

Table of Contents

Armin Bardel
Images of Reality: Social and Aesthetic Aspects of Representation.....	5
David Bloor:
Collective Representation.....	13
Márta Fehér
Self-Representations of Science.....	23
Gábor Forrai
An Internal Realist Conception of Truth.....	29
Imre Hronszky
On Some Epistemic Questions of 'Inexact' Investigations.....	39
Ágota Krisztián
Numbers: A Third Kind of Representation?.....	49
Tatiana Leshkevich
Postmodern, Post-Non-Classics: Science, Art, Education.....	53
Tihamér Margitay
Scheme, Content, and Interpretation.....	59
Peter Mott
Is Semantics Possible?.....	65
Franz-Markus Peschl
Why Cognition and Representation Matters in the Development of Scientific Theories.....	83
Zdravko Radman
On Literal Lies and Fictional Facts.....	99
Howard Robinson
Representing One World: The Unity of Science and Realism in the Special Sciences.....	117

Emma Ruttkamp

The Role of Models in the Philosophy of Science: Mediating Between the "General" and the "Particular".....	127
---	-----

Nancy Salay

On Fodor and Non-Reducibility of Content.....	139
---	-----

Vardan Torosian

Postmodernism: Science as Art, Art as Science.....	147
--	-----