

Table of contents

|                                                         |     |
|---------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Introduction: The Critic's Revenge (Stanley Bill) ..... | 7   |
| Part I .....                                     | 11  |
| 1. Narration as Dramatic Monologue.....                 | 13  |
| 2. A Portrait of Marcolf.....                           | 41  |
| 3. Socialist Parnassianism .....                        | 57  |
| 4. Polish Literature on the Holocaust.....              | 63  |
| 5. Through the Eyes of the Executioner .....            | 77  |
| 6. Narrative, Newspeak, Totalitarian Form.....          | 89  |
| Part II .....                                    | 95  |
| 7. On Totalitarian Discourse .....                      | 97  |
| 8. "Don't Let the Past Run Wild": .....                 | 101 |
| 9. Stalin the Magician .....                            | 123 |
| 10. Russian, German, Jew .....                          | 135 |
| 11. Talking Like Them .....                             | 145 |
| 12. Styles of Being, Styles of Speech .....             | 157 |
| 13. An Account of the Papal Visit.....                  | 211 |
| 14. Instigators.....                                    | 233 |
| 15. Ulysses' Day .....                                  | 245 |
| 16. Three Days with Nasz Dziennik .....          | 253 |
| 17. The Crisis in Patriotic Discourse .....             | 275 |
| Part III .....                                   | 293 |
| 18. Characteristics of Anti-Semitic Discourse .....     | 295 |
| 19. The Poetics of a Political Forgery .....            | 311 |
| 20. Always the Same .....                               | 327 |
| 21. The Case of Jan Dobraczyński.....                   | 347 |