

CONTENTS

Introduction vii

Use of the Selections xi

About the Contributors xii

Part I. Human Being and Social Reality

*Introduction 1

1. SOCIOLOGICAL MINDFULNESS 5

Michael Schwalbe

An engaging discussion of how people can benefit from practicing sociological mindfulness.

2. THE SOCIAL FOUNDATIONS OF HUMAN EXPERIENCE 9

Peter Berger and Thomas Luckmann

Berger and Luckmann's classic statement about how people socially construct and maintain reality and how this shapes individuals' experiences of the world and themselves.

3. SYMBOLS AND THE CREATION OF REALITY 17

Kent Sandstrom

A description of how symbols organize people's perceptions and definitions of "reality" and thus guide their actions and interactions.

4. ISLANDS OF MEANING 25

Eviatar Zerubavel

An examination of how individuals socially carve up reality into discrete categories of experience, or islands of meaning.

5. SPEED CULTURE 31

Simon Gottschalk

An analysis of how TV commercials promote the virtues of speed and present it as a normal and essential feature of everyday life in postmodern societies.

Part II. The Social Shaping of Subjective Experience

*Introduction 41

6. SMELL, ODOR, AND SOMATIC WORK 45

Dennis D. Waskul and Phillip Vannini

This study highlights how our sense of smell is informed and shaped by social meanings and expectations.

7. EMOTION WORK AND FEELING

RULES 56

Arlie Russell Hochschild

Hochschild's groundbreaking account of how emotion is informed and shaped by socially shared feeling rules.

*8. FEELING NORMS AND ROMANTIC

LOVE 63

Robin W. Simon, Donna Eder, and Cathy Evans

An analysis of the feeling rules that govern the experience and expression of romantic love among adolescent girls.

*9. MANAGING EMOTIONAL MANHOOD 75

Christian Vaccaro, Douglas Schrock, and Janice McCabe

An examination of the strategies that Mixed Martial Arts fighters use to manage their fears, intimidate their opponents, and display their "manhood."

10. THE ORGANIZATIONAL MANAGEMENT OF SHAME 86

Daniel D. Martin

Martin demonstrates how three different appearance organizations define the reality of obesity and help their members to understand, manage, or confront the shame evoked by their bodies.

*Denotes chapters and introductions new to the Seventh Edition.

Part III. The Social Construction of the Body and Embodiment

*Introduction 101

11. BECOMING A GENDERED BODY 105

Karin A. Martin

This study illustrates how the everyday practices of preschools teach children how to embody and perpetuate gender differences.

12. WOMEN AND THEIR CLITORIS 123

Dennis D. Waskul, Phillip Vannini, and Desiree Wiesen

An examination of how women's discovery and interpretation of the clitoris is informed by broader social discourses as well as by bodily sensations.

13. RISKY LESSONS 138

Jessica Fields

Fields reveals the formal and hidden lessons that children learn through sex education classes, especially regarding what they should seek and avoid in the realm of sexuality.

*14. DISCIPLINING CORPULENCE 149

Amanda Czerniawski

Czerniawski chronicles the extensive bodily labor that "plus-sized" models must perform to sustain the physical appearance demanded by their employers.

15. CORPORATE LOGO TATTOOS AND THE COMMODIFICATION OF THE BODY 160

Angela Orend and Patricia Gagné

An analysis of how people use corporate logo tattoos to convey personal meanings while, at the same time, collaborating in a form of "branding" that commodifies their bodies.

Part IV. The Social Construction of Self

*Introduction 171

16. THE SELF AS SENTIMENT

AND REFLECTION 175

Charles Horton Cooley

This is the classic statement of Cooley's theory of the "looking-glass self."

17. THE SELF AS SOCIAL STRUCTURE 180

George Herbert Mead

Mead's analysis of the social origins and character of the self inspired the development of a distinctively sociological psychology.

18. YOUNG CHILDREN'S RACIAL AND ETHNIC DEFINITIONS OF SELF 186

Debra Van Ausdale and Joe R. Feagin

A detailed observational study of preschool-age children's racial and ethnic definitions of themselves and others.

19. GANG-RELATED GUN VIOLENCE AND THE SELF 198

Paul B. Stretesky and Mark R. Pogrebin

An examination of how gangs serve as important agents of socialization that shape their members' self-images, particularly by linking them to expressions of toughness, masculinity, and violence.

20. THE DISSOLUTION OF THE SELF 208

Kenneth J. Gergen

Gergen argues that the varied and constantly changing experiences of contemporary social life encourage a fragmented and fluctuating sense of self.

Part V. The Self and Social Interaction

*Introduction 215

21. THE PRESENTATION OF SELF 219

Erving Goffman

Goffman's classic analysis of the theatrical character of everyday social life.

*22. THE GIRL HUNT 228

David Grazian

A portrayal of the dramaturgical teamwork and rituals that young, heterosexual men engage in as they present masculine selves and search for sexual partners.

23. THE GLORIED SELF 239

Patricia Adler and Peter Adler

This study considers how some college basketball players' definitions of self are transformed by celebrity.

24. THE PRESENTATION OF SELF IN VIRTUAL SPACES 249

Simon Gottschalk

An examination of how people construct and present avatar-based selves in the online world known as Second Life.

Part VI. The Organization of Social Interaction

Introduction 261

25. FACE-WORK AND INTERACTION

RITUALS 265

Erving Goffman

Goffman explains that individuals engage in ritual patterns of interaction so as not to tarnish their own or others' social reputations.

26. THE INTERACTION ORDER OF

PUBLIC BATHROOMS 275

Spencer E. Cahill

An analysis of routine behavior in public bathrooms that illustrates many of the dramatic and ritual elements of everyday interaction.

27. WHEELCHAIR USERS' INTERPERSONAL
MANAGEMENT OF EMOTIONS 286

Spencer E. Cahill and Robin Eggleston

This study of wheelchair users' public interactions shows how the emotional orderliness of everyday interaction depends on individuals' management of their own and others' emotions.

28. WORKING 'THE CODE' IN THE INNER CITY 298

Nikki Jones

An examination of how "the code of the street" shapes the interactions and self-conceptions of young women in urban neighborhoods.

Part VII. The Construction of Social Boundaries and Structures

Introduction 309

29. SOCIETY IN ACTION 313

Herbert Blumer

Blumer's general discussion of relationships among social structures, interactions, and definitions is a classic statement of the sociological perspective he named symbolic interactionism.

30. COLLECTIVE EMOTIONS AND BOUNDARY WORK AMONG EVANGELICAL
CHRISTIANS 319

Amy C. Wilkins

Wilkins reveals how an evangelical Christian organization manages the emotions of its members, particularly by emphasizing happiness and using it to create a symbolic boundary between Christians and non-Christians.

31. MANAGING EMOTIONS IN AN ANIMAL SHELTER 334

Arnold Arluke

A study of workers in an animal "kill shelter" that illustrates how socialization encourages the reproduction of social structures and institutions.

32. PROTECTING THE ROUTINE
FROM CHAOS 348

Daniel Chambliss

This study illustrates the strategies that nurses use to preserve a sense of order in the face of the disruptive and chaotic events that can take place in a hospital.

Part VIII. Reproducing and Resisting Inequalities

Introduction 359

33. BORDERWORK AMONG GIRLS
AND BOYS 365

Barrie Thorne

Thorne draws upon her observation of elementary-school children to demonstrate how girls and boys create, sustain, and reinforce beliefs about and divisions between the sexes.

34. SALVAGING DECENCY 374

Margarethe Kusenbach

An illustration of the strategies mobile home residents employ to counteract stigma and how these strategies reproduce the stereotypes others use to demean them.

35. FOR THE BETTERMENT OF KIDS WHO LOOK LIKE ME 386

Carissa Froyum

An analysis of a youth service agency in which white administrators and volunteers expected and policed "professionalism" among black youth workers in ways that reinforced racial hierarchy.

36. ESCAPING SYMBOLIC ENTRAPMENT, MAINTAINING SOCIAL IDENTITIES 398

Shane Sharp

Sharp demonstrates how conservative Christian women who were abused by their husbands develop vocabularies of their motives that allow them to divorce yet retain their conservative Christian identity.

37. DOING GENDER AS RESISTANCE 409

Chauntelle Anne Tibbals

Tibbals shows how waitresses "do gender" to resist conformity, servility, and routinization in different types of restaurant settings.

Part IX. The Politics of Social Reality

Introduction 423

38. THE MORAL CAREER OF THE MENTAL PATIENT 425

Erving Goffman

Goffman takes the perspective of mental patients in this classic study of their lives before and after hospitalization.

39. THE DYNAMICS OF FAMILY TROUBLE: MIDDLE-CLASS PARENTS WHOSE CHILDREN HAVE PROBLEMS 434

Ara A. Francis

Francis demonstrates how and when disruptions of family life become defined as "troubles" and provoke shifts in relationships, roles, and self-images.

40. BEING MIDDLE EASTERN AMERICAN IN THE CONTEXT OF THE WAR ON TERROR 444

Amir Marvasti

Marvasti draws on in-depth interviews and his personal experiences to demonstrate how Middle Eastern Americans experience and manage stigma in post-9/11 America.

41. NAZI DOCTORS AT AUSCHWITZ 459

Robert Jay Lifton

This study examines how the socially constructed reality of Nazi ideology and the socialization processes in the Auschwitz concentration camp induced doctors to participate in mass murder.

42. COLLECTIVE FORGETTING AND THE SYMBOLIC POWER OF ONENESS 468

Barry Schwartz

Schwartz uses the case of Rosa Parks to demonstrate how people selectively remember the "reality" of historical events and the importance of individuals who took part in those events.