

Contents

Introduction
AIDA HUDSON	1
The Apprehension of Audience: The Difference Between Writing for Adults and Children
TIM WYNNE-JONES	11
Canadian Children's Literature at the Millennium
JUDITH SALTMAN	23
The Rise of the Aboriginal Voice in Canadian Adolescent Fiction 1970-1990
BEVERLEY HAUN	35
A Parliament of Stories: Multiculturalism and the Contemporary Children's Literature of Saskatchewan
GREGORY MAILLET	49
Retelling "Little Red Riding Hood" Abroad and at Home
SANDRA L. BECKETT	61
Secrecy and Space: Glenn Gould and Tim Wynne-Jones's The Maestro
ALAN WEST and LEE HARRIS	77

Brian O'Connal and Emily Byrd Starr: The Inheritors of Wordsworth's
"Gentle Breeze"

MARGARET STEFFLER

87

The Eros of Childhood and Early Adolescence in Girl Series:
L. M. Montgomery's Emily Trilogy

IRENE GAMMEL

97

"not one of those dreadful new women": Anne Shirley and the culture of imperial motherhood

CECILY DEVEREUX

119

L. M. Montgomery: Canon or Cultural Capital?

HELEN SIOURBAS

131

L. M. Montgomery and Everybody Else: A Look at the Books

VIRGINIA A. S. CARELESS

143

From Pagan to Christian: The Symbolic Journey of Anne of Green Gables

JOHN R. SORFLEET

175

The Picture Book: A Commentary

JANET LUNN

185

Publishing Children's Picture Books: The Role of Design and Art
Direction

MICHAEL SOLOMON

191

The Changing Faces of Canadian Children: Pictures, Power, and Pedagogy

ANDREA MCKENZIE

201

The Nature of Canadian Children's Literature: A Commentary

JOHN R. SORFLEET

219

The Nature of Children's Literature: A Commentary

ELIZABETH WATERSTON

227

Contributors

233