

Contents

List of Tables and Figure	vii
Notes on Contributors	viii
List of Abbreviations	xiii
 Introduction Hanns W. Maull	 1
 Part I Domestic and European Sources of German Foreign Policy
1 The Polity of German Foreign Policy: Changes since Unification August Pradetto	15
2 Adapting to Europe? German Foreign Policy, Domestic Constraints, and the Limitations of Europeanization since Unification Alister Miskimmon and William E. Paterson	29
 Part II Security Policy Issues: Between NATO and the European Union
3 Germany and the Proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction Harald Müller	49
4 Civilian Power under Stress: Germany, NATO, and the European Security and Defense Policy Marco Overhaus	66
5 Normalization in Security Policy? Deployments of Bundeswehr Forces Abroad in the Era Schröder, 1998–2004 Martin Wagoner	79
 Part III Bilateralism and Multilateralism: European and Transatlantic Dimensions
6 Germany's New European Policy: Weaker, Leaner, Meaner Sebastian Harnisch and Siegfried Schieder	95
7 The Franco–German Relationship, 1998–2005 Hans Stark	109

8	Parting Ways: The German–American Relationship after Iraq Stephen F. Szabo	122
9	The Transatlantic Relationship: A View from Germany Peter Rudolf	137
10	Pan-European Stability: Still a Key Task? Günter Joetze	152
Part IV Foreign Economic Policies
11	German Energy and Security Policy: Technical versus Political Modes of Intervention Friedemann Müller	169
12	German Trade Policy: The Decline of Liberal Leadership Andreas Falke	185
13	Germany and the International Financial Order Reinhard Wolf	199
14	Germany's International Environmental Policy Detlef F. Sprinz	214
Part V The Outer Circle of German Foreign Policy
15	Germany's Development Policy since 1998 Peter Molt	233
16	Business As Usual: Red–Green Policies toward Pacific Asia Jörn-Carsten Gottwald	247
17	Germany and the Israeli–Palestinian Conflict Martin Beck	260
Conclusion: Uncertain Power—German Foreign Policy into the Twenty-First Century Hanns W. Maull		273
Index		287