

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction: Learning from Encounters	1
Carl E. James and Adrienne Shadd
Part I: Who's a Canadian, Anyway?	7
Where Are You Really From? Notes of an "Immigrant" from North Buxton, Ontario	9
Adrienne Shadd
But What Is Your Nationality?	17
Susan Judith Ship
Québécois: An Ambiguous Identity	23
Guy Bédard
I Want to Call Myself Canadian	29
Katalin Szepesi
Hello . . . My Name Is	31
Katalin Szepesi
Part II: Growing Up	33
My Mother Used to Dance	35
Valerie Bedassigae Pheasant
Zebra: Growing Up Black and White in Canada	41
Lawrence Hill
Growing Up Ukrainian in Toronto	49
Jerry Diakiw
I Ain't Sitting Beside HER	57
Shyrose Jaffer

Present Company Excluded, of Course	63
Stanley Isoki
My New Home	72
Denny Hunte
Grade Six, 1993	74
Kai James
Part III: Identities: Living in Many Worlds	75
Revealing Moments: The Voice of One Who Lives with Labels ...	77
Didi Khayatt
Is It Japanese Artist or Artist Who Is Japanese?	91
Lillian Blakey
Being German, Being Canadian	103
Gottfried Paasche
Why Admit You Are an Eskimo?	119
Doris J. Saunders
When an Immigrant Meets an Aboriginal	121
Pui Yee Beryl Tsang
Part IV: Race, Privilege, and Challenges	123
I've Never Had a Black Teacher Before	125
Carl E. James
White Teacher, Black Literature	141
Leslie Sanders
White Privilege: What's in It for Me?	149
Karen Lynn
Learning from Discomfort: A Letter to My Daughters	155
Barb Thomas
Part V: Stereotyping Is a Common Practice, But	175
Stereotyping	177
Kai James
I Didn't Know You Were Jewish . . . and Other Things Not to Say When You Find Out	179
Ivan Kalmar
But You Are Different: In Conversation with a Friend	191
Sabra Desai
Part VI: Confronting Racism	199
The "Race Consciousness" of a South Asian (Canadian, of Course) Female Academic	201
Arun Mukherjee
One Family. Indivisible? Or Me, and Two of My Children	209
Boyce, Robert and Belle Richardson

There's a White Man in My Bed: Scenes from an Interracial Marriage	221
Pui Yee Beryl Tsang
Black Nationalists Beware! You Could Be Called a Racist for Being "Too Black and African"	231
Henry Martey Codjoe
Bibliography	237
Biographical Notes	241

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We would like to thank all those who submitted essays, stories, and poems for this collection, whether or not they made the final selection. All submissions were greatly appreciated, and your support and enthusiasm for the project are what kept us going. We are especially indebted to Susan Shapiro for the extra effort she made in compiling chapters of Quoted for us. Thanks also to Ayanna Black for her selfless giving a crucial wage in the development of the book, to Janet Cohen and Scott Milne for their support. We thank a whole lot of friends in Keweenaw, The Bronx, in particular Carroll Blum for a superb editing job, and Mary Anne Harrison for both her helpful and hilarious comments on the stories and her overall contribution to this project. We enjoyed working with you, Patricia, a friend and a mentor, for and Marilena, who we hope will inspire us a lot in the future. We are grateful to all those who helped us with our book, and we are dedicated.