

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations

Acknowledgements

Teaching "Race" with a Gendered Edge—Introduction

Kristín Loftsdóttir and Brigitte Hipfl

Racism and gender—historical background	2
Colonial legacies and migration	5
Problematising "white" Western feminism and whiteness	9
Spaces of / for change	11
The chapters in the book	16

PART I: THEMATIC EXPLORATIONS

Chapter 1: Breaking the Canon? Critical Reflections on "Other" Literary Traditions

Sandra Ponzanesi

Introduction	25
Towards an alternative canon: Multiculturalism and diversity	27
The canon and the cultural industry	29
Race, gender and diversity in the canon: Toni Morrison	31
Beloved	32
Conclusion: Beyond the colour-line of the canon?	36
Implications for teaching	37
Questions	38
Assignments	39

Chapter 2: Monumental Dresses: Coming to Terms with Racial Repression

Rosemarie Buikema

Sexual difference and transitional justice	45
The woman who kept silent	48
The poetics of scrap	50
Implications for teaching: Working with exemplary case studies	54
Questions	56
Assignments	57

Chapter 3: Embodying Otherness while Teaching Race and Gender at White European Universities

Ellis Jonker

Introduction	61
Becoming educated in (post)colonial European society	63
Teaching about emotionally charged topics	67

PART II: EXPRESSIONS OF RACISM AND GENDER IN NATIONAL AND HISTORICAL CONTEXTS

79

Chapter 4: Disappearing Act: The Forgotten History of Colonialism, Eugenics and Gendered Othering in Denmark

Bolette Blaagaard and Rikke Andreassen

81

The colonial relationship that never was

83

Identifying the difference-gene

85

Exhibiting exclusion

87

"Religion is not a race"

88

Implications for teaching

89

Questions

91

Assignments

92

Chapter 5: Portugal and the Empire: Discourses and Practices on Race and Gender

Elsa Peralta and Simone Frangella

97

Grasping Portuguese colonial "exception"

97

Racial-gendered relations in imperial history

98

The making of the "gentler colonialists"

101

Post-colonial reverberations

105

Implications for teaching

106

Questions

108

Assignments

108

Chapter 6: The French Ban on Headscarves: Rendering Racism Respectable

Erzsébet Barát and Ebru Sungun

111

Introduction

111

Situating the 2004 Act

113

Civilising the "uncivilised"

115

Gendering the colonial other

117

Feminist critique of the ban: "Une École pour Tous et pour Toutes"

120

Concluding remarks

121

Implications for teaching

123

Questions and assignments

124

Chapter 7: Racial/Ethnic Otherness in Polish Public Discourse 127

Aleksandra M. Różalska

Conceptualising the racial other in Polish culture	127
The ethnic and religious composition of Polish society:
An historical perspective	129
Legal framework	130
Cultural racism	131
Towards the future	136
Implications for teaching	138
Questions	139
Assignments	139

Chapter 8: "Not a Country for Women, nor for Blacks":

Teaching Race and Gender in Italy between Colonial Heritages and New Perspectives 143

Manuela Coppola and Sonia Sabelli

Marketing the "other"	146
"Second generations" and the role of education	150
New perspectives: Teaching race and gender today	152
Implications for teaching	154
Questions	156
Assignments	156

List of Contributors 161