

Contents

List of boxes, figures and tables	xiv
Preface	xvi
Acknowledgments	xviii
List of abbreviations	xx
List of main symbols used in UN documents	xxiv
Glossary	xxvi
Table of cases	xxviii
1 Introduction	1
Objectives of the study	1
Genesis of permanent sovereignty as a principle of international law	3
The international context	4
The subjects: a widening and a contracting circle	7
The objects to which permanent sovereignty applies	11
Goals and objectives for the exercise of permanent sovereignty	20
Scope and orientation of the study	25
PART I
The birth and development of the principle: the UN General Assembly as midwife
Introductory remarks to Part I	33
2 The formative years (1945–1962)	36
The early years (1945–1951): balancing national and global interests	37

	The 1952 'nationalization' resolution: the demand for economic independence	41
	Linking human rights, self-determination and natural resources (1952-1955)	49
	From self-determination of peoples to sovereignty of States: the UN Commission on Permanent Sovereignty over Natural Resources (1958-1961)	57
	Bridging the gap: the near-consensus on the Declaration on Permanent Sovereignty over Natural Resources (1962)	70
3	Promoting economic development by the exercise of permanent sovereignty: the period after 1962	82
	Reaffirming and elaborating the 1962 Declaration (1963-1970)	84
	Permanent sovereignty over marine resources (1970-1972)	90
	Towards the NIEO resolutions: renewed debate on nationalization (1972-1973)	92
	Steamrolling it through: the NIEO Declaration and Action Programme (1974)	96
	The Charter of Economic Rights and Duties of States (1974)	100
	Towards pragmatism: international co-operation in natural-resource policy	113
4	Permanent sovereignty, environmental protection and sustainable development	120
	Growing international awareness of environmental degradation	120
	Early UN resolutions on the conservation of nature	121
	Protecting the human environment: Stockholm 1972	122
	Follow-up to the Stockholm Declaration with respect to permanent sovereignty	127
	The UN and the issue of shared resources: the UNEP Guidelines of 1978	129
	The Brundtland Experts Group on Environmental Law	133
	Permanent sovereignty in an environmental and developmental context: Rio 1992	134
	Comparing the Stockholm and the Rio Declarations	139

5	Permanent sovereignty over natural resources in territories under occupation or foreign administration	143
	The status of Namibia and its natural resources before independence in 1990	144
	Permanent sovereignty over 'national' resources in Israeli-occupied territories	152
	Sovereignty over the Panama Canal and Zone	156
	Summary and appraisal of Part I	164

PART II

Natural-resource law in practice: from creeping national jurisdiction towards international co-operation

	Introductory remarks to Part II	171
6	International investment law: from nationalism to pragmatism	173
	'National standard' versus 'international minimum standard'	173
	Multilateral codes of conduct on foreign investment	181
	Multilateral instruments for promotion and protection of foreign investment	184
	Increasing popularity of bilateral investment treaties	190
	International settlement of investment disputes	194
	Trend towards pragmatism	195
7	The law of the sea: extension of control over marine resources	202
	'Planet Ocean'	202
	Classical law on the territorial sea: from 'cannonshot' to 'fixed distance'	203
	Extension of territorial sovereignty over maritime areas	205
	Extension of exclusive economic jurisdiction over marine resources	207
	A halt to the seaward rush: the common heritage of mankind	214
	International dispute settlement under the law of the sea	222
	Permanent sovereignty versus common heritage of humankind?	228

8	International environmental law: sovereignty versus the environment?	231
	The concept of international environmental law	231
	Codifying international environmental law	233
	Territorial sovereignty in international case law: 'bending before all international obligations'?	236
	Principles of international environmental law and state sovereignty	240
	Sovereignty versus the environment?	249
	Appraisal of Part II	251
PART III
	Balancing rights and duties in an increasingly interdependent world
	Introductory remarks to Part III	255
9	Rights and claims: seeking evidence of recognition in international law	258
	The grammar of rights	258
	The right to dispose freely of natural resources	260
	The right to explore and exploit natural resources freely	264
	The right to regain effective control and to compensation for damage	266
	The right to use natural resources for national development	269
	The right to manage natural resources pursuant to national environmental policy	274
	The right to an equitable share in benefits of transboundary natural resources	276
	The right to regulate foreign investment	278
	The right to expropriate or nationalize foreign investment	285
	The right to settle disputes on the basis of national law	298
10	Duties: the other side of the coin	306
	The concept of duties.	306
	The exercise of permanent sovereignty for national development and the well-being of the people	308
	Respect for the rights and interests of indigenous peoples	311

	Duty to co-operate for international development	319
	Conservation and sustainable use of natural wealth and resources	324
	The equitable sharing of transboundary natural resources	336
	Respect for international law and fair treatment of foreign investors	339
	Obligations related to the right to take foreign property	344
11	Sovereignty over natural resources as a basis for sustainable development	368
	The origin, development and legal status of the principle	369
	Changing perceptions on sovereignty, foreign investment and the role of international law	377
	Permanent sovereignty in an interdependent world	387

Appendices

I	United Nations resolutions and other decisions	399
II	Table of multilateral treaties	402
III	Survey of main cases	410
	Bibliography	419
	Index	447