

CONTENTS

A Note on the Texts / ix

Acknowledgments / xi

Introduction: Chiefly about Christopher / 1

1 Mothers and Sons / 19

2 Fathers and Sons / 53

3 The Idea of War / 78

4 Mortmere / 110

5 The Hero / 136

6 The Homosexual as Hero / 170

Conclusion: Chiefly for Christopher/193

Notes/203

Selected Bibliography/229

Index/237

INDEX

- Aldington, Richard, 82
Allen, Walter, 219*n*
All the Conspirators, 19–30; major themes of, 20; mother as Enemy in, 20; influences on, 21, 206*n*; cinematic nature of, 21; weaknesses of, 26; victory of family in, 28; importance of, 29; compared to Perilous Privilege, 29–30; first references to homosexuality in, 172–73; relation to The World in the Evening and A Meeting by the River, 197; as an angry novel, 206*n*
—Chalmers, Allen: companion of Philip Lindsay, 24; the Truly Strong Man, 142
—Lindsay, Joan: relationship with Philip, 24–27; as mother figure, 26–28
—Lindsay, Mrs.: her dominance over son, 23; her dependence on son, 23–24; as master strategist, 24–25; as artistic failure, 26–27, 55
—Lindsay, Philip: as pseudoartist, 21–22; as mother's boy, 22; resemblance to mother, 23–24; play-acting of, 25; his flight from home, 27, 87; his island escape, 132; repressed homosexuality of, 173
—Page, Colonel, 22, 172
—Page, Victor, 22, 24–26
Altman, Dennis, 171–72
“Ambrose”: as study in despair, 131; antics of crew in, 131–33; as parody of the sacred, 132–33; sense of unreality in, 134–35
—Ambrose: his character, 131; as Lord of Misrule, 132; his similarity to Christopher, 133; as anti-saint, 166; homosexuality of, 183–85; island fantasy of, 184–85
—Constantinescu, Maria, 133–34, 185
Amis, Kingsley, 15, 45, 205*n*
An Approach to Vedanta, 54
Anti-Heroic Hero: Frank as, 6; and the father, 55; see also Isherwood, Frank
Anti-Myth: an escape from Kathleen's myth, 5; as family trait,

Anti-Myth (Continued)

- 5; beginnings of, 6; Frank's role in, 6; Judge Bradshaw's role in, 7; homosexuality in, 7; Enemy, or the Others, in, 8; as foundation of Isherwood's fiction, 8, 17; recast in later novels, 10; as product of revolt, 17; as personal world, 18; cramped by heterosexuality, 172, 196; see also Anti-Heroic Hero; Anti-Son; Homosexuality; The Test; The Truly Strong Man; The Truly Weak Man
- Anti-Son: in harmony with parents, 2-3, 76-77, 196; see also Isherwood, Christopher
- Arjuna, 61-62
- Ascent of F6, The*, 19, 70, 205-6*n*
- Atman, The, 62
- Auden, W. H., 23, 40, 57-58, 78, 88, 90, 92, 100, 101-2, 107, 109, 137, 142-43, 194-95, 196, 197
- Auden-Isherwood Departure: reaction of Connolly to, 13, 108; British reaction to, 107-9
- Bantock, G. H., 14, 112, 219*n*
- Beckett, Samuel, 200
- Belmare, Henry, 112
- Belmare, Miss, 112
- Bergmann, Friedrich, see Prater Violet; Viertel, Berthold
- Berlin: Isherwood's reasons for going to, 86-88; as Isherwood's city, 88; effects of Great War on, 88; in 30s, 88-89; ideal place for Isherwood, 110, 220-21*n*; before Hitler, 114-16, 217*n*; and Mortmere, 115-17; as absolute Test, 139
- "Berlin Diary, A (Autumn 1930)": characteristics of, 98; as mirror of political change, 98-99
- "Berlin Diary, A (Winter 1932-33)": characteristics of, 98; as mirror of political change, 98-99; homosexuality in, 178-79
- Berlin Stories, The*, 88; as a social document, 88-89; political significance of, 88-91; as epic, 91; cinematic nature of, 117-26; homosexuality in, 174-79; compared to A Single Man, 190-92; 226*n*
- Bhagavad-Gita*, 61-63, 69
- Blake, Edward, see The Memorial
- Bosch, Hieronymus, 114
- Bowles, Sally, see "Sally Bowles"
- Bradshaw, Judge, 7
- Bradshaw, William, see The Last of Mr. Norris; Isherwood, Christopher (narrator)
- Brooke, Rupert, 82
- Browne, Sir Thomas, 111
- Bubbi, 88
- Cambridge, 110-11
- Camera Technique: subjective and Germanic, 117; influence of German cinema on, 117-19; in The Berlin Stories, 117-26; and documentary film, 120; in The Last of Mr. Norris, 120-23; in "The Landauers," 123-24; in "The Nowaks," 123-25; and light and dark, 123-26; and point of view, 144-47
- Carroll, Lewis, 111
- Chalmers, Allen, see All the Conspirators
- Chamberlain, Neville, 193
- Chamson, André, 89-90
- Charlesworth, Major, see The Memorial
- Charlotte, see A Single Man
- Christopher and His Kind*: unexpected candor in, 1, 197; compared to Lions and Shadows, 10-12; Gerald Hamilton in, 92; Bernard Landauer's death, 97-98; "Waldemar" diary, 103; Berlin's sexual perversion, 116; conforms to a pattern, 170; homosexuality of Christopher, 177; Otto in, 177-78; compared with Goodbye to Berlin, 191
- Claptree, Sergeant, 111-12
- Clausewitz, 105-6
- Cockburn, Claud, 101
- "Colleagues, The," (Upward), 114
- Connolly, Cyril: on possessive mother, 12; on vernacular style,

- 12; in praise of Isherwood, 12; on All the Conspirators, 20, 29; on state of England in the 30s, 102; on Auden-Isherwood departure, 108; on Isherwood's tendency to apologize, 145; The Rock Pool and A Single Man, 158-59
- Conrad, Joseph, 1, 123
- Constantinescu, Maria, see "Ambrose"
- Cook, Bruce, 194
- Cosy Corner, 88
- Criterion*, The, 102
- Dali, Salvador, 111
- Day Lewis, Cecil, 8-9, 133, 137, 194
- Dickinson, Emily, 35
- Dobson, Zuleika, 91
- Doone, Rupert, 78
- Dostoevsky, Fyodor, 148
- Down There on a Visit*, 57-58; father figure in, 72-73; Mr. Lancaster's prophecy, 114, 123; camera technique in, 146; relationship to The Berlin Stories, 197; see also "Mr. Lancaster"; "Ambrose"; "Waldemar"; "Paul"
- Doyle, Conan, 111
- Drummond, Michael, see The World in the Evening
- Eliot, T. S., 68, 69, 102, 134, 141
- Enemies of Promise* (Cyril Connolly), 12
- Enemy, The: definition of, 8, 137; Kathleen as the first, 8, 137; the mother in All the Conspirators and The Memorial, 19, 136; altered conception of, 147-50
- Farrell, J. T., 61
- Father Figure: as authority, 53-54; Frank as, 54-55; of the Others, 55; two types in Isherwood's fiction, 55; influence of Vedanta on, 55; in The Memorial, 56; and the search for religion, 57-60; in Down There on a Visit, 72-73; and the swami in A Meeting by the River, 73-75
- Faulkner, William, 40, 81, 103
- Forster, E. M., 38, 54-55, 81, 165, 198
- France. Anatole, 111
- Fraser, G. S., 118, 222*n*
- Friedrich, Otto, 99, 217*n*
- Galeen, Henrik, 117
- "Garage of Drover's Hollow, The," 112
- Garnett, David, 13
- George, see A Single Man
- German Cinema, 88, 117-26
- "German Literature in England," 87
- Gollancz, Victor, 215*n*
- Goodbye to Berlin*: tonal change from The Last of Mr. Norris, 92; publication date of, 101; cinematic nature of, 123-26, 145
- Granta*, The, 223*n*
- Graves, Robert and Hodge, Alan, 214-15*n*
- Green, Henry, 55
- Greene, Graham, 222*n*
- Grimm, The Brothers, 5, 111
- Gunball, Ronald, 111
- Gunn, Thom, 15, 45, 50
- Hamilton, Gerald, 92, 102, 126
- Harris, Julie, 92
- Heard, Gerald, 50, 58-59, 107, 200
- Hearn, 112
- Heathcliff, 5, 57
- Heilbrun, Carolyn G., 16
- Heinz: model for Otto and Waldemar, 88; refused admission to England, 102; his farewell scene, 106-7
- Hemingway, Ernest, 50
- "Hero, The,": Isherwood's four key concepts in, 140-41
- Hersey, John, 71
- High Camp, 73
- Holy Widow-Mother, see Isherwood, Kathleen; Mother Figure
- Homosexuality: its revelation in Christopher and His Kind, 3; in anti-myth, 6, 7, 173; and Vedanta, 59; and Berlin, 87-88, 178-79; Isherwood's late revelation of, 171; reasons for revelation of, 171; treatment in All the Conspirators,

Homosexuality (Continued)

- 172-73; treatment in The Last of Mr. Norris, 174-75; women as enemies of, 173; two themes of, 174; its new dimension in The Berlin Stories, 174-75; in Goodbye to Berlin, 176-79; of Christopher, 177, 179-80; concealed in description of Otto, 177-78; concealed in The Berlin Stories and Prater Violet, 179-80; in Berlin diaries, 178-79; dilemma of, 180; in The World in the Evening, 180-83; of Truly Weak Man, 180-83; of Bob Wood, 180-81; of Dr. Charles Kennedy, 181; of Michael Drummond, 181-83; of Ambrose, 183-85; of George, 183, 185-90; and Isherwood's style, 190-92; Isherwood's treatment of, 191-92
- Hopkins, G. M., 59
- Huxley, Aldous, 50, 58-59, 107, 199, 200, 210*n*
- Hynd and Starn, 112

"Influences," 198-201

Isaacs, Jacob, 53

Isherwood, Christopher: as sacred orphan, 4; as anti-son, 4; in role of Heathcliff, 5, 57; fictional preoccupations of, 10; reactions to his emigration to America, 13, 107-9; critical reception in the 50s, 14-15; influence of Vedanta on, 51-52; his acceptance of Kathleen, 51-52; his rejection of Kathleen's Frank, 53; his creation of father figure, 54; his father complex and Christianity, 57-60; and God, 58; and art, 58; and pacifism, 58; and guru-disciple relationship, 60; and "Christopher" in Prater Violet, 71-72; and Frank, 76-77; his need for Kathleen, 77; and Berlin, 86-88; and "Bubbi," 88; and Orwell, 89, 195-96; his treatment of politics, 88-91, 218*n*; effects of war on, 100-2; his collaboration with

Auden, 101; letters of Lehmann, 101, 108-9; and Sudetenland crisis, 102; and the grotesque, 110; and Upward, 110, 113-14; and Cambridge, 110-11; and Mortmere, 112; and The Berlin Stories narrator, 126-27; and the past, 136; his self-imposed Tests, 137-39; and General Strike, 139; his search for fulfillment, 142-43; his criticism of Bradshaw as narrator, 144-45; and problem of camera-narrator, 145; his revelation of homosexuality, 171; as a 30s writer, 193-94; his consistent fictional themes, 196-97; his changes of style, 197; his growth in later novels, 197; influences on, 198-201; as serious comic writer, 200; full name of, 203*n*; Virginia Woolf's description of, 204*n*; and Huxley, 210*n*; and conversion to Vedanta, 210-11; and visit to China, 213-14*n*; and medical school, 216*n*; and Graham Greene, 222*n*; and homosexuality, 225*n*; plagued by Berlin Stories, 226*n*

Isherwood, Christopher (the narrator): in Christopher and His Kind, 1; his heartlessness, 126-27; and Mr. Lancaster, 128-31; as one of the Lost, 132-33; his similarity to Ambrose, 133; as Mortmere monster, 133-35; effects of Ambrose's island on, 134-35; greatest sin of, 143-44; reasons for creation of, 144-45; his involvement with others, 145; his concealment of homosexuality, 177-81; as "sexless nitwit," 179-80; see also The Berlin Stories; Prater Violet; Kathleen and Frank; Christopher and His Kind

Isherwood, Frank: character of, 4; and Kathleen, 4; as Anti-Heroic father, 6, 54-55; and Christopher, 76-77; as anti-ideal, 76-77

- Isherwood, Kathleen: private myth of, 4; diary of, 6; as holy widow-mother, 6; as the Enemy, 8; as Muse and Medusa, 20; her saving grace, 51-52
- Isherwood, Richard, 2; and Frank, 56, 209_n
- Israel, Wilfrid, 97; see also Landauer, Bernard
- James, Henry, 1, 161, 198
- Jarrow Marches, 193
- "Javanese Sapphires, The," 112
- Journey to a War*: critical comment on, 78-79; its definitions of war, 79-80
- "Journey to the Border" (Upward), 114
- Joyce, James, 34-35, 63, 96, 157
- Kathleen and Frank*, 1; a book of discovery and benediction, 2, 77; candor of, 171; first avowal of homosexuality in, 171, 201
- Kazin, Alfred, 100
- Kennedy, Dr. Charles, see The World in the Evening
- Kermode, Frank, 219_n
- Kipling, Rudyard, 217_n
- Krishna, 61-62
- "Landauers, The": theme of paralysis in, 96; publication date of, 101; and camera technique, 123-24
- Landauer, Bernard: isolation of, 96-97; death of, 97; his real-life model, 97; see also Israel, Wilfrid
- Landauer, Natalia, 96
- Lang, Fritz, 117
- Last of Mr. Norris, The*: publication date of, 101; cinematic nature of, 120-23
- Bradshaw, William: his Nazi nightmare, 100; as unsatisfactory narrator, 144
- Norris, Arthur: character of, 91; comic nature of, 219_n
- von Pregnitz, Baron, 121-23; as homosexual caricature, 174-76
- Lawrence, D. H., 68, 80, 82, 85, 114-15
- Lawrence, T. E., 198
- Lehmann, John, 12, 50, 89, 100, 108-9, 116, 118, 218_n
- Lindsay, Joan, see All the Conspirators
- Lindsay, Mrs., see All the Conspirators
- Lindsay, Philip, see All the Conspirators
- Lions and Shadows*, 2; contrasted with Christopher and His Kind, 10-12, 111; four key concepts in, 136; as first fiasco, 139
- Little Friend*, 60
- London Museum, 193
- Lost, The (Die Verlorenen)*, 91
- Lucas, F. L., 103-4
- MacNeice, Louis, 28, 137, 194
- Maes-Jelinek, Hena, 15, 90, 139, 207-8_n, 218_n
- Mansfield, Katherine, 46-48, 198-99
- Marple Hall, 4
- Maugham, Somerset, 145, 148
- Mayne, Richard, 15, 61
- Mears, Dr., 111
- Meeting by the River, A: The Truly Strong Man and The Truly Weak Man* in, 167-68; mother figures in, 42-43, 73-77; as religious novel, 150, 162-63, 166-67; technique of, 150; style and structure of, 161; humor of, 166-67; as practical joke, 167-68; new candor in, 170-71; as revision of All the Conspirators and The Memorial, 197
- Oliver, 73-77; and swami, 74-76; description of, 161; spiritual kinship with Patrick, 163-64; experience of dead swami, 163-65; his new vision of Test and of Enemy, 168-69; as a saint, 168-69
- Patrick, 73-77; description of, 161; spiritual kinship with Oliver, 163-64; his letter to Tommy, 163; his relation to wife, 165; his new vision of Test, 167
- Swami, 72-75; power of, 74-75; as father, 75-76; and Father of

Meeting by the River, A (Continued)

- Others, 76; Isherwood's description of, 213*n*
- Memorial, The*: Technique and characterization in, 30-32; divisions of, 31; Mandarin style of, 32; Father of the Others in, 56; and war, 85; Memorial Dedication in, 85-86; and Memorial Cross, 86; completed in Berlin, 88; its origins, 129-30; homosexuality in, 173-74; and The World in the Evening and A Meeting by the River, 197
- Blake, Edward: psychological portrait of, 85; effects of Memorial Cross on, 86; as Truly Weak Man, 141; "mucked" suicide attempt of, 141-42; homosexuality of, 173-74; as father to Eric, 174
- Charlesworth, Major Ronald: his infatuation with Lily Vernon, 32, 36-37; compared to Major Dobbin, 33, 85-86
- Scrivens, Anne: her attitude toward Mary, 38
- Scrivens, Mary: as destructive mother, 30; Isherwood's equivocal portrait of, 37; compared to Margaret Schlegel, 38; and Lily, the past, and the present, 39; effects on children, 39; and Memorial Cross, 86, 207-8*n*
- Scrivens, Maurice, 39, 86, 174
- Vernon, Eric: his relation to Lily, 33-34; influence of Lily on, 36; attitude toward Mary, 37-38; guilt of, 39-40; and past, 40; and Mary, 40; compared to Lily, 40; conversion to Catholicism of, 41, 208*n*; psychological portrait of, 85; and Memorial Cross, 86-87; repressed homosexuality of, 174; and Blake, 174
- Vernon, Lily: as evil mother, 30; compared to Amelia and Becky, 33; and Eric, 33-34; and Eveline, 34-35; and death, 35; narcissism of, 35-36; play-acting of, 35-36; effects on Eric of, 36; attitude toward past, 36; as seductress, 36-37; and Memorial Cross, 86; as anti-saint, 166
- Vernon, Richard: as cynosure, 56; as Truly Strong Man, 142
- Minnelli, Liza, 92
- Moby Dick*, 200
- Monk, Stephen, see The World in the Evening
- Morris, Lloyd, 208*n*
- Mortmere: description of, 7-8; as failure, 86, 88; influence on Isherwood and Upward of, 111; influences on, 111; portraits of characters in, 111-12; less exotic versions of, 112-14; and Berlin, 114-17; as state of soul, 114; as escape from reality, 139, 221*n*
- Mosley, Sir Oswald, 193
- Mother Figure: Mrs. Lindsay as, 19-30; as Isherwood's first enemy, 20, 137; effects of Vedanta on, 20; Lily Vernon as, 30-38; Mary Scrivens as, 38-40; Catholic Church as, 41; in Prater Violet, 42; in A Meeting by the River, 42; filled with blessings, 51-52; see also Isherwood, Kathleen
- "Mr. Lancaster," 126-31
- Muir, Edwin, 50-51
- Munch, Edward, 103
- Murnau, F. W., 117
- Murry, J. Middleton, 46
- National Portrait Gallery of London, 194
- "Natural Man and the Political Man, The," (Edwin Muir), 50-51
- New Writing* (John Lehmann), 12, 100, 101
- Norris, Arthur, see The Last of Mr. Norris
- "Nowaks, The": setting of, 94-95; family plight in, 95-96; publication date of, 101; sanatorium visit in, 124-25; camera technique in, 124-25
- Nowak, Frau, 95, 124-25

- Nowak, Grete, 95–96
- Nowak, Herr, 95–96
- Nowak, Lothar, 95
- Nowak, Otto, 95; see also “On Ruegen Island”
- Oliver, see A Meeting by the River
- “On Ruegen Island,” 93–94; politics in, 94; homosexuality in, 177–78
- Nowak, Otto, 93–94, 117
- Wilkinson, Peter, 93–94
- Orwell, George, 89, 195–96
- Othello*, 126
- Other Town, The, 110
- Pabst, G. W., 117
- Pacifism, 58, 77
- Page, Colonel, see All the Conspirators
- Page, Victor, see All the Conspirators
- Panichas, George A., 81
- Past, The: happier by definition, 4; Isherwood’s fear of, 4; and Edwardian England, 4; revision of, 136; reexamination of, 170–71
- Patrick, see A Meeting by the River
- “Paul,” 72
- Parr, Augustus: as guru, 72–73; and high camp, 73; as cardboard saint, 72–73; as link to spirit, 165
- Paul: as male prostitute, 72; as deepening of Isherwood’s characterization, 143
- Pennington, Sarah, see The World in the Evening
- Perilous Privilege*, 29–30
- Poe, Edgar Allan, 111
- Porter, Katherine Anne, 71
- Potter, Beatrix, 5, 111
- Prabhavananda, Swami, 58–59
- Prater Violet*: mother figure in, 42; significance of, 57; as religious novel, 60–72; major themes of, 60–61; and Bhagavad-Gita, 61–63; penultimate scene in, 65–72; critical discussion of, 71; homosexuality in, 179; and The Berlin Stories, 197; mantra of, 200
- Bergmann, Friedrich: first meeting with Christopher, 62–63; relation to Christopher, 63; dynamism of, 64–65; as father figure, 65–72; significance of, 71–72; as Truly Strong Man, 143; as link to spirit, 165
- Isherwood, Christopher (the narrator): his first meeting with Bergmann, 62–63; and British isolationism, 63; as Bergmann’s creation, 65; as Ishmael and Ahab, 68; and loss of ego, 67–71; and Isherwood, 71–72; see also Isherwood, Christopher (the narrator)
- Pritchett, V. S., 15
- “Problem of the Religious Novel, The,” 147–50
- Pryce-Jones, David, 10, 195–96, 208ⁿ
- Rat’s Hostel, 110
- Repton: War Memorial of, 82, 110
- Reptonian, The*: War Memorial dedication in, 82–86; editorial on war in, 84–85; and a “single man,” 153; description of, 215ⁿ
- Repton War Memorial: dedication of, 82; and the Public School Man, 83; description of, 215ⁿ
- Roberts, Michael, 9, 82
- Romilly, Giles and Esmond, 216ⁿ
- Ross, Jean, 92–93
- Rotha, Paul, 117–19
- Rydal, Elizabeth, see The World in the Evening
- Saint: in the religious novel, 148–50; as link to spirit, 165–66
- “Sally Bowles”: publication date of, 101; Christopher’s homosexuality in, 176–77
- Bowles, Sally: transfigured by art, 92–93
- Scrivens, Anne, see The Memorial
- Scrivens, Mary, see The Memorial
- Scrivens, Maurice, see The Memorial
- Single Man, A*, 135; as religious novel, 150, 161; technique in, 150;

Single Man, A (Continued)

- discussion of, 150–61; mystical passages in, 155–61; and The Rock Pool, 158–59; and A Meeting by the River, 161; homosexuality in, 183–84, 185–90; as autobiography, 189–90; and The Berlin Stories, 190–92, 197; narrative technique of, 224_n
- Charlotte, 188–89
- George: description of, 151–52; and Jim, 152; loneliness of, 152–53; and Kenny, 153–57; and Greater Consciousness, 155–61; and masturbation, 157; death of, 158–61; as Isherwood's Everyman, 161; his link to spirit, 165; homosexuality of, 181, 185–90; personae of, 186–87; women as enemy of, 187–88; as homosexual Everyman, 189
- Spender, Stephen, 6, 92, 107–8, 115, 120, 137, 194
- Steinbeck, John, 71
- Stevenson, Robert Louis, 199
- Stonier, G. W., 205–6_n
- Sudetenland Crisis, 102, 133
- Summers, Claude J., 189
- Surmelian, Leon, 146–47
- Swami, see A Meeting by the River
- Tennyson, Alfred Lord, 71
- Test: as substitute for war, 9; definition of, 9; for Truly Weak Man only, 9, 139–40, 136; as substitute for rejected values, 137–38; self-imposed by Isherwood, 137–39; effects on Isherwood, 137–39; more mature definition of, 143, 147–50; in A Meeting by the River, 167
- Thackeray, William Makepeace, 33
- Tolstoy, Leo, 199
- Trilling, Diana, 60–61, 67, 71
- Truly Strong Man: definition of, 9–10, 140; influence of Vedanta on, 10, 137; and Test, 140; in "The Hero," 140–41; fictional possibilities of, 142; as heroic cutout, 142; Allen Chalmers and Richard Vernon as, 142; Isherwood's altered conception of, 147–50; as saint, 147; in A Meeting by the River, 167–68
- Truly Weak Man: definition of, 9; influence of Vedanta on, 10, 137; and Test, 139–40; in "The Hero," 140–41; Edward Blake as, 141; fictional possibilities of, 142; Isherwood's altered conception of, 147–50; in A Meeting by the River, 167–68; as homosexual, 180–83
- Upward, Edward: with Isherwood at Cambridge, 7–8; with Isherwood at Repton, 110; "The Railway Accident," 111; compared to Isherwood, 113–14; and Marx, 114; "The Colleagues," 114; "Journey to the Border," 114; In the Thirties, 168
- van Druten, John, 14, 92, 211_n
- Vedanta: effects on anti-myth, 8; effects on Truly Strong Man and Truly Weak Man, 10; and mother figures, 20, 42–52; and Isherwood's novels, 50–52, 136, 143; and Christianity, 59–60; and homosexuality, 59; and Prater Violet, 60–72; as the true Atlantis, 143; and A Single Man, 155–61; and Isherwood, 210–11_n
- Vernon, Eric, see The Memorial
- Vernon, Lily, see The Memorial
- Viertel, Berthold, 60, 212–13_n; see also Bergmann, Friedrich
- Vivekananda, 59–60
- "Waldemar": war sickness in, 102–6; purpose of diary in, 103; and Journal Under the Terror, 103–4; as personal statement, 107; authenticity of diary in, 219–20_n
- Waldemar: real-life model for, 88; farewell scene of, 106; and Dorothy, 106, 130

- War: and Isherwood, 8-9, 100-6, 213-14_n; as Test, 9; definition of, 79-80; as nightmarish idea, 80; and Isherwood's generation, 82; in Isherwood's fiction, 81-82; and the Others, 83; Repton Headmaster's attitude toward, 83-84; Bishop of Manchester's attitude toward, 83-84
- Warner, Rex, 82, 137, 195
- Waugh, Evelyn, 50, 78-79
- Week, The*, (Claud Cockburn), 101
- Weisgerber, Jean, 15, 207_n
- Welken, Reverend, 111
- "What Vedanta Means to Me," 57-60, 75
- Wherry, Mr., 112
- Whitehead, John, 116-17
- Wiene, Robert, 117
- Wilde, Alan, 16, 206_n, 208_n
- Wilkinson, Peter, see "On Ruegen Island"
- Williams, Tennessee, 200
- Wilson, Angus, 46
- Wilson, Colin, 28
- Wood, Bob, see The World in the Evening
- Woodcock, George, 199
- Woolf, Virginia, 64, 204_n
- Wordsworth, William, 71
- World in the Evening, The*: critical reaction to, 15, 205_n; inspirational mother figures in, 43-52; "awkward jocularity" of, 45; as progress, 49-51; as a novel of spiritual awakening, 49-51, 56, 150; homosexuality in, 180-83; and All the Conspirators and The Memorial, 197
- Drummond, Michael: as homosexual idealist, 181-83
- Kennedy, Dr. Charles: lover of Bob Wood, 181
- Monk, Stephen: maturity of, 49-51; and Elizabeth's letters, 46-49; acceptance of father, 56; as sign of Isherwood's growth, 143; homosexual affairs of, 181-83
- Pennington, Sarah, 43-45; as surrogate mother, 43
- Rydal, Elizabeth: her dread of death, 48; her approach to writing, 48; themes in letters of, 48-49; and Stephen Monk, 43, 46-49; as link to spirit, 165, 182, 198
- Wood, Bob: as militant homosexual, 180-81
- Wyberslegh, 5, 203_n