

Contents

Introduction: The Objects of Art History and Anthropology	vii
Mariët Westermann

Part One: Entwinement and Divergence

Warburg's Mask: A Study in Idolatry	3
David Freedberg

On the Margins of Recorded History: Anthropology and Primitivism	26
Francesco Pellizzi

Toward an Anthropology of the Image	41
Hans Belting

Linger or Flee? Pieter Aertsen, "Iguegha Uhe," Michel Leiris	59
Ikem Stanley Okoye

Transcending Places: A Hybrid, Multiplex Approach to Visual Culture	89
Suzanne Preston Blier

Part Two: Local Practice, Transcultural Theory

The Functions of Chinese Painting: Toward a Unified Field Theory	111
Jonathan Hay

Seeing Indigenous Australian Art	124
Howard Morphy

The Knowledge of Women	143
Sarah Brett-Smith

But Is It Art? The Complex Roles of Images in Moche Culture, an Ancient Andean Society of the Peruvian North Coast	164
Steve Bourget

Anthropologies and Histories of Art: A View from the Terrain of Native North American Art History	178
Janet Catherine Berlo

Part Three: Art as Anthropology

Reconfiguring the Ground: Art and the Visualization of Anthropology	195
Anna Grimshaw

History Now: Post-Tribal Art	221
Shelly Errington

The Value of Disciplinary Difference: Reflections on Art History and Anthropology at the Beginning of the Twenty-First Century	242
Ruth B. Phillips

Contributors	260
---------------------	-----