Contents

4 LEONARD GROSCH / CONSTANZE A. PETROW
Parks for People

8 ROBERT HAMMOND
Parallels

11 LEONARD GROSCH
Learning from Gleisdreieck

12 Pictures in My Head: What Drives Me

15 Park am Gleisdreieck: Design Strategies
16 Location—A Need for History
21 Framework—Stability and Orientation
27 Program—Activity and Community
32 Multilayered Coding—Everyday Usability and Self-Realization
40 Stage and Stands—Great Cinema
43 Scale—Security and Freedom
46 Types of Nature—Wildness and Design
49 Detail—Precision and Sensuousness
53 Atmospheres—In the Middle of Things and Truly Outdoors

59 Outlook: It Continues!

65 Park am Gleisdreieck
Facets of an Open Space in Berlin

151 CONSTANZE A. PETROW
Designing Parks as Lively Places

154 Landscape Architecture as Urbanist Discipline
156 The Performative Approach
159 A Look Back: Parks in Modern Times

162 Designing Parks as Lively Places—Twelve Essentials
163 1. Develop with Multiple Voices
165 2. Design Complexly
168 3. Program Intensively
172 4. Position Cleverly
174 5. Fulfill the Promise of Nature
177 6. Tell Stories
180 7. Find and Strengthen Images
182 8. Interweave It with the City
185 9. Facilitate Appropriation
188 10. Be Welcoming to All
190 11. Vary Degrees of Publicness
192 12. Continue Enhancing Together

194 Conclusion: Parks for the Open City

197 FRIEDER BECKMANN / MEIKE HAKEN / ANTONIA MUSCHNER
A Park Full of Atmospheres
The Perception and Production of Atmospheres in the Park am Gleisdreieck

214 Bibliography
216 Imprint / Image credits