

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction	1
Credo: A Prologue to the Series Systematic Theology	11
PART I. The Living God	15
Chapter 1. The Naming of God	17
Whether God Is Revealed; Whether God Can Be Defined; Whether God's Character Can Be Ascertained; Whether God Can Be Known by Negation or Analogy
Chapter 2. The Nature of God	53
The Divine Sufficiency : The Uncreated One; The Unity of God; The Infinity of God; The Living God; The Divine Majesty : God's Way of Being Near; God's Way of Knowing; God's Way of Influencing; The Holy One Present in Our Midst
Chapter 3. The Character of God	83
The Divine Thou : God as Incomparably Personal; God Is Spirit; The Freedom of God; The Divine Goodness : The Holiness of God; The Constant Goodness of God; The Compassion of God
PART II. The Reality of God	131
Chapter 4. Whether God Is	133
Whether the Existence of God Can Be Reasonably Argued; Arguments from Order and Design; Arguments from Human- ity: Mind, Human Nature, and General Consent; Arguments from Change, Causality, Contingency, and Degrees of Being; Arguments from Conscience, Beauty, Pragmatic Results, and Congruity; Argument from the Idea of Perfect Being
Chapter 5. Whether God Is Triune	181
Experiential Roots of Trinitarian Reasoning; Whether Scrip- ture Teaches Triunity; Historical Triune Teaching and Its Al- ternatives; The Triune Structure of Christian Teaching
PART III. The Work of God	225
Chapter 6. God the Creator and Creation	227
Biblical Views of God the Creator; The Triune Creator; The Goodness of Creatures; Consequent Issues of Creation Teaching

Chapter 7. God's Care for the World	270
The Meaning of Providence; Divine Preservation and Cooperation with Natural Causality; Divine Governance of the World; Problems of Providence: Fate, Sin, and Evil; Biblical Paradigms of Divine Care for the World; General and Special Providence
PART IV. The Study of God	317
Chapter 8. Whether God Can Be Studied	321
Whether the Deliberate Study of God Is Possible or Necessary to Faith; Whether Revelation Requires Scripture, Tradition, Experience, and Reason; Whether Church Tradition Is an Authoritative Source for the Study of God; Whether the Study of God Is a Science; Whether the Study of God Requires a Special Temperament; Whether the Study of God Is an Academic Discipline; The Study of Religion and the Study of God
Chapter 9. The Reasoning of Revelation	375
Must the Study of God Appeal to Reason? Reason and Certitude; What Purpose Does Reason Serve in the Study of God? Whether Faith Has Reasons That Reason Does Not Know
Postlude: On Theo-Comic Perception	405
Abbreviations	407
Name Index	415
Subject Index	419
Scripture Index	427