

Table of Contents

Editors' Foreword — V

Sergey Andreev

Quantitative Analysis of Poetic Space: Discrimination of Loci in Eugene Onegin
by A. S. Pushkin — 1

Martina Benešová – Denis Birjukov

Application of the Menzerath-Altmann Law to Contemporary Written Japanese in the Short Story Style — 13

Martina Benešová – Dan Faltýnek – Lukáš Hadwiger Zámečník

Menzerath-Altmann Law in Differently Segmented Texts — 27

Łukasz Dębowski

A New Universal Code Helps to Distinguish Natural Language from Random Texts — 41

Sheila Embleton – Dorin Uritescu – Eric S. Wheeler

The Advantages of Quantitative Studies for Dialectology — 51

Ján Mačutek

Type-token relation for word length motifs in Ukrainian texts — 63

George K. Mikros – Kostas Perifanos

Gender Identification in Modern Greek Tweets — 75

Sven Naumann

Syntactic Complexity in Quantitative Linguistics — 89

Adriana S. Pagano – Giacomo P. Figueredo – Annabelle Lukin

Measuring Proximity Between Source and Target Texts: an Exploratory Study — 103

Vasiliy Poddubnyy – Anatoly Polikarpov

Evolutionary Derivation of Laws for Polysemic and Age-Polysemic Distributions of Language Sign Ensembles — 115

Andrij Rovenchak

Quantitative Studies in the Corpus of Nko Periodicals — 125

Haruko Sanada

The Co-occurrence and Order of Valency in Japanese Sentences — 139

Jacques Savoy

Authorship Attribution Using Political Speeches — 153

Betsy Sneller

Using Rates of Change as a Diagnostic of Vowel Phonologization — 165

Petra C. Steiner

Diversification in the Noun Inflection of Old English — 181

Arjuna Tuzzi – Reinhard Köhler

Tracing the History of Words — 203

Relja Vulcanović – Tatjana Hrubik-Vulanović

Grammar Efficiency and the Idealization of Parts-of-speech Systems — 215

Yanru Wang – Xinying Chen

Structural Complexity of Simplified Chinese Characters — 229

Aris Xanthos – Guillaume Guex

On the Robust Measurement of Inflectional Diversity — 241

Makoto Yamazaki

The influence of Word Unit and Sentence Length on the Ratio of Parts of Speech in Japanese Texts — 255

References — 267

Index of Names — 269

Subject Index — 273

Authors' Addresses — 281