of Social Theory 519 Rejecting Naturalism and Positivism 529 Obviating Sociological Dualisms 520 The Critique of Functionalism and Evolutionism 521 The Limits of Interactionism 522 The Critique of Structuralism 522

The "Theory of Structuration" 523 Reconceptualizing Structure and Social System 523 Reconceptualizing Institutions 527 Structural Principles, Sets, and Properties 528 Structural Contradiction 529 Agents, Agency, and Action 530 Routinization and Regionalization of Interaction 533 Routines 533 Regionalization 535

Structuration Theory: A Summary and Assessment 535

CHAPTER 27 Network Analysis 540

The Diverse Origins of Network Sociology 541 Jacob Moreno and Sociometric Techniques 541 Studies of Communications in Groups: Alex Bavelas and Harold Leavitt 542 Early Gestalt and Balance Approaches: Heider, Newcomb, Cartwright and Harary 544 S. F. Nadel and Anthropological Influences on Network Analysis 547

Basic Theoretical Concepts in Network Analysis 549 Points and Nodes: Persons, Positions, and Actors 549 Links, Ties, Connections 550 Patterns and Configurations of Ties 551 Number of ties 551 Directedness 551 Reciprocity of ties 551 Transitivity of ties 552 Density of ties 552 Strength of ties 553 Bridges 554 Brokerage 554 Centrality 554 Equivalence 555

The Theoretical Potential of Network Sociology 557

Exchange Theory and Network Analysis: The Emerson-Cook Program 558 The Overall Strategy 559 The Basic Exchange Concepts 560 The Basic Exchange Processes 562 The Basic Exchange Propositions 563 Structure, Networks, and Exchange 563

Conclusion 571

CHAPTER 28 Macrostructural Theory: Peter M. Blau 573

Blau's Theoretical Strategy 573

Blau's Theory of Macrostructure 578

Macrostructuralism: An Assessment 581
