

Contents

---

Foreword	vii
Ian Hancock
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	xiii
Will Guy

Part One 'A truly European people': themes and issues

1 Romani identity and post-Communist policy	3
Will Guy
2 Historical and ethnographic background: Gypsies, Roma, Sinti	33
Elena Marushiakova and Vesselin Popov
3 Citizens of the world and nowhere: Minority, ethnic and human rights for Roma	54
Nicolae Gheorghe and Thomas Acton
4 Communist Roma policy 1945–1989 as seen through the Hungarian case	71
Michael Stewart
5 The emergence of European Roma policy	93
Martin Kovats
6 Romani refugees: the EU dimension	117
Mit'a Castle-Kaněrová
7 In the name of the Roma? The role of private foundations and NGOs	134
Nidhi Trehan

Part Two The Fifth World Romani Congress and the IRU

- 8 The International Romani Union:
An East European answer to West European questions? 157
Thomas Acton and Ilona Klimová

Part Three Diversity in Romani experience: countries of the region

- 9 Russia: politics of performance 227
Alaina Lemon
- 10 The Baltics, Belarus, Ukraine and Moldova:
Reflections on life in the former USSR 242
Valdemar Kalinin and Christina Kalinina
- 11 Poland: the clash of tradition and modernity 252
Lech Mróz
- 12 Germany and Austria: the 'Mauer im Kopf' or virtual wall 268
Susan Tebbutt
- 13 The Czech lands and Slovakia: another false dawn? 285
Will Guy
- 14 Hungary: politics, difference and equality 333
Martin Kovats
- 15 Romania: representations, public policies and political projects 351
László Fosztó and Marian-Viorel Anăstăsoaie
- 16 Bulgaria: ethnic diversity – a common struggle for equality 370
Elena Marushiakova and Vesselin Popov
- 17 Albania: awakening from a long sleep 389
Tracy Koci
- 18 Former Yugoslavia: a patchwork of destinies 405
Donald Kenrick
- Notes on the contributors 426