Contents

0	1	1.4	h		4.0
ι.	O	n	e_1	n	ts
~	~			-

Lis	t of Figures	stasta	xiii
Pro	ologue: The nature of significance	\bigcirc	xix
1	Signs: Units of significance		1
	Introduction		1
	Clay tokens		2
	Signs and sign-systems Semiotics and the semiotics ladder		5
	Clay tokens as signs		12
	Conclusion		15
	References		17
2	Systems: Patterns of order	P	19
-	Introduction		19
	The railway clearing house		20
	Systemics		24
	Core concepts of systems		26
	Patterns of order		29 33
	Types of system Conclusion		37
	References		40
3	Sign-systems: Patterns of significance	22	41
	Introduction	an and a support	41
	Facial expressions		42
	Systems of signs		44
	Types of sign-system		45
	Sign relations		51

		Cor	itent
	Actors and sign-systems		52
	How to tell a lie		54
	Conclusion		55
15	References	ins hours	5
4	Communication: The medium is not the message	500 × 100	58
	Introduction		5
	The dances of the European honeybee		5
	Classic model of communication		6
	Augmented model of communication		6
	Sensory modality		6
	Communication and sign-systems		6
	Conclusion		7
2	References		7
5	Control: Remaining viable		7
l	Introduction		7
	Perambulation		7
	The meaning of control		8
	Control as a process		8
	Control and communication		8
	Psyche as control		9
	Levels of psyche		9
	Conclusion		10
	References		10
	Data: Form to inform		10
1
	Introduction		10
	Inka Khipu		10
	Signals		11

ix

Contents

Discrimination		122
		125
		126
		129
		132
		133
		137
References		139
Data systems: Patterns of forma		141
	State and a state of the	141
		141
		150
		152
		152
		159
and the second		159
		162
		167
		169
		172
Kittines		1025
Information: In-form to perform	S	174
Introduction		174
		176
		177
		185
		187
		193
		197
References	NU E E LIVE AL	200
	Data systems: Patterns of forma Introduction The Hollerith electric tabulating system Forma and physical symbol systems Data model Facial expressions as forma Persistent data systems From records to writing From records to information technology Data systems, lists and databases Conclusion References Information: In-form to perform Introduction Problems with information Aboutness Intentionality and animal Psyche The stands for relation Semiosis as in-forming Conclusion	Symbols, perception and cognition Symbols and culture Natural, embodied and disembodied forma Persistent forma Conclusion References Data systems: Patterns of forma Introduction The Hollerith electric tabulating system Forma and physical symbol systems Data model Facial expressions as forma Persistent data systems From records to writing From records to writing From records to information technology Data systems, lists and databases Conclusion References Information: In-form to perform Problems with information Aboutness Intentionality and animal Psyche The stands for relation Semiosis as in-forming Conclusion

C	n	17	rt	o	$7	ŕ	¢
0	v	r,		5	1.1	٤	J

9	Information systems: Patterns of informa		202
	Introduction		202
	The Warning Network		203
	Informative acts		209
	Information systems and data systems		215
	Conclusion		219
-	References		222
10	Activity: Performa	T	223
	Introduction		223
	The science of shovelling		224
	Performative acts		226
	Tools in action		228
	Signs in action		230
	Performa, informa and forma		232
	Performance		235
	Machines as actors		237
	Conclusion		241
	References	and affiness	242
11	Activity systems: Patterns of performa		244
1	Introduction		244
	The emergency ambulance service		245
	Performative patterns		247
	Coordination and communication		251
	Activity system		253
	Activity and organisation		254
	Modelling activity systems		256
	Activity systems, information systems and data systems		262

Con	ton	te
Com	con	10

	266
	267
\bigcirc	268
Condition of the	268
	269
	279
	282
	287
	292
	293
	293
	294
	297
	298
	300
	302
	306
	308
ere quere	310
	317