

Contents

1.	Preface	7
2.	Twenty years Mapping European Butterflies: 1995 – 2015	8
3.	General background	13
3.1	Aims, scope and methods	13
3.2	Computer background and map grid	15
3.3	Reference locality system	20
3.4	Contributing coordinators and recorders	21
3.5	Acknowledgements	254
4.	Taxonomic background	26
4.1	Introduction	26
4.2	Noteworthy details	29
4.3	Systematic checklist	32
4.4	Annotated checklist of genus group names	37
4.5	Annotated checklist of species group names	54
4.6	Male genitalia of selected species	90
5.	Zoogeographic background	96
5.1	An outline of the Pleistocene history	96
5.2	A review of the Holocene history	98
5.3	Holocene range dynamics	104
5.4	Comparison of species ranges	107
6.	Distribution maps and tables	113
6.1	Introduction	113
6.2	Continental Europe	115
6.3	Macaronesian Islands	523
7.	Data evaluation and discussion	530
7.1	State of recording	530
7.2	Summary of distribution data	536
7.3	Zoogeographical composition	542
7.4	Hotspots of biodiversity	543
7.5	Implications for butterfly conservation	546
7.6	Closing remarks	549
8.	Indices and references	552
8.1	Alphabetic index of species	552
8.2	Gazetteer of reference localities	562
8.3	Glossary	598
8.4	Authors of photos	612
8.5	Literature cited	618